

Low-Income Dwelling Sites Earmarked For This Area

by DAVE CRIPPEN

More than 65 sites in or near five Northwest suburban communities may be under consideration by the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) for construction of low-income dwellings.

The Herald has learned that the CHA early this month obtained information on 13 sites in Elk Grove Township and 34 in Wheeling Township from the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). And it was reported CHA officials would ask NIPC for similar information on several other suburban townships, including Maine, that previously was not available.

These additional statistics show 20 possible sites in Maine Township.

NIPC Executive Director Matthew Rockwell said CHA reviewed a study the commission is currently preparing to identify suitable locations for low and moderate-income housing in the six-county metropolitan area.

A PRELIMINARY report now completed earmarked tracts of land in or near Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Mount Prospect for potential use in meeting subsidized housing needs.

When CHA first reviewed the study, it obtained information on Elk Grove Township, even though that area was not among 10 townships considered by NIPC to have "first priority" sites available. The preliminary report identified only

Maine and Wheeling Townships plus eight other townships, seven in Cook County and one in Kane County, as meeting the criteria for a first priority rating.

Exact locations of sites could not be determined, but maps prepared from aerial photographs showed tracts designated in both unincorporated and incorporated areas.

The report's statistics reflected roughly 425 acres available for construction of 2,296 units in or adjacent to Des Plaines.

In excess of 580 acres, enough space for 2,613 units, were available in or near Arlington Heights. And 513 acres of incorporated and unincorporated land in the Wheeling-Des Plaines area could be developed for 1,799 units, according to the statistics.

MORE THAN 2,600 units could be built on 568 acres shown by the report in or adjacent to Mount Prospect.

Figures on acreage and potential number of units in Elk Grove Township were not available.

NIPC officials pointed out their findings determined land and construction costs in each of the Northwest suburban townships exceeded funding limits set by the Federal Government. Therefore, as far as NIPC is concerned, the three townships in this area are not considered most desirable for low-income developments.

The CHA, however, is still expected to consider sites in the Northwest suburbs for its controversial plans.

CHA officials, maintaining their two-month-old silence on specific suburban locations, declined yesterday to elaborate on exactly how the NIPC report would be used.

CHA Executive Director C. E. Humphrey merely noted the study was valuable in determining the "needs of housing."

Humphrey also denied earlier reports by another top CHA official that meetings were underway with leaders of communities in which low-income housing was to be proposed.

He explained, "We have had discussions with some communities at their request to discuss the situation." But there reportedly has been no decision on specific sites.

"WE DON'T KNOW what we're going to do," Humphrey replied when asked about locations. Negotiation of an agreement with the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), he added, was the most immediate task facing CHA. Under state and federal laws, CCHA must give its approval for CHA to exert any authority outside Chicago.

CCHA Executive Director Victor Walchik reported a number of meetings with CHA had been held.

"We've met with them on several occasions," he said. "But there has been nothing definitive." Walchik would not comment on whether he thought an agreement would be reached.

Mayfest Music Festival Moved To Fieldhouse

Mayfest, a folk music gathering scheduled for May 16 at Elk Grove High School, will be moved from the out-of-doors to the school's fieldhouse, according to Robert Haskell, principal.

Speaking before the Elk Grove Village Board Tuesday Haskell said attendance at the affair will be limited to high school students from Districts 214, 211, and Maine West High School in Des Plaines.

Haskell said he has met with the students involved in Mayfest and that though they do not agree with the administration he said they support the administration.

"They agreed to go along with our concessions," said Haskell.

Mayfest had originally been scheduled for the football field near the high school. Advertising for the event was to have been extensive, a fact that alarmed some village officials.

The village manager and police chief who estimated two weeks ago 12,000 young persons would be drawn to the event recommended the event not be held.

Sentenced For 1969 Elk Grove Robbery

Jerry Stennis, 22, of Chicago, last week was sentenced by Criminal Court Judge Frank Wilson to from two to five years in prison for the December, 1969, armed robbery of Lester Lawrence and Sons, Inc., 2200 Lunt Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Stennis and Walter Herron, 24, also of Chicago, were arrested by Elk Grove Village police about a week after the robbery occurred. Herron is scheduled to appear in Criminal Court May 12.

Warrants have been issued for two other men believed to be connected with the robbery, said Det. Robert Canary.

Greenleaf Avenue Will Be Closed

Greenleaf Avenue for several hundred feet east of Busse Road in Elk Grove Village will be closed beginning tomorrow for from two to three weeks for reconstruction of the intersection, said Don Claglia, a village staff engineer. The intersection will remain open to local traffic.

THE MATTER was viewed in a new light this week when Haskell assured the village board the Fest would be scaled down considerably and there would be supervision by teachers.

He said the school would seek the fire department's guidance in setting a limit on the fieldhouse's capacity.

He said Mayfest will not go beyond 8 p.m. and it will probably not start until 2 p.m., a reduction of three hours from what students originally proposed April 6 when they appeared before the village board.

Haskell said when the affair was originally brought up, the administration had a lot of questions and had suggested the students check with the village manager.

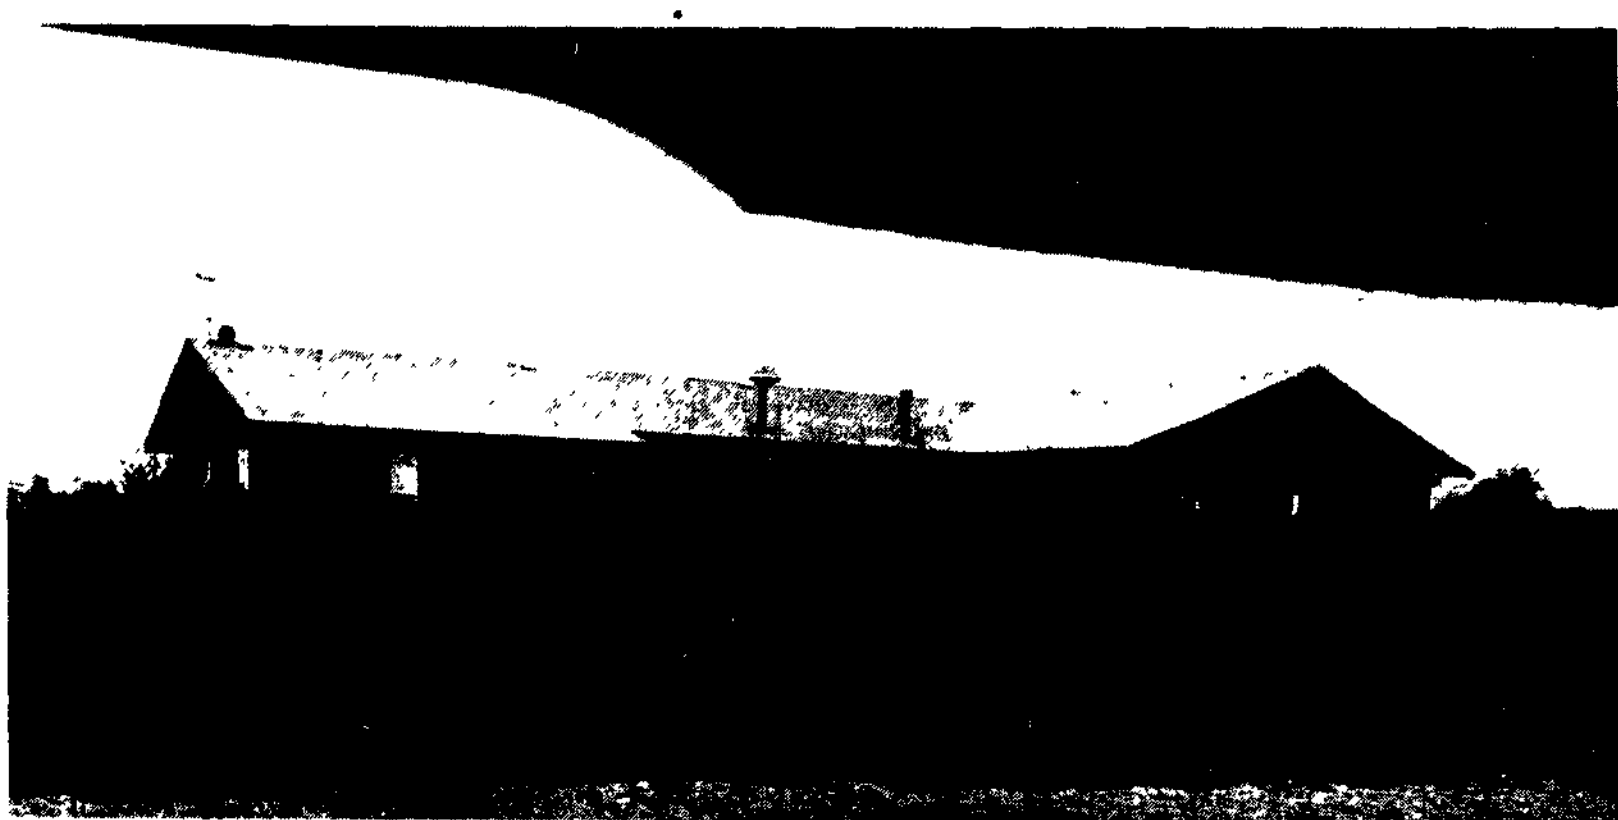

He said he did not mean for the students to appear before the village board though some of them did on two occasions.

"At no time did we send them here or shirk our responsibility," he said.

TRUSTEE RICHARD McGreener said the students advised the board they had been sent by the school staff.

Haskell earlier explained that Mayfest was part of a 30-day humanities celebration at the school and the students did not plan on doing anything to discredit the community.

He opened his remarks by saying there had been misinformation and possibly a breakdown in communication.

New Teen Center A Dream Come True?

Editor's Note: (It has been 10 years since Elk Grove Village gave teens any thought as an organized group. Now the question seems to be whether they were given too much as the Elk Grove Park District studies ways of keeping a struggling teen center from dying. The following is the first of a series on the events leading up to the teen center, the present status of the teen center, and what may be in store for the future.)

by JUDY MEHL

The concept of a teen center for Elk Grove Village developed from a dream to a disappointment, but when the dream first came it was a beautiful one, dreamed by many adults and teens alike.

Those dreamers were bred from a group that started in 1961 with the formation of a teen council for the organization of youth activities. The council worked closely with the youth advisory committee formed by the village.

THE ADVISORY committee proposed a youth commission in 1962 so that the group would have more powers, but the request was denied by the village board.

The groups became inactive after a while until 1967 when a "commercial" youth center and day nursery was proposed for a barn at 782 Tonne Rd. The proposal was made by Dino Gualano, a developer who wanted to operate them as a commercial business. However Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 had a lease on the property and was granted special zoning to use the barn as a storage area.

That same year the park district was born and a leisure, attitude and interest survey was made by the University of Illinois. The survey was later used as a basis for formation of the teen center built by the park district.

The survey included a list of facilities which teens felt they needed. The list included a night club but not a teen center.

ELK GROVE HIGH School also opened in 1967, sharing the school facility with the rapidly growing Harper College. Few extracurricular activities could take place at the high school because of Harper's program since it required that high school students must leave the building by 4 p.m.

The students' enthusiasm was channeled into a youth council formed again in 1968. That year discussions by several groups brought up the concept of a teen center again.

The Elk Grove Village Jaycees and B'nai B'rith took an active role in trying to establish a teen center. They were joined by the park district which said it would seriously consider building a teen center if there appeared to be a need.

Suzanne (Olson) Dunlap, the park district recreation superintendent at the time, was given the assignment to determine if there was a need and if the majority of youth would use a teen center.

From the response in numbers and enthusiasm which she received, it looked like the youth were ready for a center.

IT TOOK MONTHS of planning for teens and adults alike, and much red tape, and in September, 1969, gears meshed and official construction of the teen center began in Lions Park at 180 Kennedy Blvd.

An important section of the 1967 survey included a question: Who should plan youth programs?

The reply indicated it should be 64.6 per cent teen committees with adults, 28.9 per cent teens alone and 6.2 per cent park district personnel. This is what was basically happening. The center appeared to be on the road to success.

But that same year Harper College left Elk Grove High School and moved into its new facilities in Palatine. The high school then had the space necessary to develop more extracurricular activities.

BY 1970 the high school had developed over 200 clubs and organizations with advisers. Activities ranged from debate to ski clubs.

In February, 1970, seven months after bids were awarded on the $73,000 prefabricated structure, the teen center was ready for teens to "do their thing." But most of the teens were now involved at the high school.

(The next story will look at the teen center since it opened.)

Postal Service Gets Competition

by MARY RIEFSCHNEIDER

Mail pouches for local letter carriers should start getting lighter after Aug. 1. On that date private enterprise will start competing with the U.S. Post Office on delivery of second, third and fourth class mail items.

The Independent Postal System of America will expand its Chicago area operation to serve communities in Schaumburg, Palatine, Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships, according to Bill Radunz Jr., IPSA postmaster for this area.

The IPSA was founded three years ago in Oklahoma by Thomas Murray and now operates in 25 states and 48 cities. It is just starting to move into the metropolitan Chicago area. By the end of the year, IPSA expects to be operating in almost all of the Chicago suburbs, Radunz said.

IPSA CARRIERS, dressed in uniforms similar to those of regular mailmen, will be hired to deliver door-to-door, advertisements and other types of bulk mail, Radunz said.

IPSA will handle any type of mail provided the sender wants it delivered on a mass or selective route basis and that it isn't first class mail. By federal law, only the U.S. Post Office can deliver first class mail.

School Lunch Menus

The following lunches will be served Friday in area schools where a hot lunch program is provided (subject to change without notice).

Dist. 214: Main dish (one choice) turkey tetrazzini, barbecue on a bun, wiener in a bun. Vegetable (one choice) whipped potatoes, buttered green beans. Salad (one choice) fruit juice, tossed salad, cole slaw, molded gelatin salads. Caramel roll, butter and milk. Available desserts: Peach halves, tapioca pudding, apple pie, cherry cake and safari cookies.

St. Victor High School: Hot baked ham sandwich, buttered corn, fruit cup or fresh apple, buttered fudge cake and milk.

Dist. 211: Pizzaburger on a bun or hot fish sandwich with lettuce and tomato, "Tater Tots," orange juice, pear half and milk.

Dist. 125: Tuna noodle casserole with rolls and butter or hamburger on a bun with macaroni salad, peas and carrots, juice and milk.

Dist. 15: Grilled cheese sandwich, home made chicken soup, carrot and celery sticks, cherry sauce and milk.

Dist. 23: Grilled cheese sandwich, green sunshine salad, chilled fruit, cookie and milk.

Dist. 25: Macaroni and cheese, pizza square, tossed salad, cookie and milk. Rand Junior High School — Soup, toasted cheese sandwich, potato chips, fruit and milk.

Dist. 26 and St. Emily Catholic School: Grilled cheese sandwich, fresh banana, bar cookie and milk.

Dist. 21 and 34: Chuckwagon steak, mashed potatoes, green peas, bread with margarine, cookie and milk.

Local postmasters had varying opinions on what effects IPSA might have.

Edward Swan, Wheeling postmaster, said he sees both advantages and disadvantages to IPSA. "Many people don't like junk (bulk) mail. They blame its delivery on the Post Office and frankly I think it cheapens postal services."

"BUT IPSA could cut down on the number of people we employ. Once a postal employee is made a regular, he is guaranteed a 40 hour pay week. This is one of the reasons third class mail was established," Swan said.

His Post Office handled 153,000 pieces of mail last week, including 100,000 first class pieces and the remainder bulk mail.

William Watson, Prospect Heights postmaster, said he "rather discounts" the idea of private enterprise competing with the Post Office. He said he doesn't know much about the IPSA and added, "I don't think it will have much effect on the Post Office."

A spokesman in the Mount Prospect Post Office said since second class mail, newspapers and magazines, is low, IPSA will have little effect there.

He added that the Post Office's revenues could be hurt by drastic cuts in third class mail. "Most of the circulars we handle are mailed locally, so this isn't a money losing proposition," he said.

Mrs. Virginia Dodge, Arlington Heights postmaster, said she has received no information on the IPSA operation, though she's heard of it. On a four week average, the Arlington facility, which also serves Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village, handles 12 million pieces of mail. Counting only the outgoing mail, 700,000 pieces are third class mail and 25,000 are second class mail.

THE ROSELLE postmaster, Mrs. Irene Hitzeman, said she had no idea what effects IPSA would have on that Post Office which also serves Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates.

Mrs. Martha Webster, Palatine postmaster, said she has no information on the IPSA.

Housing Issue Pops Up Again

by TOM JACHIMIEC

The housing issue came up again recently on television when newscaster Walter Jacobson linked Elk Grove Village with public housing.

Jacobson said he had learned that Elk Grove was one of the suburbs the Chicago Housing Authority has been "negotiating" with, a statement that Elk Grove Village Pres Jack Pahl denies.

The Elk Grove Village Housing Commission, however, has met with the executive secretary of the CHA. The occasion was a public meeting last January in the village hall. The meeting was of an "informational" variety and not a negotiating session.

This is the only public meeting a village body has had with the CHA. If there's been another one then few people apparently know about it.

PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE? Dan Gilbert, who worked for the election of Jim Rooney to the library board, revealed that all those beautifully colored posters plugging Rooney are being stashed in the attic of Tom Rodgers, 57 Keswick Rd. The kids didn't have the heart to throw them away, said Gilbert, after they worked so hard to make them. Perhaps they'll be used again in two years by Rooney, a senior editor for a Chicago legal publishing firm.

John Jackson, new president of the Forest View Homeowners Association, which no longer has a fire protection contract with the municipal government, likes to be prepared. Not taking any chances, he has instructed his five children how to evacuate their two-story colonial in an emergency by having some rope ladders put in along with having five fire extinguishers "placed strategically from the basement to the attic," he said.

Former Trustee Eugene Keith's recent blast at county board Pres George Dunne and the county board over the condition of Arlington Heights Road was practically a campaign theme of Trustee Edward Kenna.

At both of the candidate nights prior to the election Kenna vowed to work to get the road improved. He said the three worst roads in the village are owned by the county (Landmeier, Biesterfeld, and Arlington Heights). Kenna said he'd see that something was done about them if it means closing them down, putting a sign up, and telling motorists that Dunne was responsible for them.

Said Kenna, "Dunne is the guy who got elected by saying 'This job is about people,'" and that he'd let Dunne know that 25,000 of those people are in Elk Grove Village.

There are 12 persons who lost out in last Tuesday's municipal, park, and library elections. Most of them demonstrated an interest in what goes on in the community. Now, what's going to happen to them?

They'd be good people to stay involved in some form of government — say the appointment to one of Jack Pahl's task forces.

Kenna Will Not Resign Post

Edward Kenna, an Elk Grove Village trustee, has changed his mind and decided not to resign from the village housing commission after saying he would resign last week.

Both the village board of trustees and housing commission had requested that Kenna remain on the housing commission.

Kenna said he changed his mind Tuesday night after considering their requests. Employed as a salesman, Kenna had earlier said that new responsibilities he had taken on with his employer and a conflict in making meetings because of his traveling schedule were his reasons for resigning.

A member of the housing commission since last summer when it was formed, Kenna had said last week he would ask that Richard McGrenera, former trustee and newly elected village clerk, replace him on the commission.

Jack Pahl, village president, in making the announcement that Kenna would remain on the commission, said Kenna had acquiesced to the requests of the board and commission.

Health Survey Will Be Completed By August 1

A comprehensive survey of health and the related environment in Elk Grove Village is expected to be completed by the village health board by Aug. 1.

A committee comprised of health board members and residents, which is conducting the study, released its schedule of planning at a meeting yesterday.

The survey is part of a study of the health needs and priorities in the village. It is designed to provide the board with a broad base of information to form a comprehensive health plan.

The committee will collect data in the areas of environment, personal health services and mental health.

CHAIRMAN OF special areas are being named to committees, although more volunteers are needed. Village Pres Jack Pahl and Health Board Pres Brother Ferdinand Leyva are expected to confer soon on where some of the data may already be available and who could provide it.

In other areas the information will have to be gathered according to Brother Stephen Skorca, a consultant for program development at St. Alexius hospital who is assisting the health board with the study.

The survey has been divided into three divisions. Mrs. Charles Brock was named chairman of the demography division and Donna Farley, chairman of the environment division. Both are board members. A chairman of the third division, personal health, has not been appointed.

The demography division will have a chairman for sections on a general description of the area, population, economic status of population, housing, and health determinants.

Areas in the environment division include water planning, air pollution, land use, noise control, environmental plans, disposal, health and sanitation, food and milk, transportation and environmental education.

Areas in the personal health division include: a catalog of available health services, school health, mental health (including drugs), institutional services, health education, senior citizens, home health services, and emergency services.

Interested persons should contact one of the health board members or the village hall, 439-3900.

Elk Grove Who?

Jack Claes, Elk Grove park director, said he was walking along the beach in Mazatlan, Mexico, last March while on vacation when a man, spotting his Elk Grove Park District T-shirt, asked him: "You're from Elk Grove, Calif., the town south of Sacramento?"

Claes, perhaps a little stunned, said politely, "No. I'm from Elk Grove Village, Ill."

Jack said he didn't bother to ask him if he had heard of it.

Sandra Little, recreation superintendent for the Elk Grove Park District, has been chosen as director of the Illinois State Middle Management Workshop to be held in Franklin Park, May 5. The program will probe the evaluation and designing of recreation and park appraisals.

On Dean's List

Eight Elk Grove Village residents have made the dean's list at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign. They are: Mark McKenzie, Arnold Kiehm, Angelina Damico, Thomas Nerl, LeRoy Schwerin Jr., Cynthia Zucker, Kirsten Reeder, and Kathleen Sanders.

Pomp And Circumstance: 8 Sworn In

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Eight residents were sworn into public office in Elk Grove Village amid a display of glowing speeches and laughter.

The occasion was inauguration night in the lower level village board chamber in the new municipal building at Wellington Avenue and Biesterfeld Road.

More than 80 persons waited 1½ hours through the regular village board meeting that preceded the canvassing of votes from the April 20 election and the swearing-in ceremonies.

Jack Pahl, village president, administered the oaths of office to incumbent trustees Ronald L. Chernick, Edward W. Kenna Jr. and James G. O'Brien who were elected to four-year terms; George T. Spees and Nancy L. Vanderweel elected to two-year terms on the village board; former Trustee Richard A. McGrenera, elected to a two-year term as village clerk; and Robert F. and Kathryn Mary Fleming reelected to six-year terms on the library board of directors.

The three incumbents were sworn in first. Mrs. Vanderweel, the first woman to be elected trustee in the village, appeared nervous with her left hand braced against the dais as she was sworn in with Spees.

Spees, a critic of the village in the campaign, was seated next to Kenna who joked: "Welcome to the new left."

Mrs. Fleming was sworn in with her husband and the new clerk, McGrenera. Robert Fleming said "This was the first election we didn't campaign." Members of the library board for a total of 24 years the Flemings were in Brownsville, Tex. on vacation the week before the election.

Trustee Charles Zettek, the only trustee who was not up for election this year, welcomed the trustees to the board.

"The greatest challenge is to emulate past boards," he said, adding that there has not been any board since the village was incorporated 14 years ago that "has not given all of its effort and time to the affairs of the community." Zettek has been a trustee for 10 years and a resident since 1957.

Each of the board members thanked the voters for electing them, with Mrs. Vanderweel reminding those present that she had already made good on her campaign promise — to take down her campaign posters.

"After tonight I'm no longer the junior member of the board," said Kenna who has been a trustee since August.

Earlier service recognition plaques were given to outgoing Trustee Eugene

Rescue And Firefighting Equipment Display Slated

A wide range of rescue and firefighting equipment will be on display May 3 through 8 on the mall at Randhurst Shopping Center, Rand and Elmhurst roads, Mount Prospect.

The Mount Prospect Fire Department will host the six-day show in observance of Fire Recognition Week which begins Sunday.

About 25 exhibits will be on display throughout the mall Monday through Saturday. The exhibits will be open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. and Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. There will be no admission charge.

Old and new firefighting equipment, tools, ambulance and rescue equipment will be on display.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Department will have on exhibit a simulated auto accident showing ambulance services and rescue methods used by firemen. A display on water safety rescue equipment and methods will also highlight the show.

The local exhibit will include an illustrated history of the fire department from 1927 to 1971. Displays on home fire safety rules and regulations and tornado safety will be sponsored by the Fire Prevention Bureau and Bureau of Emergency Planning.

Other organizations participating in the fire service show include the Salvation Army, Charles Bruning and Co. industrial fire brigade, Boy Scouts, Northwest Trauma Association, Randhurst Corporation and the University of Illinois.

MANY OF THE fire departments in the Northwest suburbs and surrounding communities will also participate in the show. Firefighting equipment from more than 20 fire departments will be on display Saturday, May 8, in the southeast parking lot of the shopping center.

The heavy firefighting and rescue equipment will be on display only Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Presentations explaining the equipment and its uses will be held at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The outdoor exhibit will point out the new concepts in design and color of firefighting equipment. A yellow fire engine with turquoise trim will be displayed by the Elmhurst Fire Department.

A variety of red, white and yellow fire engines and trucks will also be provided by other fire departments.

The Elk Grove Village Fire Department will have on exhibit its all-terrain vehicle, a pickup truck equipped with a deluge gun, the 100-foot aerial ladder truck and a model of the ambushed now under construction.

The indoor and outdoor exhibits will be staffed by firemen, who will be available to explain the services of the fire department and answer questions from the audience.

ACCORDING TO Fire Chief Larry Pairitz of Mount Prospect, the purpose of the show is to explain all the services provided by fire departments and alert the public to these programs.

"Most people think the main function of the fire department is to fight fires, but they're not acquainted with the wide variety of services we perform in addition to fighting fires. This is one of the reasons for the show. Another is to encourage awareness of the need for fire prevention in the home," Pairitz said.

The six-day show was designed and coordinated by Capt. Ray Kordecki, Lt. Kenneth Koeppen and Fireman Lowell Fell of the Mount Prospect Fire Department. Also included in the planning of specific exhibits are Firemen Donald Barra, Don Reynolds and Lt. Stu McKillop.

Pairitz said he hopes the show, in recognition of the fire service, will be continued on an annual basis in the Northwest suburban area.

New Nursing Home Rules

Charges of "strongarm" investigative techniques by Cook County building inspectors at Magnus Farm have resulted in establishment of guidelines for conduct by inspectors in the nursing home, according to A. B. Magnus, administrator of the privately operated home for the elderly at 801 E. Central Rd., Arlington Heights.

The charges were made in a letter mailed to relatives of residents by Magnus after building inspectors arrived unannounced on April 15 and April 21.

On the first visit, Magnus charged, a group of six men arrived at the nursing home during his absence. He said that after refusing to accept escorts, they "barged into both patient and female staff rooms without even knocking; rapped on walls, doors and plumbing as well as opened closet doors, apparently in an effort to secure construction data."

Magnus said that at the time, "several of our residents were being bathed, dressed and otherwise cared for." He said the disruptions resulted in a virtual cessation of nursing care.

A TEAM OF NINE inspectors appeared at the home on April 21 demanding unrestricted access to all areas, Magnus said. He said he threatened to summon police to guard the privacy of residents.

He said one of the inspectors then called the state's attorney's office for instructions and the team left the nursing home.

Subsequently, he charged, he was informed by an assistant state's attorney that "nobody from God on down was going to stop them." The assistant state's attorney, he said, told him considerations of patient privacy, welfare and care were "not relevant."

Commissioner William F. Harris of the county Department of Building, Zoning and Air Pollution Control, said yesterday he found Magnus' charges difficult to believe.

"I believe that our inspections are conducted in a professional manner," said Harris. He added that the department "has an obligation to make certain that the care of patients was not interrupted" by inspections.

HARRIS DEFENDED the value of unannounced inspections, pointing out that poor conditions in institutions can be corrected temporarily when the inspectors are expected. "But," he said, "we have agreed to complete inspections at Magnus Farm according to their request."

Inspections have been scheduled tomorrow and Monday at the farm. According to Magnus, Harris agreed that not more than four inspectors would be used and all would be accompanied by staff nursing personnel at all times and that "patient dignity and well-being will be of paramount concern."

He also said that the home had agreed that the building department would conduct "as comprehensive an inspection of our physical plant as they deem appropriate."

Set Friendship Party

The Shish-Ta-Ka-Da group of fifth grade Camp Fire girls in Elk Grove Village will hold an international friendship party at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Salt Creek School, 65 Kennedy Blvd.

The Friendly Blue Birds and the Sweet Blue Birds, second and third grade groups, have been invited to the party, which will include games, dances, music and foreign songs, and international foods.

Holding the party are Kathy Fehring, Nancy Godejohn, Jenny Lerum, Maryann May, Valerie Morrison and Judy Weber.

Keith Letter Gets Response

An aide to George Dunne, chairman of the Cook County Board, has been directed to investigate a complaint on the deteriorating condition of Arlington Heights Road.

The complaint was made April 23 in a letter to Dunne by Eugene Keith, who at the time was an Elk Grove Village Trustee.

Keith, at his last village board meeting Tuesday, said the aide, Edward Pressberry, was to meet with village officials to discuss the condition of the road also known as State Road.

A meeting was tentatively scheduled for next Wednesday, though Keith said yesterday, "I'm not sure I want to wait that long."

Keith, who said he will be an interested observer at the meeting, indicated he felt the problem is serious and deserves immediate attention.

IN HIS LETTER, Keith was highly critical of Dunne and the county board, calling the road "Dunne's death drive" and an "asphalt bubonic plague which has not yet created a deadly havoc only through pure luck."

He said that of three county roads in the village, including Biesterfeld, Landmeier, and Arlington Heights, the latter was in the worst condition.

He noted the county highway department does not plan to widen and reconstruct Arlington Heights Road until 1974. "You have even failed to heed our simple request to reduce the speed limit to 30 mph," said Keith in the letter. The limit is 40 mph.

Keith ended eight years in public office this week when five new members of the village board were sworn in.

Mrs. Schwellenbach, introduced by Pahl as the "first acting clerk in the history of Elk Grove Village," lost in her bid for election by 12 votes.

Students Ready To Entertain

After three months of practicing students at Sacred Heart of Mary High School Rolling Meadows are ready to entertain the public.

They will sing, dance and make people laugh. And they will accomplish this all in the 1971 edition of the Sacred Heart Variety Show to be held this weekend. According to student producer Judy Michaels, the show will have two acts containing the 20 best acts by Sacred Heart students this year. Performances will range from ballet to a spoof of the Supremes.

Miss Michaels, a senior at the school, pointed out that a good number of the acts this year will be taken from Broadway musicals. Excerpts from "Hello Dolly," "Funny Girl," "Sweet Charity" and "South Pacific" are to be performed. THE "FUNNY GIRL" number, "Roll er Skate Rag," will be acted out on roller skates while the "South Pacific" excerpt "Some Enchanted Evening," will be done in ballet featuring Sue Tardy, she said.

Several singing groups, including one specializing in folk music, will be featured in the show. There will also be a solo dance number featuring Kathy Howard, a senior at the school, as a scrub woman.

There will be several comedy skits, Miss Michaels said. Among them will be a take-off on "The Leader of the Pack," a hit song of the early 1960's.

Providing the music at this year's show is the St. Viator's student orchestra. Conducting the group will be St. Viator's music director Tim Sult.

Student involvement is evident throughout the Variety Show. In addition to originating the acts and performing in them, the students at Sacred Heart are also working as costumers and stage hands. In addition to Miss Michaels, Nancy Crump is the show's stage director.

Students also selected the acts that will perform in the show. Faculty advisors Jim Marx gave the students a little assistance throughout the weeks of preparation.

Admission to the show is $1.50 for adults and $1 for children under 12. It will be held in Sacred Heart at 8 p.m. Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday. Everyone is invited to attend.

Park Activity Brochure To Be Mailed

The summer brochure of Elk Grove Park District activities is expected to be mailed to residents next week, according to Sandra Little, recreation superintendent.

The brochure includes programs being offered by the district this summer and information on cost, location, and how to sign up.

Most of the programs begin the week of June 28.

They include preschool recreation (Camp Wapiti), Day junior high and high school programs at the teen center sports, arts and crafts, and recreation programs for handicapped children.

Special programs include the Elk Grove Poppets, puppetry classes, dog obedience classes, outdoor band concerts on Wednesday evenings, and Thursday night at the movies.

THERE WILL also be a balloon flying contest, village olympics, a track meet, playground carnival, water shows, field trips, and a family cook-out and fun night.

The Elk Grove Village Men's and Boys Choir and a tour of England, Scotland and Ireland are two new offerings.

Playground recreation will also be provided for children 6 years old and up for seven weeks.

Most of the fees for the programs have remained the same as last year, according to Mrs. Little.

Arlington High Wall Victim Returns Home From Hospital

Boice has been released from the hospital and has gone home to complete his recovery from injuries he received more than three months ago.

The 17-year-old Arlington High School senior was released from Northwest Community Hospital Sunday. He was one of three students injured in a freak accident at the school Jan. 20.

Another student, William Horn, 17, of 1415 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, died early Easter Sunday at the hospital as a result of injuries he received in the accident. The third student, William Kelly, 17, of 751 S. Burton Pl., Arlington Heights, was released from the hospital Jan. 30.

Boice, of 815 S. Bridge Ave., Arlington Heights, originally thought to be the student most seriously injured, underwent surgery on his liver at least twice during his stay at the hospital. All three students received compressed spinal fractures in the accident. Boice also received four broken ribs and a lacerated liver. Since the accident he had also reportedly contracted hepatitis and a staph infection.

A SPOKESMAN AT THE hospital said Boice will be confined to bed until his temperature stabilizes.

The students were injured as a result of a prank between classes at the school.

Police and school officials said two other students had barred the double doors of a washroom locking the trio in. They were attempting to force open the door, bracing themselves against a free-standing, modesty wall when the wall collapsed on them.

The students allegedly responsible for the incident were charged by police with reckless conduct and are scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights Court May 21.

Dismissal Ruling Upheld

A circuit court judge has upheld a decision by the Des Plaines Board of Fire and Police Commissioners to dismiss a policeman charged last year with possession of marijuana.

In a ruling, Monday, Judge Edward Egan, 10th Circuit, affirmed the board's decision to fire William Fox, 31, who was arrested last June after a police raid on his former home at 138 W. Bradley St., Des Plaines.

Though he upheld the board's decision to fire Fox, Judge Egan ordered that pounded the transcripts of the hearings and of the court appeal, in effect erasing them from Fox's employment record.

At the hearing Egan indicated that he would have ruled differently if he had been sitting on the fire and police board during hearings on the charges against Fox, who was accused of bringing the fire department into disrepute.

Fox was not tried on the marijuana charge.

'Go Navy' Theme Feature Of Fair

A "Go Navy" theme will highlight the second annual Loyalty Day Fun Fair to be held from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at Clearmont School, 290 Clearmont Dr., Elk Grove Village.

The theme will be carried throughout the day beginning with a flag-raising ceremony at 9:30 a.m. and a bike decorating contest at 9:45 a.m. Village Pres Jack Pahl will also read a proclamation.

A special feature of the fair will be the Naval display which includes a 10-foot submarine donated by Chief Petty Officer Glenn Payne, U.S. Recruiting Officer in Des Plaines. There are photographs of Navy dress from 1800 to the present, paintings of historical Naval engagements, and a display of Navy flight gear.

Navy Post 924 will sponsor a game booth entitled "Sink The Bismarck" and school children will be patroled by fathers wearing Navy uniforms.

Food, soft drinks, and candy will be available, as well as prizes at the game booths.

Just Politics

by Ed Murnane

A new bid has been launched in Springfield to change the date of primary elections in Illinois and also to give the state a meaningful presidential primary every four years.

The latest effort is being directed by the Committee on Illinois Government, a liberal-oriented, generally Democratic organization.

The CIG is pushing a package of 19 bills which would change the primary date from the third Tuesday of March to the third Tuesday of May, and would also change the manner in which delegates to the national political party nominating conventions are selected.

The CIG proposes that delegate candidates be allowed to indicate on the primary ballot what candidate for President they intend to vote for on the first ballot at the convention.

A candidate would also have the option of expressing no preference.

"This process would give the rank and file of both parties at least some say in whom their conventions nominate and it would make the Illinois primary an important national indicator of presidential preference," said Frank Cicero, CIG vice chairman.

CICERO, WHO was a delegate at the Illinois Constitutional Convention, told United Press International that delegate selection in Illinois "has largely been invisible and closed."

Currently, delegate selection by both parties is a mixture of election in congressional districts and appointment by the state central committee of the parties.

There is little opportunity for party faithful to express their feelings about who the presidential nominee should be and there generally is no competition in contests for delegate seats.

Other items in the election reform package include proposals for direct popular election in the primary of the chairman of county central committees and for a reduction in the number of signatures on nominating petitions for ward and township committeemen.

WELFARE ROLLS in Illinois, one of the prime contributors to the state's financial difficulties, continue to get bigger.

Harold O. Swank, deputy director of the Department of Public Aid, said preliminary figures for March said 37,326 persons were added to the welfare list last month. That means more than 800,000 persons are now on welfare in the state.

Southern Illinois communities continue to have the highest percentage of persons on relief. More than 30 per cent of the population of Pulaski County is on welfare and 29.7 per cent of Alexander County is.

Statewide, 21 per cent of the population is on relief while 9.4 per cent of Cook County residents are receiving welfare checks.

COMMENTARY ON ILLINOIS' pollution. The new state highway map lists 99 recreation areas in the state and swimming is allowed at only five. Fishing and boating are allowed at most, which means the water is there but stay out of it.

Minority Groups Hampered By Industry Moves

by MARY REIFSCHEIDER

The job exodus from central Chicago to suburbs as industries relocate, is excluding blacks and other minorities living in the inner-city from employment opportunities, according to the Chicago Urban League.

The answer to the problem, according to a research report completed by the League, is coordination of all mass transportation in the Chicago area.

The report, released today contends that blacks are often left unemployed because they do not have a means of transportation that will permit them to follow a firm's relocation from Chicago to a suburb.

The lack of public and private transportation excludes the inner-city blacks from accepting employment in the expanding suburban job market.

The report stresses that transportation solutions alone will not solve the problems for black job-seekers. "The need for opening up housing opportunities for black citizens in suburban areas must go hand in hand with improvements in transportation accessibility from the inner city to suburban job sites."

THE REPORT points out that nationally, 75 to 80 per cent of new employment in trade and industry goes to the suburbs. Statistics show from 1955 through 1964 Chicago lost some 90,000 jobs, mainly from the west and south side black areas.

Blacks, generally employed in lower skilled or unskilled jobs, also suffer "from a severe lack of employment information about suburban jobs," the report states.

"Jobs that may be advertised in small suburban newspapers may never be known to inner-city workers. Many small suburban companies may be able to skirt fair employment practices on the basis that no blacks have ever applied for advertised jobs," the report adds.

But even when blacks have the opportunity to work in a suburban industry, they must often turn it down because of the high costs of "reverse commuting," according to the report.

The reverse commuter, the person who travels from the city to a suburban job, must depend almost exclusively on a personal automobile for transportation. Public transportation is not available.

"Many potential reverse commuters cannot use an automobile for they simply cannot afford to purchase a car," the report says.

REVERSE COMMUTING without a car becomes a time-consuming and costly proposition.

The worker must often start with bus or "el" transportation from his home to a commuter railroad station downtown. When he arrives at a suburban community, he must find transportation from the train station to the place of employment; local taxis are usually the only transportation.

A sample journey in the report states the monthly cost of commuting between Cabrini Homes to the Western Accelerator Project, a distance of 33 miles, costs $59, excluding cab fares or $174 by automobile, excluding toll costs.

Possible solutions recommended by the Urban League include buying or chartering a bus to provide transportation between employees' homes and job sites; purchase a fleet of used cars to rent to new employees; and operation of shuttle services.

FEDERAL FUNDS are available for demonstration projects and the Urban League has five ideas for the funds.

—CTA and suburban rail and bus services should be better coordinated by joint fares and transfers without loss of needed revenue to individual carriers.

—Establish a central telephone information service so Chicago area transit riders can obtain complete fares, routings and schedules on any of the transportation systems in the metropolitan area with a single phone call.

—Gather more information on the origin and destinations of reverse commuters.

—Increase the use of taxi and jitney services to provide more mobility both in the inner-city as feeder services to rapid transit routes and in the suburbs between rail stations and employment opportunities.

—Provide greater flexibility to the legislative bodies in Chicago, Cook and surrounding counties and Springfield, along with the transportation carriers to experiment with innovative demonstration programs.

Counseling Center For Des Plaines?

by CYNTHIA TIVERS

A fund raising plea for the Community Counseling Center in Des Plaines was made yesterday at a breakfast meeting for about 30 northwest suburban clergymen in the South Community Baptist Church in Mount Prospect.

The Community Counseling Center, a suburban branch of the Salvation Army Family Service Division, provides various types of counseling to individuals in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg, Wheeling and unincorporated School Dist. 63.

Each of the communities contributes to the Counseling Center through their Community Chest. It is also funded by individual contributions and fees charged for service. Until last year it received funds from the four townships it serves but the recent freeze on township funds has left the Center with a $15,000 deficit this year.

According to the Center's director, Mrs. Margaret Lisinski, the Center cannot continue to operate unless their deficit is met. It is the only such counseling center in the Northwest suburbs.

The clergymen were asked yesterday to take the message of need by the Counseling Center back to their communities.

"THE PEOPLE HERE have demonstrated their need for our service," said Miss Mary Young, Welfare Services Consultant and Program Co-ordinator for the Salvation Army Family Service Division, "the effectiveness of our agency is shown every day."

"Just looking at statistics," she said, "we saw 684 families last year and that's about 1,000 people. The Counseling Service helps people find their potential for making adjustments, the fact that we are used shows our effectiveness."

"Now I hope that you, as the leadership of your community," Miss Young added, "will take our message — our need to the people."

Mrs. Jane Gottwald of Park Ridge told the clergymen of her experience with the Counseling Center's Homemaker Service. "My family became acquainted with the Center six years ago," she said, "through a stroke of luck we found out about their services and I'll be forever grateful that we did."

Mrs. Gottwald said she had been hospitalized for 18 weeks with severe depression. "I couldn't talk. I couldn't do anything I was helpless."

MRS. GOTTWALD had two small children and was expecting a third at the time of her hospitalization. "I was troubled that I couldn't take care of my two children — let alone a third."

After the baby was born the Counseling Center sent an experienced homemaker to the Gottwald's house. "Mrs. Jackson would travel over 20 miles a day. She came at 8 a.m. and left at 5. She took total care of our children and the house. She ignored me in a polite way and I was relaxed with her attitude. As a stranger she put my problems in perspective and little by little I felt better and did more."

"During the next seven months," Mrs. Gottwald continued, "Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Licinski and my husband worked as a team. I went off my medicine and Mrs. Jackson gradually left us. The effects of her stay are still felt."

Charles Hayes, Executive Editor of Paddock Publications and a member of the Counseling Center's board of advisors, also addressed the clergymen.

"As I see it," Hayes said, "there is an emergency and a need by the Commu-

"The Community Counseling Center is all we have," he continued, "and we're going to lose it — unless this community gets together and recognizes the need of this center."

"The Salvation Army is the only agency that has recognized that we need help in the Northwest suburbs," Hayes said. "We all have a responsibility and obligation to get involved in keeping it here."

Arbor Day Not Special To Foresters

Arbor Day, being observed Friday and Saturday, is described as "the day designated to plant trees." However, planting trees is a year round job for the Illinois Department of Conservation's Division of Forestry.

The 122 full time employees of the Forestry Division, located throughout Illinois, do everything from planting trees to helping market lumber.

"A forester's job starts with a seed and from there is an endless task," said State Forester H. F. Siemert.

The Forestry Division is split into five sections: reforestation, woodland management, forest products, fire control and urban forestry. The goal of each is to improve the woodlands and environment of Illinois.

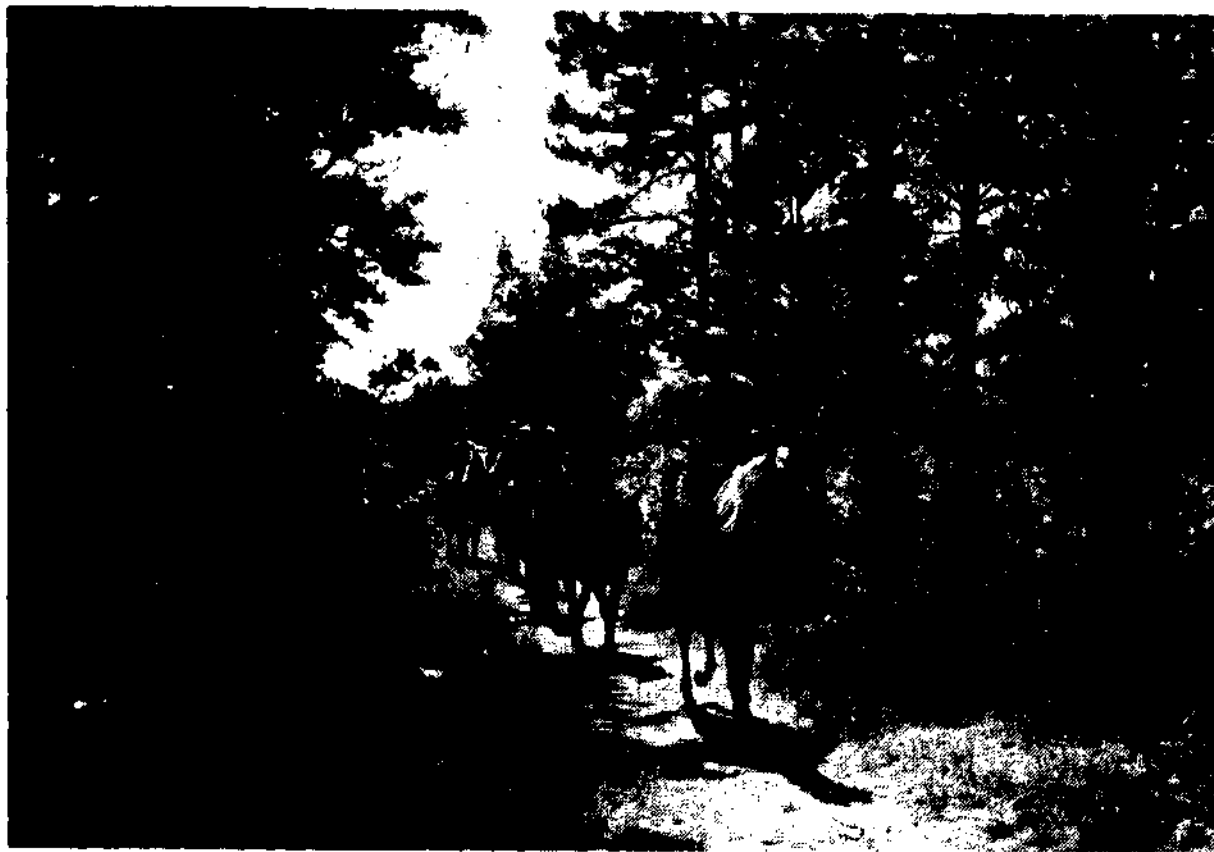

The reforestation section annually provides about 6.5 million seedlings for planting to 2,000 to 2,500 landowners and industries in the state at a minimum cost. The state has nurseries in Union and Mason Counties for growing the seedlings.

"THESE SEEDLINGS are basically intended for rural land reforestation rather than for ornamental value. Under no circumstances do we allow trees to be re-sold or used for landscaping," Al Mickelson, staff forester in charge of reforestation, said.

This section also handles the reforestation of state parks and conservation areas and manages the four state forests located in Union, Henderson, Shelby and Mason counties. The 12,000 acres of state forests have multiple use recreational facilities, including picnicking, camping, bridle trails, cycling, fishing and hunting.

Last year the woodland management section dealt with over 2,000 requests for assistance. These requests took the 21 district foresters over 55,000 acres of timber land.

"We look at the forest and tell the landowner what is there, how fast it is growing, whether it should be thinned out or what. We can only make suggestions though, the landowner has to make the decisions," Lou Sohaney, staff forester, said.

TWENTY FIRE WARDENS are scattered across the state to prevent fire from destroying Illinois' 7 million acres of timber and adjoining fields. Last year 201 forest fires destroyed 7,062 acres of timber.

The urban forestry section was created in 1968. "The intent of this section is to improve the quality of the urban environment with woody plants," said Ernie Kunze, staff forester.

"WE TRY TO develop a tree and shrub planting program to fit the needs of the community. Although we are geared to help all the cities, we are focusing our attention on the smaller communities of 5,000 or less which have limited resources," Kunze said.

Last year this section answered 1,100 requests for assistance and helped develop multiple-use plans for communities interested in beautifying parks, boulevards and streets.

The forest products section is designed to encourage and assist the forest products industry in the state. The section also publishes a quarterly magazine for timber buyers and sellers entitled, "Wooden Dollars."

Last year the division began cataloging record-size Illinois trees by species. The inventory gives the location, species, height, spread and trunk girth.

There are 179 native and exotic varieties catalogued, with 22 recognized as national record specimens.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Doctor Lamb — I have previously had TB of the kidney. The doctors say it is cleared up. I still have pains in my back and kidney and wonder if this is normal. My urine has been checked and it shows nothing. Could there be anything else that causes this pain in the lower right side and back? I would also like to know why they just X ray the chest when they know I had TB elsewhere and why they don't check you where you have it.

Dear Reader — There are many things which can cause pain in the right side and back, including problems of the colon, particularly if someone is under emotional stress. Muscle pains and abnormality of the spine also cause difficulties in this area.

Regarding X rays, the chest is most often X rayed because one can easily see signs of tuberculosis in the lungs. This is not true of many other organs like the kidney since all the X ray often does is to outline a shadow of the shape of the organ itself. The difference is that the lungs are full of air and a kidney, for example, is not. This is why it is better to do examination of the urine to tell how the kidneys are functioning than it is to use an X-ray examination when one is looking for tuberculosis.

There are some other examples where the X ray is useful in tuberculosis besides just the lungs. If tuberculous infection involves bone and causes enough erosion or damage to the bone, these changes can be seen.

Dear Doctor Lamb — I am 52 and so is my husband. In the last nine months, our sex life has diminished to almost nothing. He is not stepping out, but says if it is over it will just be over. Frankly, I'm not ready to give up at 52 myself, but would do anything for his peace of mind. He thinks all the other fellows his age just talk. Is this so?

Dear Reader — There is a wide variation in sexual behavior. Increasing age does not necessarily mean loss of sexual desire. Grandma and grandpa are still sexual creatures even though society sometimes fails to accept this. The hangup on sex began with the idea that sex was solely for procreation, not pleasure or expression of love. Society gradually accepted that pleasure was all right to—hence birth control and more permissive attitudes.

Previously women were not supposed to enjoy sex and, being brainwashed to accept this, many did not. This emphasizes the powerful influence the psychic has on sexual behavior. Men are no different.

Men's sexual desire usually decreases in middle age. They tend to start with a very active sex life, then taper off. Women begin slower and often achieve their peak desire after the menopause. The loss of fear of pregnancy is one factor. Sex is tied to the feeling of youth and women are age-conscious. The result can be a middle-aged mismatch. Some men continue active sex lives beyond the age of 70—even fathering children.

A lagging sex life can change to an outstanding performance when the right physical and emotional stimulus occurs.

Opinions vary on whether or not there is a "male menopause." Yes, men—and not necessarily older ones—often "talk a good game." But locker room heroes may be lousy lovers trying to reemphasize their masculinity by bragging. The best approach to sexual problems is to begin with a good talk with your family doctor. If a medical reason exists it can sometimes be corrected. If it is psychological then education often helps. Occasionally a good vacation for just the couple—away from problems—works wonders.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Those of you who remember Alice in Wonderland will recall the grinning Cheshire cat. In the story we find the cat disappearing and the grin remaining.

Today finds Alice playing a seven-diamond contract with the Cheshire cat sitting West and the Duchess East.

Alice had hoped to find a better dummy. After all her partner had jumped to two no-trump and then used Blackwood.

"Curiouser and curiouser," she mused. "Everyone bids too much here." She looked at her opponents. The Cheshire cat's grin seemed broader than ever while the Duchess on her right was almost asleep.

"If the club finesse is on or spades break 3-3 I have 13 tricks, but that cat looks too happy. He must hold four spades and the king of clubs. If he has five hearts also I may spoil his fun."

At trick two she carefully ruffed a low heart. Then she started to run trumps. The cat followed to the first two and had no problem discarding the eight of clubs and a heart on the next two leads.

The grin disappeared entirely when Alice played her last trump. The cat turned, fumbled and finally dropped his king of clubs. He knew a heart or spade discard would give Alice her 13th trick.

Alice showed her hand. The cat paused long enough to say, "She's too good for

Parents To Get Vote Information

A letter urging residents to vote May 15 in High School Dist. 214 is being mailed to parents of eighth grade and high school students this week by school officials. The letter is not being sent to any other district taxpayers.

Under a cover letter from Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert and building principals urging voter turnout are details of the $10.5 million referendum to build an eighth high school on the Arlington Heights-Dundee Road site in Buffalo Grove.

"Within the next two years all of our schools will exceed their enrollment capacities. John Hersey and Wheeling High Schools will exceed their reasonable capacity by 800-900 students," Gilbert said.

After several years of consultation with citizens' groups, staff and specialists in school construction, the Dist. 214 school board has decided the continued growth can best be met through construction of a new high school in the Buffalo Grove area, Gilbert stated in his letter.

THE INFORMATION bulletin accompanying the letter gives a projected building enrollment through 1975 for the seven high schools now in the district. All will be over capacity, though Wheeling and Hersey High Schools will be affected most.

Without another high school in the northern part of the district, the board will have to change school attendance boundary lines again, parents are told in the bulletin. Last year, boundary changes were drawn to provide enrollment for Rolling Meadows High School and with an eighth high school in mind.

The attendance boundary discussion by the board was one of the controversial issues which brought several citizen groups to the board with petitions and suggestions for redrawing the lines.

DIST. 214 is asking voters to approve $10.5 million for constructing and equipping a school for 2,500 students. The site, located at the intersection of Arlington Heights and Dundee Roads, was purchased in 1962. If the referendum is approved by Dist. 214 voters, the new school will be open for the 1973-74 school year.

For a voter with a $30,000 home, district administrators estimate construction of the eighth high school will add about $4.50 to the property tax bill. A continued increase in the district's assessed valuation may lower the figure in the next few years, though, they stated.

The bulletin also explains that a 12-month school year would not necessarily alleviate overcrowding. Studies of districts which have implemented a 12-month plan show residents prefer the traditional plan with the summer months left for optional classwork.

Residents will vote on the referendum Saturday, May 15, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the same polling places where they voted in the school board election earlier this month. An additional precinct for newly annexed Rolling Meadows residents will be set up at Central Road School.

Milwaukee Road OKs Pact With Amtrak

Curtiss E. Crippen, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad Co., announced that the railroad has signed a contract with the National Railroad Passenger Corp. (Amtrak) to operate its trains over designated routes, effective May 1.

Three daily trains will be operated in each direction on the Milwaukee Road between Chicago and Milwaukee. A daily train between Chicago and Seattle will be operated on the Milwaukee Road between Chicago and Minneapolis, and on the Burlington Northern beyond.

April 30 will be the last date of operation of the Milwaukee Road's Cities train from Chicago to Omaha; the Twin Cities Hiawatha between Chicago and Minneapolis; train No. 56 from Minneapolis to Chicago; and the service between Chicago and Madison, Wis.

New Harper Student Code Prepared

An eight-man committee at Harper College has prepared a revised student conduct code to be submitted for approval to various governmental bodies at the community college.

On Tuesday night, the committee, composed of students, board members, faculty members and administrators, completed final work on the revised code.

It will be submitted to the college's Faculty Senate, Student Senate and board of trustees for further revisions and final approval.

The five members of the committee present Tuesday agreed to include on the list of possible violations a statement listing "lewd or obscene conduct as defined by law."

Board member Jessalyn Nicklas, recently appointed chairman of the committee, argued for inclusion of the statement on the grounds that students needed to be warned of the possible legal dangers of the use of obscenities.

OTHER MEMBERS of the committee argued that inclusion would be offensive and provocative to students, thus it should not be included.

Omar Olson, dean of continuing education, said that older students, especially evening students, had complained to him about student behavior. He said student opinion would probably support the evening students' objections, and called for some reference to obscenities in the code.

The committee then voted 3-2 to include the obscenity clause in the list of possible violations on campus.

The final copy of the document includes a list of violations of federal, state and local laws which can call for college disciplinary action. It also lists procedures for disciplinary proceedings against students.

If approved, the code would replace a somewhat similar code which is published in the college's 1970-71 student handbook.

THE COMMITTEE, called the Student Unrest Committee, was formed in November, 1970, to update the college's procedures in handling potential student unrest situations.

It has met about 15 times since then and has called such persons as Joseph Mandarino, campus safety chief, and Paul Moore, college law enforcement coordinator, to discuss campus problems and procedures.

Board member John Haas served as chairman of the committee until April, when he retired from the board. Mrs. Nicklas was appointed at that time to replace him as chairman.

Local Educators Behind Bills Aiding Districts

by TOM WELLMAN

Local educators have lined up strongly behind two bills in Springfield designed to aid local school districts short of funds.

A spokesman for High School Dist. 214 reported yesterday between three and seven school officials have journeyed to Springfield in the last two days to attend committee hearings on SB632.

SB632, and a companion bill, HB1485, are designed to provide more state aid with separate elementary and high school districts.

On Tuesday, the Senate bill was approved by the Senate Education committee. It now goes to the full Senate for action.

Dist 214 officials who attended Tuesday's hearings on the bill included Robert Weber, assistant superintendent for business affairs, Jack Swanson, assistant business administrator, and John Brooks, purchasing agent.

The Dist. 214 spokesman said that as many as four district officials may have attended hearings on the legislation yesterday in Springfield.

Kenneth Gill, superintendent of Dist. 21 (Wheeling-Buffalo Grove) said he did not know of any elementary superintendents who attended the hearing.

However, he said that elementary officials had sent telegrams and letters to legislators, urging support for the passage of the bills.

The Senate and House bills would reduce a qualifying rate for state aid for high school districts from 60 cents to 70 cents over a two-year period and would cut the qualifying rate for elementary districts to 62 cents during the same length of time.

Unit districts (districts which combine elementary and high school districts) have been benefited in recent years by a lower qualifying rate for state aid.

Unit districts — of which there are none in the Northwest suburbs — have had to have a tax rate of $1.08 to qualify for state aid. Dual districts have had to have a combined rate of $1.80 to qualify.

The bills have also gained the support of Robert Hanrahan, Cook County School Superintendent Hanrahan, according to his office, is encouraging PTA groups, local Chambers of Commerce, labor unions and other groups to support the bill in writing.

His office reports he considers the measures some relief to dual districts until a new formula can be developed through legislative action to replace the existing state aid formula.

Paulsen In Harper Performance Today

Comedian and sometimes-politician Pat Paulsen will take a satirical look at issues ranging from politics to the sexual revolution at 8 p.m. today at Harper College.

His lecture, "Pat Paulsen Looks at the '70's," is sponsored by Harper Cultural Arts Committee. The college's campus is located at Algonquin and Roselle Roads in Palatine.

Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for non-Harper students. Harper students, staff members and faculty with ID cards will be admitted free.

Paulsen rose to prominence in 1968 when he launched his presidential campaign on the Smothers Brothers television show. Although he was defeated, he had been known as the unchallenged favorite of the Straight Talking American Government (STAG) party.

In his lecture tonight at Harper, Paulsen will discuss "Astrology, Zen, Occult and Things That Go Bump in the Night" and "How To Survive The Next Ten Years."

Veterans' News

The director of the Veterans Administration regional office in Chicago has reported 280 Illinois veterans were insured for $2,064,465 under five government life insurance programs in 1970.

John B. Naser said Illinois veterans also received $14,621 in dividends during the year.

The VA official's comments were based on the agency's recently released annual report on insurance operations.

Nationally, Naser noted more than 5 million veterans were insured for about $38 billion last year, and income from all five insurance programs totalled just over $1 billion.

The report revealed that VA paid nearly $301 million in death claims, and another $180 million as monthly income based on earlier claims.

Other VA insurance transactions included payment of $30 million in disability benefits to one group of policy holders and $52 million to another group whose endowment policies matured.

IN ADDITION, VA authorized a record $275 million in dividends to be paid this year to veterans holding World War I United States Government Life Insurance and World War II National Service Life Insurance policies.

Veterans chose to leave about $82 million in dividends with VA to draw interest in 1970. Also during the year, VA placed $106 million in policy reserve accounts.

VA's annual insurance report took note of the enactment of Public Law 91-291 last June which liberalized some aspects of the agency's insurance operations.

For example, one provision increased coverage of servicemen on active military duty under Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (SGLI) from a maximum of $10,000 to $15,000.

The law also extended coverage to reservists, members of the National Guard, and the Reserve Officers Training Corps while these groups participate in specific training exercises, and while travelling to and from such training.

Although VA supervises SGLI, the program is operated by about 600 private insurance firms under a group contract with a primary insurer.

VA's annual insurance report is being distributed to members of Congress, service organizations, insurance firms and associations, state libraries and other public organizations.

Prospect Shoots 150 In Victory

With a sheet of intermittent rain and, at times, occasional hail interrupting the golf match between Prospect and Palatine, it would hardly be the meet to expect the good scores.

But the Knights of Mike Nisen seem to thrive in the wetness as they toured their home Mt. Prospect Country Club grounds in just a stroke over their school record of 149.

Nisen's crew posted a 150 to easily top Palatine's 181. In some respects, the meet was costly to Nisen who is in dutch for two steak dinners to the pair of Knights who captured par for the round.

Art Hagg and John von Berg each carded par 36's and cashed in for the promised reward by their coach, Curt Manning and Tim Carson contributed identical 40's for the brilliant total.

Palatine, the victim of the Knight's assault, added a 42 by Mike Long, a 44 by Dan Fyfe, a 47 by Rick Frohne and a 48 by Ken Drost for their 181 total.

On the frosh-soph level, Prospect earned a sweep for the afternoon as the little Knights posted a 169-178 victory.

OVER THIS TIME. Steve Wickum of Fremd, who this attempt in Saturday's Palatine Relays, but has cleared 6-3 this spring in the high jump, makes Wickum finished out of the money in the 39th annual track headliner. Fremd placed second in the Class A team competition.

Best, Worst Announcers Named

IF YOU ARE A sports fan, some of the personalities that Larry Everhart and I have discussed the past two weeks have to be a part of your life.

Since you have to put up with both the good and the bad almost every day in order to listen to your favorites and how they performed, we thought you might enjoy our analysis of the tops in the trade.

On Tuesday Larry looked at the big names in the play-by-play area. I covered the sports show announcers the past Thursday.

Jack Fleming, the Bulls' announcer for WIND Radio, was tabbed by Larry as the best in Chicago. I picked Linda Marshall, WNSN-TV's sports show announcer, as the best in her field.

Fleming just nipped Harry Caray for the No. 1 honors. It could have been a draw had Harry been doing the job a full season as Jack has done.

After a slow start, Fleming became used to the Bulls and his style was fully revealed to his ever-growing audience.

To put it simply, Fleming gives you a box seat every night you listen because he has all the announcing attributes — knowledgeable, quick reactions, understandable, seldom makes mistakes, frank appraisal of plays and brings excitement to his listeners.

The Bull's attendance figures might have been even higher had someone like Jack Brickhouse been doing the announcing instead of Fleming for he was so good you could skip attending the game.

Maybe he's too good for Chicago. It won't be long before he's being offered bigger and better things in New York or Los Angeles.

Linda pulled in the most votes because she puts most of the other sports show announcers to shame. She's definitely a pro in a world of men, but there's no mistake about her femininity.

She is what Jeannie Morris would love to be — a liberated woman with the ability to handle a man's occupation like a veteran, although she's only in her 20s.

As has been said before, Linda not only offers the most complete sports report in Chicago television, but she is easy to listen to as well as look at.

Linda Marshall

It's a shame she isn't on a VHF station. Many people who do not have UHF are robbed of the chance of her 9:45 to 10 p.m. telecasts.

And now for the ratings. First, here is the way Larry tabbed his play-by-play men:

1. Jack Fleming — Other announcers should listen and take notes.
2. Harry Caray — Holy cow! What an improvement over Bob Elson!
3. Lloyd Pettit — One of the best if he lays off the big words.
4. Jack Drees — A little weathered, but none the worse for wear.
5. Vince Lloyd — there, there, Vince. It's only a game.
6. Jack Brickhouse — Ready for the rocking chair.

And here are the sports show announcers:

1. Linda Marshall — She wears the No. 1 badge 'cause she's so arresting!
2. Johnny Morris — put on your old football gear and start alarming those (Durocher) who deserve it.
3. Brent Musberger — Comb your hair straight back, add more grease, improve your vocabulary, and voila, another Co-sell.
4. Wendell Smith — Some night nothing will come out of his mouth but air.
5. Bill Frink — Giggling his way to a small town job.

That's the way we see it. But let's here from you out there in suburbia. You must have opinion, pro and con. Just write Fan's Forum, c/o Paddock Publications, 217 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Awaits Kentucky Derby Daze

Louisville Opens Cash Registers

by JEFF MALONEY

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (NEA) — To understand the power of the agitation produced here by the Kentucky Derby, you need know only of the two kittens delivered to a household the week after last year's race. Dust Commander won the Derby, ridden by Mike Manganello. So the lady of the house, seeing her duty, named one kitten Dusty, the other Mike.

Certainly, the Derby daze is not always so kindly in its effects. Coffee, sold at 15 cents a cup 51 weeks a year, goes up to 35 cents Derby Week. A bartender, if he knows you, will charge only $1 a drink, say, instead of $2 extracted from aliens. To get a hotel room, you pay something like $100 for three days. That's the minimum. It gets you a room that goes for $15 in October.

No matter. Gouge-the-guest is a game played across America at Indianapolis late in May, at Augusta early in April, at New York the year-round. Where the Derby agitation shows up most clearly, as we shall see, is in conversation leading up to the race.

When Hoist the Flag broke a leg last month, it is true that the mayor of Louisville did not put the flag at half staff for the fallen Derby favorite. But the Louisville newspapers wrote of Hoist the Flag's injury as a calamity surpassed in its tragic ramifications only by — who could forget it? — the quarter crack Sir Gaylord came down with on Derby Eve in 1959. But even as Hoist the Flag was memorialized, the Derby had other problems.

Like off-track betting in New York. When New York opened the windows in early April, less than three weeks before the Derby on May 1, the Derby people sent up a moan of unprecedented depth.

The president of Churchill Downs, Lynn Stone, said the track had sole rights to betting on the Derby, that it had built it into America's premier race and did not intend to stand by while New York took bets on it.

No one could figure out why Stone was so upset. Even he stopped short of saying the money bet in New York would have been bet at Churchill Downs. The idea, it was agreed, was that Stone feared off-track betting might move closer yet to Kentucky, where it would, in fact, hurt the wagering at Churchill Downs.

New York, meanwhile, went ahead with its plans to take bets on the Derby. It pointed out that Stone's yelps sounded peculiar, not only because it could see no way betting in New York could hurt the Derby but also because Stone had never taken aim at Las Vegas, where off-track betting has been legal for years.

If New York and Churchill Downs had something going, it was only a more publicized version of what was happening between Louisville police and Louisville bookies.

When a local television station did a series of programs entitled "Louisville: An Open City," in which is charged the police with accepting pay-offs from the illegal bookmakers, the bookies closed up shop. This is always a bad thing, because bookies' children like to eat. It is a terrible thing, though, when it happens with the Kentucky Derby coming up.

"Any time a race is on the radio," a bookie said, "my action is way up. So can you imagine what it's like for the Derby, when that's all anybody talks about for three months before?"

Is he out of business altogether?
"No," he said. "But I'm just booking my friends and people I know. You can't make anything that way."

Lynn Stone
Guarding the coffers.

Somehow, though, it will all work out in time for the Derby. Something will win, and Hoist the Flag will be forgotten. New Yorkers will go to their betting parlors, and Lynn Stone will say he did all he could. And the bookies — well, they'll figure some way to eat.

In Amateur Golf Group

Introduce New Division

A new division will be introduced by the Northern Illinois Men's Amateur Golf Association (NIMAGA) this season, according to Mike Spinello, executive director of NIMAGA.

It will be called the "B" Division and will include two flights — juniors, 10 and 11 years old, and seniors, 12 and 13 years old.

The tournaments will take place at three different sites this summer — Rob Roy Golf Club on July 7, Arlington Park Golf Club on July 20 and Buffalo Grove Golf Club on Aug. 9.

Spinello wanted to make it clear that the tournaments are only open to young men living in the area covered by the Herald. He termed the new division as a "trial balloon" which could become an annual thing if there is enough interest.

The "B" Division golfers can attend golf clinics on June 22, June 29 and July 13 at Rob Roy.

The rules for entry are as follows:
* Only male amateur golfers between the ages of 10 and 13 are eligible.

* Participants must be at least 10 years of age as of June 30, 1971 and must not be 14 years of age.

* Two flights will be run in each of the tournaments. The contestant's age as of June 30 will determine which flight he will participate in for the balance of the tournaments. No exceptions to this rule will be made.

* Tournaments will be 18 holes of medal play. Starting times for the clinics and the tournaments will be at 9 a.m. The former will run from 9:00 until 11 a.m. Professional instructors will be on hand to emphasize the grip, stance, swing, rules and etiquette.

The total cost of the entire program is $12. This fee covers all tournament green fees, clinic instruction and one bucket of range balls at each clinic. Participants may purchase additional buckets of range balls at $50 per bucket.

The program fee and application form must be mailed and postmarked no later than June 4. The field size for the program will be restricted to the first 72 applications received. Entry forms over this total and late entries will be returned to the applicant.

Senior League Tryouts Saturday

Tryouts for all boys registered in the Arlington Heights Boys Baseball program who will be 14, 15, or 16 years old as of July 31 will be held Saturday, May 1, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Hersey High School baseball diamond.

The tryouts are for the Senior I and Senior II Leagues. Drafting of players

To receive entry forms, write NIMAGA Junior Golf, P.O. Box 343, Wheeling, Illinois 60090. If you already have a form, mail it to the same address and make sure the check or money order is payable to NIMAGA Junior Golf.

Contestants will be notified of their tournament tee times at the clinics preceding the tournaments.

All participants must report to the check-in station 15 minutes before the clinics and tournament teeoff time. On tournament days, a two-stroke penalty will be assessed to all late arrivals.

NIMAGA is seeking parents who would be available to supervise play or assist in the posting of scores during the tournaments. Interested parents should denote their interest on the form to the right, indicating the tournaments at which they can assist.

Buffalo Grove Ladies Set Golf Meeting For Monday

There will be an important meeting of the Buffalo Grove Ladies' Golf League on Monday in the Buffalo Grove clubhouse beginning at 7:30 p.m.

At that time the members of the league will be informed of the revisions made in the rules. Since the rules are an important part of play, the league is going to emphasize strict adherence. Lack of knowledge regarding these rules could cost a member her match.

President Mary Ann Mueller wishes to pass along three other important dates concerning the league:

* May 30 — three qualifying scores from rounds played at Buffalo Grove must be turned in no later than this date. Accepting the scorecards will be Judy Rischall, 191 Weidner.

* May 27 — membership enrollment in the league ends on this date. It is also the annual play day round where old and new members get together.

* June 3 — the first day of the 13-week league.

The other officers of the league are Pat Young, vice president; Judy Rischall, secretary; Mary Patterson, treasurer; and Carol Schrickel, recording secretary.

Northern Adds Boston

Northern Illinois University completed its 1971 football schedule by replacing the University of Buffalo, which dropped intercollegiate football last January, with Boston College.

NIU athletic director Robert J. Brigham, who revealed the addition of BC to the 1971 Huskie schedule, said the game will be played in Chestnut Hill, Mass., which is a suburb of Boston, Saturday, Nov. 13, 1971.

Originally, the Huskies were to have played at Buffalo on that date, but the New York school announced at the National Collegiate Athletic Association Convention at Houston, Tex., in January that it was dropping intercollegiate football from its athletic program.

Basketball Clinic

A basketball clinic sponsored by Hall of Fame Sports Camps, Inc., to raise money for the Jim Speed Fund will be held Tuesday, May 11, at the Carmel High School gym in Mundelein.

Al McGuire, famed Marquette University basketball coach, and president of Hall of Fame Camps, a division of Medall Industries, Inc., Milwaukee, made the announcement. Jim Speed is the University of Iowa basketball star who this past season was stricken with an illness that has left him blind. All proceeds from the clinic will go to the James Speed Fund, McGuire explained.

Speaking at the clinic, besides McGuire, will be Dick Versace, Gordon Tech High School basketball coach, whose team this past season compiled a 31-7 record in becoming Catholic League champions. McGuire, whose Warriors won 28 or 29 games this past year will discuss Marquette's pressure defense. Versace will talk about the Trident offense, to be demonstrated by his Gordon Tech squad.

Coaches, players and fans are invited to the clinic, which is scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m. Admission is $1.00 for advance tickets or $2 at the door. For additional information, contact either Dick Versace at 478-9556, Gordon Tech High School, or Frank Krajacic, Carmel High School, 566-6880.

McGuire said checks for the clinic should be made out to James Speed Fund, Hall of Fame Camps, Suite 1870, Marine Plaza, Milwaukee, Wis. 53202.

Rifles Seek Players

The Lake County Rifles football team has opened its 1971 recruiting campaign. The Rifles have several key positions to fill if they expect to return to the title game again in '71.

The tragic loss of Fred Custardo as their number one signal caller has left the quarterback slot wide open. Their remaining two quarterbacks are question marks. Bruce Swanson has signed with the New England Patriots of the AFL for a pro tryout. Lee Rice is uncertain whether he will return for the coming season.

The club has contacted several excellent prospects, but to date has no one under contract for the position.

The Rifles will open their annual training camp at Carmel Stadium in Mundelein, Illinois on Monday evening June 28th. All candidates wishing to compete for a berth on the ball club are asked to contact the title office in Libertyville at 362-8050.

Sells Bonneville Car

Harvey W. Brown—director of racing and marketing for Dupli Color Products Company, the leading manufacturer of automotive touch-up paint, sold his recently designed Bonneville Race car to QuVoe Chemical Industries, an automotive aftermarket manufacturer.

The purchase of Brown's car was announced by R. Allen Tucker, Vice-President of QuVoe and John Suerth, President.

The salt shaker's body will be fabricated from aluminum and fiberglass. Overall length will be 39 feet with an overall width of approximately 12 feet and will feature a Turbo-Jet Engine.

R. Allen Tucker said construction will begin in the latter part of this year and be ready hopefully to run at the Salt flats in 1972.

Asked if he thought QuVoe could break the sound barrier, Tucker replied, "There's every reason to believe so."

Angel Derby Contestant

Mrs. Marion P. Jayne, of 1918 W. Banbury Rd., Palatine, has been accepted as a contestant in the 1971 Angel Derby (All Women's International Air Race). The 2700-statute-mile, cross-country air race begins May 3 in Columbus, Ohio and terminates May 6 in Managua, Nicaragua.

A field of 74 outstanding international lady pilots will vie for $5,000 cash prizes plus scores of trophies and distinguished awards including two round trips to Managua, San Salvador and Mexico City provided by Lanica Airlines. In addition to leading American pilots, the Angel Derby contestants include two Mexican women pilots, a commercial pilot from Africa, an entry from South Calicos Island, West Indies, and an American woman flying under the flag of France.

Walks, Balks Hit Schaumburg Nine

Walks and balks spelled disaster for Schaumburg's baseball team.

Lake Park pushed across a pair of runs in overtime without lifting a bat to turn back the Saxons 6-5 in the exhibition contest on the Lancer field. It was the third straight setback absorbed by Roy Hascup's young outfit and dropped their record for the campaign to 1-4.

Ken Gast was the victim of the late Lancer surge. He went the route on the mound for the visitors and had a shutout going with two out in the sixth when a couple of errors allowed Lake Park to pull back into a tie, 4-4.

In the eighth inning a pair of singles set the stage for the final Lancer coup after Schaumburg had taken another lead 5-4 in their half of the stanza.

A balk brought one Lancer run across with the typing run and three straight walks ensued, forcing the winning score in.

Schaumburg had broken the scoring ice initially in the fifth frame when John Blasco singled, stole second and dashed home on a two-base error off the bat of Gast.

The next inning Rich Kuchnia and Glen Hayes opened with base hits and scampered home on a two-base blow by Art Abraham. Abraham then advanced to third on a miscue and came home on a fielders' choice by Blasco.

That made it a 4-0 ballgame but the Lancers came right back to tie it up in their half of the sixth on a two-base error, a single, a walk, an infield error and a blop double.

In the eighth the visitors moved on top once more when Blasco doubled, moved up to third on a wild pitch and dashed in on Jeff Larson's single.

Nied, Winter Pace 'Cat Win

Terry Nied fired a one-over-par 37 and Bob Winter backed him with a 40 to pace Wheeling to their fourth straight conference golf triumph against hosting Glenbard North.

The Wildcats finished with a 166 total to just barely edge an improved Panther unit on their home Indian Lakes course. Glenbard came in with a 40, 41 and 42 but then fell off to 48 to total out at 171.

Chris Krolack posted Wheeling's third best round, a 43, and Jack Kennedy rounded out scoring with a 46. Dave Mehlberg finished at 49. GBN scores were Charlie Shirk 40, Jeff Frolich 41, Mark Hay 42, John Och 48 and Vince Erichello 48.

The 'Cat frosh-soph unit was also triumphant by a 182 to 209 count. Mike Stewart of the guest team was medalist at 44.

At Elk Grove Bowl

Jerry Fric, bowling for Hank's 66 in the Elk Grove Village VFW 9284 league, rolled a triplicate series of 151... Ed Sermon, Jr., averaging 141 for the last five weeks, rolled a 620 series... Ed bowls for the D. J. Rintz & Co. in the VFW league... His highest average for the year has been 143.

Schaumburg Trackmen Land 2nd Spot

The difference between first and fourth in the pole vault competition cost Schaumburg a championship trophy at the Lake Park Relays Saturday.

The hosting Lancers captured their own meet with a 114-point total while the Saxons placed second at the six-team gathering with 109. Dennis Garber's outfit owned a two-point lead with all the running events completed but took a fourth in the pole vault while Lake Park was winning it to take over the top position.

Schaumburg did win another trio of events and placed among the top five in just about everything else on the schedule. Rick Staback and Arnold Jackson were individual champions in two-mile races, the former capturing the varsity runoff at 10:14.9 and the latter heading up the frosh-soph field with a 10:41.0 clocking.

A Saxon 800 relay team was also triumphant. Bob Cummings, Steve Wright, Mark Walston and Don Glover teamed up to card a 1:41.1.

Schaumburg also garnered a batch of runnerup ribbons. Mike Carey placed third in the varsity two-mile affair. A varsity 800 relay team of Gary Crautwist, Mike Lane, Mike Walker and Terry Becker earned a fourth and a high hurdle shuttle relay quartet of Wright, Dan Young, Greg Gustavson and Bill Kasper came home third.

Also coming in third was a two-mile relay team consisting of Herman Schneider, Carey, Doug Warlick and Wayne Jensen. A low hurdles shuttle unit of Wright, Gustavson, Heinz Tempelmann and Young placed fifth.

Taking second place honors was a distance medley team of Paul Peters, John Schevikhoven, Jackson and Staback. Young, Gustavson, Tod Javor and Bob Nomellini teamed up to take a third in the 440 relay and Walston, Lane, Javor and Glover grabbed a fifth in the junior 800 relay.

Schevikhoven also polled a fourth in the frosh-soph two-mile event. Another fourth went to Walston, Cummings and Nomellini in the long jump relay and still another fourth was registered by Greg Tatarsky, Warlick, Terry Powers and Mike Istok in the frosh 800 relay.

In the spring medley the Saxon team of Cummings, Nomellini, Glover and Jones netted a second. Also taking a second were Dave Stump, Mike Pawlicki and Micky Alkis in the discus and Stump, Pawlicki and Jones in the shot put.

A mile relay contingent of Paul Peters, Tempelmann, Jensen and Jones also gained a second while a high jump team of Walston, Jones and Cummings tied for second. The pole vault team which placed fourth consisted of Javor, Steve Kropke and Terry Becker.

Lions Record Tennis Victory Over St. Pat's

The St. Viator tennis team parlayed three wins by their singles players into a 3-2 triumph over conference rival St. Patrick.

In a grueling struggle that found three of the five matches pushed into a three-set duel, the Lions slipped by for the important triumph.

At first singles, Viator's Mike McMahon had a relatively easy time of disposing of Shamrock Doug Barren in straight sets of 6-3, 6-4.

Lion Greg Allare made it two straight for the victors by knocking off Lee Simmons of St. Patrick in identical sets of 6-4, 6-4.

Third singles player Chuck Czeropski made a brilliant comeback after absorbing an opening 6-1 setback against Shamrock Marty Green. Chuck came back to earn a 9-7 squeaker before putting the decision away by virtue of a 6-3 lashing in the finale to assure St. Viator of a team victory.

In doubles play, Lions Mark Savage and Tom Meyer dropped a 6-4 opener before rebounding 6-2 in the middle set, but only to fall short by a 6-2 count in the finale to Bob Schamrowski and Jim Flesch of St. Patrick.

Viator's Tom Cole and Gary Aldrich found the same result at their second doubles position as they lost in the first set, 6-3 before tying the match with a 6-1 decision in the second. Shamrock's Jim Oleisly and Nick Lindermuth, however, earned a 7-5 triumph in the final set to chalk up the victory.

St. Viator was able to breathe a little easier on the frosh-soph level as the Lions posted a 4-1 decision over their St. Patrick counterparts.

Raindrops Are Falling In Conant's Triangular Win

Conant picked up 17 points in the long jump and pole vault events to catch and surpass host Prospect and visiting St. Viator with 67 points in a rain-soaked track triangular.

The Cougars fought off what appeared to be an insurmountable Knight advantage in the waning events to post the close triumph. The runnerup Knights totaled 61 points while St. Viator was third with 28.

Host Prospect was cruising along on the double-winning performances of Ron Hankel in both the two-mile run and the 800 and Paul Hacker who ruled both the 100 and 220-yard dashes, but Conant, behind fleet Dan Wendell's two winners in both hurdle events, caught fire down the home stretch.

Other victorious contributors for the Cougars included Steve Feutz in the mile run, John Hughett in the long jump, Bill Angerson in the pole vault and Russ Windholz in the shot.

Others to post first places for the Knights were George Busse in the 440, Terry Rohan in the high jump and both relay events.

Lion Ed Klingberg registered the lone St. Viator gold medal with a 140-10 heave in the discus competition.

The Hollywood Scene

by Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Film and cameras are fast becoming what the McGuffey Reader was to school children 100 years ago.

More and more frequently grammar schools are turning to motion pictures as a teaching aid both as tools in the hands of youngsters for self expression and as a projection of the written word into action.

Students as young as 6 or 7 are given cameras and told to take movies of whatever interests them.

It beats finger painting. Then again classrooms are darkened and pupils are exposed to countless subjects taught by film instead of textbooks.

But according to executives at Technicolor, a leading force in the field of 8mm cartridges and projectors for schools, progress is still slow.

WILLIAM NEWBERN, an executive of the company, says "The textbook syndrome has advantages over film because it is a basic part of the curriculum. Film is still considered a frill in some places, used when a teacher hasn't prepared a lesson plan."

"Ideally, film should be integrated with text material. Publishers should augment texts with film instead of making them two separate elements of education."

Technicolor has perfected a small super 8mm projector that can be shown the entire class at one time or utilized by a single student with earplug at his own desk while the class is otherwise occupied.

So far the company has manufactured almost 8 million cartridges with 15,000 titles for students from nursery school to graduate school.

"Students are visually oriented, thanks to television," Newbern said. "They expect more than just the written word. This generation can handle the written word and films at the same time."

"Clearly one of the important elements of visual education is the result TV commercials have on children. Most kids can recite popular commercials from memory — due to repetition."

"THE SAME THING can be done with important scholastic subjects. Mathematics, English and the sciences. By repeating the film several times students will retain what they see."

"This process is altogether easier for teacher and student alike as compared with reading the same text over and over again."

"Good classroom films raise questions which generally are answered through subsequent viewing. The child learns something new each time he sees the motion picture."

"Best of all there is no language barrier. Silent films, of which there are many, demonstrate or tell the lesson on a universal basis."

Many producers of cartridges and projectors believe some day that their product will be as common in the classroom as books — and equally effective.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nostalgia is big boxoffice in show biz these days. As witness Ruby Keeler back hoofing on Broadway and the numerous film stars of the 1930's emerging from obscurity for guest appearances on television.

Against this background comes a report from McCall's magazine that Mrs. Pat Nixon was offered several movie contracts during the thirties after appearing as an extra in such cultural classics as "Ben Hur" and "The Great Ziegfeld."

Since more than 30 years have elapsed since her last picture, I suppose the First Lady really means it when she says she has retired from the silver screen.

But if the right script could be found for her, there is always a chance she could be persuaded to resume her acting career.

TOWARD THAT END, I have been tinkering around with a scenario that might be made into a suitable vehicle "Son of Love Story."

At a glittering film colony party in a magnificent mansion high in Beverly Hills, a beautiful young starlet (Patricia Garbo) meets a handsome, albeit struggling young politician (Nick Dixon). They fall in love.

Strolling out on the terrace, Pat and Nick are entranced by the lights of Hollywood or maybe it's downtown Burbank dancing beneath them. Some day my name will be in lights, Pat sighs dreamily.

"Let me make one thing perfectly clear," Nick says. "Some day I am going to be President."

They talk of marriage, but it soon becomes apparent that politics and show business don't mix. This was in the 1930's, remember.

IN A TEARFUL goodbye scene, they part. She to accept a role as a chariot driver in "Ben Hur," a Women's Lib remake of "Ben Hur," and he to enter the New Hampshire primary.

The film, alas, is 30 years ahead of its time and Pat's career languishes. Nick, having fallen into the clutches of a poor makeup man, also suffers setbacks.

Eventually Nick wins the presidency, but finds the White House a lonely place. Pat, meanwhile, is rediscovered and opens on Broadway in a revival of "Ben Hur," which has finally caught up with its time.

The two are reunited when the cast of "Ben Hur" is invited to perform at a White House dinner honoring Angela Davis. They discover they are still in love and are married by Billy Graham.

Forest Preserve Is For Everyone

Whose forest preserves are they? That, in simple form, is the issue that's threatening to come to a head over use of the holdings of the Cook County Forest Preserve District.

The catalyst has been the sudden increased use and favor shown the county forests by youth groups — an outburst of attention that already has triggered some skirmishes between the groups and forest preserve and police officials.

There hasn't been a crisis yet, and we don't wish to assume there will be one, or trigger one with attention. But the makings are present for a collision over use of the forest preserves, and on the basis of that we want to stake out our position.

The position is elementary: the forest preserves are for everyone. And on that premise, our sympathy and support must go to the Cook County Forest Preserve District as guardian of the holdings.

Everyone, of course, includes the young people who have developed the new affection for the forest preserves as a place to gather. And they, of course, have as much right to access and use of the forest preserves as any citizens.

But the question we believe to be crystallizing is one of total use for the greatest good.

There has been trouble, beginning last summer when masses of young people began to descend on Deer Grove near Palatine. It was nothing grave, mostly a case of forest preserve officials feeling too many young people had gathered in too small an area without a permit. They were ordered to disperse by rangers and county and state police.

A tension developed over several Sundays, but there was no violence, and the issue waned with autumn.

The issue was rekindled on Easter Sunday in the Northwestern Woods near Des Plaines. There, after several days of large gatherings by young people, trouble formed when some 200 of them ignored an order by forest rangers to leave the park by 7:30 p.m. Sheriff's police and Des Plaines police were called in, and in the ensuing faceoff there were three arrests for disorderly conduct and report of physical clashes between police and some young people.

There is a threat of new turmoil this Sunday, with efforts to organize a rock festival in Deer Grove. The forest preserve district has no rules regulating rock festivals per se, but district spokesmen say they're against them, and that particular case has been confused by the promoters of the planned fest applying for a permit under what district personnel call "false pretenses."

Those pretenses include applying for a picnic permit for 500 people, while festival spokesmen say they expect about 2,000 for a musical gathering.

In the particular case of the rock festival, and in the general case of excessive use of forest preserve property by young people, the forest preserve district is faced with the question of the greater good. And we repeat: our sympathy is with the district.

The forest preserves, already in too short a supply in the county, are not for the exclusive — or even dominant — use of one group.

They are pieces of green space laid out to break up the congested monotony of city and suburb. They are gathering places for people seeking a little solitude or refreshment from the natural. And, mostly, they are havens for small groups and families to go for a few hours' fun, picnicking and recreation.

They assuredly are not places for rock festivals, which would be discordantly out of place in an environment for small groups and families, and which — if successful — could mushroom to uncontrollable proportions.

Nor are they a place for the continued inhabitation by large groups of young people, any more than they would be for such use by any group.

Those kind of gatherings, occurring especially as they do on weekends, simply deny space to too many other people, and prove to be so disruptive and disturbing to others trying to use the preserves that they must be regarded as abuses of the right of access.

Lest there be any confusion, we urge the forest preserve district to make its own stand clear — to set down specifically its rules for use of its property, and to live by them in releasing permits for use.

We do not urge denial of preserve use to young people. But the district should make it clear how much use it will allow of each preserve by any group, and then act accordingly against any abuse.

The young people now attracted to the preserves similarly should set upon regulating their own use, or prepare to accept eviction on the grounds of trammeling the rights of others. There is little enough room for all of us now in the preserves, and certainly no room for any person or group that causes discomfort or agitation to another.

Timely Quotes

"Most of us in Washington have seen a lot of mismanagement in government programs. But military assistance is the first program I have come across that appears to be characterized by unmanagement." — Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin.

"I'm sick of all these aggressive hippies or whatever they are, the 'New Generation' . . . They frighten me, a lot of up-tight maniacs going around, wearing peace symbols." — Ex-Beatle John Lennon.

"I hope your lives are worth more than sabotage. No principle is worth the sacrifice of a single human being." — Daniel Berrigan, S.J., in a message to the militant Weathermen.

Herald Gets A 'Spanking'

This morning, Thursday, April 22, your paper, the Rolling Meadows Herald, made me boiling mad! Wednesday evening there was a fire at the Willow Bend School. I was most concerned about the amount of damage there was and if it was known what started it. Would you believe that there was not a single word about that incident in the Rolling Meadows Herald Thursday morning? Oh! But there was a big picture of a girl walking her dogs in Elk Grove Village on the front page of the Rolling Meadows Herald! Are you beginning to get my point?

As long as I am blowing off steam, here is another item that really frustrates me! I am sick of reading about the big "Democracy-in-Action" bit as far as the re-election of Jim Huddleston for Alderman in the 4th Ward is concerned. I must congratulate the workers for Mr. Huddleston for being able to get the "backing" of the Herald, although I fail to see how the Herald qualifies to do so. Their grounds were rather flimsy as for example "he had the experience."

If that is a needed qualification for being elected, how did he ever get elected the first time? I have nothing against Mr. Huddleston except that I feel when one doesn't come forward of his own choice, it shows he doesn't quite have the spark and drive needed for the job anymore. And who is to say, especially the Herald, that Mr. Schar or Mr. Blane were not qualified to do the job? Your statements like "the people's choice" etc. leave me cold. If you will notice, Mr. Huddleston received 235 votes and Mr. Schar and Mr. Blane received a total combined vote of 287 votes, so how do you figure he was the "people's choice"? There were more who voted against him than for him.

Your paper seems to take great joy at taking pot shots at our Mayor Meyer, too. The people of Rolling Meadows only have to look around them at other much longer established communities and see that we have much to be proud of. Granted it isn't only one person who is responsible, but the whole City Council as a unit. So, if there is any knocking to do — let the people of Rolling Meadows do it, and let them do it at their Council meetings.

I think it would be more the job of a newspaper to get the people motivated and off their lazy duffs to go out and VOTE! Let the decision of who to vote for up to the people! Only 20 per cent of the people got out to vote! What a disgrace! I wonder if it's the other 80 per cent who does all the griping!

While I'm at it, the article telling of the Fashion Show for the adult members of the Rolling Meadows Girl Scout organization at the Trinity Church came out in the paper a day late. So, you see, your batting average is pretty bad in my book. I enjoyed reading the letter by Alderman Jacobson this morning, and I think a lot of people must agree with him. In summation, I would like to say that it's just too bad we don't have a choice of local newspapers anymore.

Funny Gum Incident

Hats off to Jeff Golub, the teacher who threatened his sixth grade boys with the recycling of the forbidden gum! I recall another teacher of "my son the lawyer" long ago in about eighth grade who made the kids supply a treat of his designation each time they were caught eating or chewing gum in class. My son's assignment of a treat was chocolate eclairs, which sold then for about 15 cents each. He wondered and worried for a week, and finally did a big yard clean up for a neighbor to earn the necessary $4.50 to buy the sweets.

We thought privately that the punishment was pretty stiff, but since our policy was "never interfere with a teacher unless the kids come home bloody," we said nothing. He bought the treats, and just as we had rather expected, the teacher reimbursed him for most of it later.

I don't know what this proves, except that my boy still enjoys telling the story, many years later. We don't think the week of fretting over it and the subsequent job he undertook to earn the money hurt him. I doubt that Mrs. Bull's son's psyche will be severely damaged by the imaginative and really pretty funny gum incident. Perhaps this is her first child. She may learn to leave her great responsibility of motherhood with an appreciative chuckle for a teacher with a sense of fun. I hope so — there are more serious things to worry about.

Health Insurance For Fido

by BRAD BREKKE

Fido cost $10.
The Cyclone fence to keep him in your backyard cost $1,500.

And the cost of keeping him healthy is just as expensive. Veterinarian fees are high today and getting higher.

The initial cost of an animal, even for bluebloods with champion pedigrees, is usually no more than 3 to 10 per cent of what he will run you over the years, and sometimes much less.

If you're one of the estimated one million pet owners in the Chicago area, you might consider buying medical insurance for Fido.

It will cost you just $22 a year for $300 coverage. And Fido can be treated either as an in-patient or an out-patient.

Here's why pet health insurance is a sound economical idea:

CASE ONE — A pooch who is so old and crotchety he can barely move is taken to a veterinarian.

The pooch hasn't been acting or eating properly and has begun to forget his house training.

A quick examination is made, including a blood test which indicates he has a fatal kidney disease.

A battery of other laboratory tests are run next, which all confirm the blood test. The pooch is given a final diagnosis and is prepared for his last rites.

The owner is informed his pooch must be put to sleep, then is handed a bill for $60.

He says his last good-byes in private. It is not an easy thing.

After paying the bill, he leaves the hospital with only the leash, collar and metal tags of the best friend he ever had, a relationship that lasted more than a decade.

He knows the old pooch is soon going to the big field in the sky where he can bark and chase rabbits forever.

Et cum spiritu tuo.

CASE TWO — A six-week-old puppy is taken to a vet because he isn't eating right. The owner thinks he may be anemic or have an infestation of worms. A battery of tests are made.

The diagnosis? She is homesick for her pals at the kennel. Other than that, she is fine. Feed her hamburger, cooked eggs and cottage cheese with rice until she perks up.

Cost for the home remedy: $24.

CASE THREE — A two-year-old bitch who has just whelped a single pup, by breech delivery and born dead, is taken to a vet to be sure she has had all her pups.

She is examined and the vet checks her abdomen with his hands. He says yes, she is through whelping, there are no more pups. But then he says just to be sure, he wants to X-ray her. Afterward she is given a series of shots to dry up her milk, fight depression and relax her.

Then she is given tranquilizers to help her over the post-natal blues and some vitamins to get back her health. Cost: $37.

Suburban Scene

but two days later it appears she may need three or four stitches.

She is taken to a vet who says she must stay overnight at the hospital and then be given a general anesthetic the next day to stitch her up.

The owner cannot afford this and leaves, hoping the dog's wound will heal by itself, with no complications. Luckily, it does.

In each of these cases the ailments were minor, but the cost for each examination, diagnosis and treatment was relatively costly, especially for a family on a tight budget. If major treatment was needed, the costs would have skyrocketed higher.

So what is the answer?

There are three. You can ignore your sick or injured pet and hope he gets well by himself. You can try home remedies, which can be dangerous unless you're a vet. Or you can take the animal to a hospital where he will receive the proper care and medication.

If you select the hospital route, and most pet owners do because their animals are considered one of the family, pet health insurance can cover vet costs and save you money in the long run.

It all depends on how much Fido means to you and to what lengths you would go if something happens to him. But remember, a single visit to the vet can often cost more than pet health insurance for a year. And even if nothing happens, it's nice to know your animal is covered just in case.

Pet Health Foundation Inc., an agency that sells this sort of coverage, also sells accident, theft and even life insurance for Fido.

Its address is Post Office Box 159 in Wheeling, with an office in the basement of a home in Mount Prospect.

Burt Schmarak, who lives in Buffalo Grove, is one of the firm's three local agents. He says they will take any dog up to eight-years-old, no physical exam required, and that the animal is covered up to $300 for just $22 a year.

The agency, just a few months old, sells health insurance called Pet-A-Care and it works just like medical insurance for you.

Owners have their pets treated by a vet and then send the bill to the insurance company. It pays up to $100 for each sickness or injury.

"It's the feeling the family has for their pet . . . that's what really counts," said Schmarak.

Said pet health insurance is one way to protect it. It helps keep the family budget down and the pet's health up, both at the same time.

Industry Wary Of 'Social' Voting

by RAY CROMLEY

Protesters have not made much headway thus far in getting colleges and universities to vote stock proxies to further particular social aims.

But there could be a time bomb here.

The nation's private educational institutions own an estimated $8 billion worth of securities in industrial, rail and utility corporations.

Foundations own $16 billion.

This ownership is most heavily concentrated in the shares of a few hundred major concerns.

If only a small number of these decided to vote in accordance with social objectives, the pressure for change could be enormous in some bellwether American companies.

Though the percentage of ownership by the colleges and universities in any one concern would be small, in a significant number of key companies it would be large enough to attract attention.

The officers and directors of most major American enterprises are very sensitive to shareholder criticism. During a decade and a half of watching company reactions as a reporter for a national financial newspaper, the frequency of quick adjustment following some shareholder complaint has constantly amazed. And in many of these cases, the shareholders concerned owned very little stock.

Colleges and universities may be especially vulnerable to continuing pressure. A college or university which gives up government contracts, or severs its ties with a venerable research institution because research might not be in line with social objectives, is not likely to stand up indefinitely against charges that its investments are funding companies which are polluting the atmosphere, practicing unfair racial policies or producing types of war materials which a vocal segment of the junior faculty, graduate students and undergraduates finds objectionable.

It seems quite possible, therefore, that if this pressure should gain momentum on the campuses and extend to some of the more prosperous foundations, the net result might be major changes in some areas of U.S. industry.

But there could be other results.

Colleges and universities are already hard hit by higher costs, by cutbacks in federal government research contracts and, in some cases, by a decline in gifts. If changes pushed through by social voting cut profits markedly, then a number of colleges and universities dependent on income from these companies might be forced against the wall.

On the other hand, any such conflict may be naturally and constructively avoided. Industries seeking to curb today's pollution, for example, may find that reclaiming waste can be as profitable a matter as was the conversion of the pollutants of earlier industrial eras — hydrochloric and sulfuric acids, for two — into marketable products.

Tailors Today

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Nick Pellegrino was putting the finishing touches to a suit when his 12-year-old son entered the tailor shop to deliver the garment.

The boy looked admiringly at his father's handiwork.

"Dad, I'm going to be a tailor, just like you," the son said.

"You tell me that again," shouted the father. "and I'll kick you out of the house. Tailoring today is the worst paid job in the country." Pellegrino's plaint is echoed today by many craftsmen caught up in the swirl of mass production.

Pellegrino, 66, has been a tailor since he was 16, learning the skill in Italy at his father's side.

"MY FATHER AND I together put 129 years into this business," he said. "But our trade is not like it was."

Frank DeMarco, 74, a tailor since age 11, nodded agreement as he listened to Nick in Pat Lombardi's tailor shop.

"I don't know of anyone in Pittsburgh learning the tailoring trade today," said DeMarco. "The apprentice pay is very low. Carpenters and plumbers pay their apprentices far more."

DeMarco regards tailoring as a profession, not a trade. "We are artisans, creators," he said. "I spent 18 years with a master tailor who taught me design. A tailor who masters the profession can be a Michelangelo. And you also must be a psychoanalyst to fit clients."

"Too many fitters today are chalk happy, go into extensive alterations that don't please. Designers create clothing; God creates bodies. Environment, occupation and, sometimes, accidents change the bodies for which clothing is intended.

"I CAN TAKE one look at a customer and tell if he's an executive. Many times a customer will tell me how to tailor his clothing. I just let him spout off and then chalk off the garment the way I see it. but you must use finesse," said DeMarco with a knowing smile.

According to DeMarco, men's clothing styles run in cycles and are repeated. Lombardi agreed.

"Bell bottoms were popular in the early 1920s," noted Lombardi. "Now they're back again. The flares are influenced by bell bottoms. In the years before World War I peg top trousers were the vogue.

"That pattern returned in the 1930's... only we called them drape suits then."

A sadness hung over the aging tailors as they broke up their mini convention. For a moment, their interest in their craft and their customers had brought back warm memories of a more rewarding era. But all remembered Pellegrino's warning to his son and knew those "good old days" probably were gone forever.

A RICHARDSON coated fabric, made in the Chemprene Division plant in Beacon, was used in the air-supported U.S. Travel Pavilion at Expo '70 in Osaka, Japan.

The structure has been moved to Tokyo where it is the home for Walt Disney's production of "America The Beautiful."

Ghost Of 'Corvair' Shakes GM?

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Free Press reported today that General Motors Corp., in a "panic" when 19 cardboard boxes of missing microfilmed complaint letters about the Corvair and other Chevrolet products turned up in a salvage warehouse, paid $20,000 sight unseen to keep the documents from falling into the hands of Ralph Nader.

The newspaper said in today's editions that the microfilmed letters from the years 1964 and 1965 had vanished from the Chevrolet division's customer relations department sometime after 1965 and turned up earlier this month in a warehouse in suburban Wyandotte.

The years involved were the height of Nader's campaign against safety defects in the Corvair, which since has gone out of production.

Scrap dealers Floyd E. Avery and Kenneth A. Simpson discovered the 19 boxes, marked "GM" among surplus goods they purchased from a Detroit electronics concern in March for $7,500.

W. E. Ludwick, assistant manager of Chevrolet customer relations, was instructed by top Chevrolet officials to pay the asking price of 20 cents per microfilm card, or $20,000, sight unseen, the Free Press said.

Avery said Ludwick "told us that if 'Nader ever got these' we'd be hurting." He was really in a panic."

Product Of Richardson In Expo '70

Just as an Army marches on its stomach, American industry moves on myriads of conveyors.

Conveyors bring the raw materials into the factory... carry the materials through assembly in the plant... and then through the distribution center and to the American consumer.

Technology becomes more sophisticated daily as engineers work to develop new coated fabrics for all types of industries. One of the leaders in this field is the Chemprene Division of The Richardson Company in Beacon.

"Quite simply," General Mgr. Curt Williams explains, "our product lines are based on highly-specialized technology in applying rubber or rubber-like coatings to synthetic and natural fibers. These coated yard goods are used in a number of high-specification applications for government and industry."

Interesting applications of Richardson coated fabrics include the fabric used in the air-supported U.S. Travel Pavilion at Expo '70 in Osaka, Japan. The six story globe-shaped structure, which is supported by air pressure from two blower systems, was one of the highlights of Expo. The structure was dismantled and moved to Tokyo where it will be used as a theater for the Walt Disney production, "America The Beautiful."

CHEMAIRE, a lightweight coated material, is used for inflatable life rafts, escape slides and life vests. Many of the giant new 747 planes, Williams adds, are equipped with Chemaire escape slides.

Richardson also is producing special coated fabrics at Beacon for use as industrial tarpaulins and liners. The lining materials are put in excavations used to hold large volumes of water and liquid wastes and are designed to help government and industry in its battle against pollution.

Many of the frozen foods we see at the store are moved with Richardson belting. A new butyl polyester belt is being used by the food processing industry in the blast or quick freezing of food. The Richardson material has been accepted for use in meat and poultry processing plants.

Richardson also markets a line of Chemprene gaskets, seals and diaphragms. J. Warner is plant manager of the Chemprene Division plant in Beacon.

The Richardson Company, with a history of more than 110 years of successful operation, is a growth-oriented corporation with sales of more than $120,000,000. This diversified company has interests in specialty chemicals, materials for the graphic arts industry, plastics, engineered industrial materials and parts and engineering services.

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) My employer is withholding less income tax from my paycheck this year. Does this mean that I might owe tax next year?

A) It could. Income tax withholding rates are lower in 1971 mainly because the standard deduction was increased. Withholding is also lower for single persons because tax rates for this group were reduced.

But for some, withholding won't cover this year's liability; and under-withholding could result for those earning over $11,500.

If your present withholding won't cover this year's liability, you can avoid owing money next April by dropping exemptions now or, if you are already claiming no exemptions, by asking your employer to withhold an additional amount.

Q) My income is low, and I never pay any tax although I file every year to obtain a refund. Is there anything that I can do to stop my employer from withholding taxes?

A) Yes. You should file a Form W-4E with your employer. This is a "Withholding Exemption Certificate" in which you can certify that you did not have any tax liability last year and will not have any income tax this year. Your employer must then stop withholding taxes.

Q) How long must I keep my records for income tax purposes?

A) You must keep your records as long as their contents may be material in administering any Internal Revenue law. The Internal Revenue Service cannot suggest a specific time, but certainly all records should be kept for at least three years and many records, such as stock and property transactions, even longer.

Q) I am retired with a company pension and an annuity. Can I have tax withheld on these payments?

A) Yes. You may use Form W-4P to request the payer to withhold any whole dollar amount. However, the amount to be withheld must be at least $5 a month and must not reduce the net pension or annuity payment to less than $10 a month.

Q) I have received a gift from the bank because I made a long-term deposit. Must I pay taxes on this gift?

A) Yes. In general, the fair market value of property received for making a deposit or opening an account in a savings institution is income and must be reported as interest income in the year received.

Q) My employer withholds tax from my regular salary. But I occasionally do outside work which is not subject to withholding. Must I file a Declaration of Estimated Tax?

A) You must file a Declaration of Estimated Tax if your estimated tax due at the time your return is filed is $40 or more and if your estimated gross income for 1971 includes more than $200 in income not subject to withholding. However, instead of filing a declaration you may increase withholding by dropping exemptions being claimed or having additional sums withheld.

"Estimated tax" is the amount by which the total of your estimated income tax and estimated self-employment tax exceeds the expected withholding from your pay. The Declaration of Estimated Tax for 1971 and the first payment are due on April 15, the same date that your 1970 income tax return is due. Publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Declaration of Estimated Tax," contains additional information and is available at Internal Revenue Offices.

Increase In Net Earnings

Net earnings of Northwest Industries, Inc., in the first quarter of 1971 rose to $7,422,000 from $5,736,000 in the first three months of 1970, an increase of 30.5 per cent. After provision for preferred dividends, earnings per common share in the first quarter rose to 31 cents from 8 cents in the comparable year-earlier period.

Net manufacturing sales rose to a first quarter record of $114,300,000 compared to $110,100,000 in the first three months of 1970.

Results for the consumer products group in the first quarter were sharply higher than a year earlier, as were those of the industrial products group. The results of the chemical products group trailed the levels of the 1970 first quarter but are expected to improve in the second quarter and the year as a whole.

Transportation operations, which traditionally operate at a first quarter deficit, significantly reduced their first quarter loss compared to 1970, and operated at a profit in the month of March. Reflecting rate increases, transportation revenues in the first quarter increased to $80,200,000, from $71,400,000 in the 1970 first quarter.

Expect Huge Throng At Sports Show

About 18,000 people are expected to attend the 13th annual Des Plaines Outdoor Sports and Vacation Show this weekend at the Rand Park fieldhouse in Des Plaines.

The show, co-sponsored by the Des Plaines Park District and the Izaak Walton League, will feature performances by the Nemki Indians of St. Charles, scuba diving demonstrations by the Triton Scuba Club and fast-draw gun shooting by the Chicago Colts Fast Draw Club.

According to Pam Falt, Des Plaines Park District recreation supervisor, there will also be a canine demonstration by Northbrook police dogs and judo demonstrations by an instructor from the park district.

"There will be a trout pond," Miss Falt said, "and anyone can fish in it. There will also be a balloon flying contest for the kids, too."

A NUMBER OF booths displaying fishing equipment will be set up in the fieldhouse as well as an exhibit called "Tackle Row." Other booths will feature information and equipment displays by the United States Coast Guard, Navy, Marines, and Special Forces Unit.

The Audubon Society will have its own booth where they will display bird and conservation information.

"We'll have about 18 different kinds of camping trailers displayed outside the fieldhouse," Miss Falt said, "and there will be a state police van which will be open for anyone to tour."

Miss Falt said she expects a number of representatives from vacation and resort areas in Illinois, Wisconsin and Canada to be at the show with brochures and information about places to stay and camp.

According to Miss Falt and Frank

Hoffman, president of the Izaak Walton League in Des Plaines, the purpose of the show is to make people aware of the outdoor recreational activities and facilities available to them.

"SO MANY PEOPLE are now outdoor-conscious," Miss Falt said. "This show is to help them broaden their horizons. It also encourages other people to get involved in the outdoors."

"This show," Frank Hoffman said, "promotes conservation and outdoor recreation. One of its main features is to make available to the public the various outdoor equipment there is. The League wants to promote the betterment of wildlife and outdoor recreation."

Hoffman said when the show started 13 years ago it concentrated on different kinds of outdoor recreation. "The league decided to help it become a true outdoor show," he said, "and now it promotes both conservation and outdoor recreation."

Hoffman added that the show is free to the public. The sale of booth space to the various exhibitors pays for all the expenses.

The show will be held Saturday and Sunday from noon to 10 p.m. Rand Park is located at 2025 Miner Street in Des Plaines.

Adults Learn The ABC's Of Organic Gardening

by MARY B. GOOD

Organic Gardening Those two obscure words in a District 207 adult education brochure lured about 25 curious people to the area's first night school organic gardening class.

Some came to Maine Adult Evening School to learn about bugs, compost or DDT. Some just wanted a night out.

But all were in for a social experience that included experiments in bean sprouting and taste-testing "research."

The first question all wanted answered was "How can gardeners grow anything without spraying chemicals to kill insects and feed plants?"

Students brought the class their frustrations. "I can't seem to raise good roses!" Their problems. "How do I get rid of sweat bees in the window sash?" And their triumphs. One lady's mung beans outsprouted the teacher's!

THE CLASS WAS a melting pot of young mothers, businessmen, retired folks, blue collar workers, several couples and even one girl who wanted to learn organic gardening so she could live exclusively off the land. There were those with a lifetime of gardening experience and some who had never so much as sowed a seed.

Another highlight of the course was praying mantis night. The guest speaker was a woman who did a study on the effects of mosquito spraying. She brought along Myrtle, the praying mantis.

Almost every Thursday night during the eight-week course, the weather was terrible. But the organic gardening students, who braved the cold and rain to go to Des Plaines, found themselves absorbed in spring. They made soil tests for nitrogen and lime, scrutinized sick plants for practice "diagnosis" and polished their organic gardening I.Q.

SOCIABILITY DEVELOPED with class members bringing in peat pots to share, seeds, cuttings, reading material, newspaper items, pictures of their yards. One gardener brought in chocolate candy shaped like lady bugs.

They learned companion planting, indoor composting, how to make do-it-yourself fertilizer, and where to shop for organic garden products like rock dusts, sea-derived fertilizer and organic turf food.

Gardeners found out how to combat crabgrass without spending a cent, how to make quickie humus in five days, and how to have a compost pile without losing neighbors. They learned to distinguish between organic growing and food faddism.

STUDENTS GOBBLED up written material developed by Pollution and Environmental Problems (PEP) that showed organic alternatives to combatting 50 different kinds of insect pests and how to read spray can terms by their common names.

On "graduation night" the students gave the instructor a "report card," instead of the opposite, and each gardener went home with a "graduation present" — a bottle of Sea-born seaweed fertilizer.

CHECKING BEAN sprout "homework" are Mrs. Eugene Filius and Donald Deithloff, both of Des Plaines. Later students munched on homemade organic oatmeal cookies, laced with alfalfa sprouts. Purpose was to illustrate culinary uses of seed sprouts.

STUDENTS Carl Schmidt, Mrs. M. Thull and Roy Brenner test their taste buds to distinguish between sprayed and unsprayed fruits and vegetables during the organic gardening class taught by Mary Good, garden editor.

COFFEE, TEA, OR pineapple? Students in the organic gardening class at Maine East Adult Evening School take part in a taste-testing experiment. Mary B. Good, garden editor and the class instructor, is assisted by her daughter, Michele, who acted as "water boy and go-fer."

They Eloped 50 Years Ago

The Henry Goede family in Des Plaines wasn't too concerned one early spring morning when daughter Ella, 19, left the house all dressed up announcing that she was leaving to get married. The Goedes didn't believe their daughter but as it developed Ella eloped to Crown Point, Ind. with Harvey Langguth.

The truth of the situation unfolded that morning when Harvey's parents, the Herman Langguths of Bensenville, discovered their son missing and called the Goedes. That was 50 years ago and last month Ella and Harvey celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Their parents were farmers and Ella and Harvey recall that they first met at a barn dance on the Schnell Farm in Elk Grove. Their parents were also subscribers to Paddock Publications and both can remember Hosea Paddock, founder of the newspaper chain, coming around on his horse, soliciting subscriptions from the farmers and chatting about crops.

Harvey was one of four brothers and Ella was one of five sisters and two brothers. Her father, known as the "Onion King," was also one of the first directors of First National Bank of Des Plaines.

MARRIED March 28, 1921, Ella and Harvey made their first home with Harvey's parents in Bensenville and then rented a portion of the Goede farm in Des Plaines where they resided for 47 years. They retired in 1962 and since September 1969 they have made their home at 1202 S. Vail in Arlington Heights. During his working years, Harvey, with one of his sons, also owned Bud's Village Service in Mount Prospect.

The Langguths are long time members of the Norwood Gospel Chapel where Mr. Langguth has been an elder for many years.

Although their old farm home still stands at 951 E. Touhy the property has given way to O'Hare International Airport and the toll road, and an office building is now being erected on the three remaining acres with the old home scheduled for razing.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Langguth

Ella and Harvey reared four children and all were present at the anniversary dinner held March 26 at the Camelot Restaurant in Des Plaines. Harvard Langguth and his wife Virginia live in Dundee; Lorraine and her husband Duane Flutur live in Farmington, Mich.; Robert and his wife Mary Ann live in Tempe, Ariz.; and Kenneth and his wife Vicki reside in Long Grove.

The couple also has nine grandchildren who were among the 100 well-wishers. Granddaughter Kim Langguth of Long Grove accompanied Cy Fors of Prospect Heights as he sang lyrics he had written especially for the Langguths.

Also on the program was a discourse on "Life on the Farm" in which Mrs. Langguth's brother Clarence Goede recalled that Ella, while grading onions, often threw dust in his face!

A highlight of the anniversary party was the reading of a congratulatory message from President Nixon.

Men Need To Share Responsibility To Survive, Says Woman Professor

Washington, D.C. — If the so-called stronger sex shared the responsibility of running the world with the allegedly weaker sex, the "stronger" might survive somewhat longer.

So says Dr. Estelle Ramey, a nationally known endocrinologist, who believes that "men have designed a society that's calculated to make it difficult for them to live to a ripe old age." And, she adds, "they insist on running it without any help from their natural partners — women."

Dr. Ramey is a professor in the department of physiology and biophysics at the Georgetown Medical School here.

Men in our culture, Dr. Ramey points out, are subject to greater stresses and their life expectancy is invariably shorter than women's. Men are also expected to be strong, she says, and never to show the slightest sign of weakness. Since they're not "permitted" to cry, their emotions will find an outlet one way or another, she notes. "If they can't shed watery tears, then they'll cry internally with blood." As a result, she observes, men develop peptic ulcers and ulcerative colitis to a greater extent than women.

IN DR. RAMEY'S VIEW, men constantly fend off any woman who wants to share responsibility with them. They do this by telling her she's "a sweet, delightful little thing who's just too frail to stand up to stress." There's no question, says the endocrinologist, that men generally can bring more "muscle force" to bear on their problems, but, she adds, "If you're talking about the ability to survive life's stresses, then women are a really remarkable sex. From the moment of conception, the female in every age group is stronger and out-survives the male."

Dr. Ramey also points out that women seem to have better natural defenses against the number one killer — heart disease. She cites statistical evidence, indicating that women under 40 have about one twelfth the incidence of cardiovascular illness that men do. Once past the menopause, however, she notes the incidence between the two becomes similar. This, she suggests, might be related to a possible protection that premenopausal women receive from their normal female hormone, estrogen. Postmenopausal women no longer secrete this hormone to the same extent.

Estelle Ramey concludes that something needs to be done psychologically as well as physiologically to help protect "this fragile sex, which is male." And she declares that when women "insist on taking over some of the responsibilities of running the society, they are essentially forcing men to live better lives."

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: When a glass full of iced tea spilled on our beautiful, new, light carpeting, I was upset as there was nothing in the house to clean it with. I wet a bath towel and wiped the area quickly, then put one paper towel after another over the area till no moisture appeared. Then a heavy book went over the stack of paper. Examined the area the next day, there was no stain. — Micheline Van Smith

Their own dog, I suggest, should be the first step. — Dirty Shoes.

I don't really ride around on a broomstick. To me, the ecology bloc is right about some things, boringly emotional about others. By saying I agree with you about dogs, I can envisage angry letters from pet owners. The problem is enforcement. Frankly, that looks distinctly unpromising.

Dear Dorothy: Feel I must comment on the letter about the woman who does her bit for ecology by picking up trash with a stick when she walks her dog. Charity starts at home. So does cleanliness if she would pick up after the mess her dog makes, our streets and yards would be free of an even worse pollution — a disgusting one of sight and smell. Other citizens can help pick up the garbage (and stop littering), but only a dog owner can pick up after his dog. Since I don't feel that you are totally concerned about pollution and environmental damage, you may ignore this letter. Please don't. It's time people stopped treating the subject of dogs like mother and apple pie. It's a time to realize that almost everyone is a polluter, from the federal government to your little poodle. People must work where they can effect change.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006)

It's Fashion

by United Press International

The pantsuit comes back strongly for spring but often as not on a mix rather than a match basis. All through the shops, large and small, it shows with contrasting top. Accessory note: Cover the head with a tiny cloche.

If knickers are your bag, you'll find them slimmed down almost to the point of hugging the figure. Wear them with a vest, snug jacket or long sweater during the chilly spring days. Accessorize them with pantyhose, knee socks or slim boots.

Wedding Party Transported By Bus

When there's a wedding party of sixteen, it can be difficult keeping the festivities running smoothly and the attendants in their proper places at reception time.

There was no such problem when Judith Lynn Miltzow of Mount Prospect and Patrick Lawrence Duran of Chicago were married March 27. The entire wedding party was transported by bus from the ceremony in St. Paul Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect, to the Starlight Inn in Schiller Park where everyone was in place to welcome the 200 guests as they arrived for a sit-down dinner and evening of dancing.

The large entertainment bus was furnished by Howell Tractor and Equipment Co. of Elk Grove Village, where the bride's father, Willard F. Miltzow, is employed.

JUDY AND HER parents reside at 20 N. Lancaster in Mount Prospect, Patrick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Duran of Chicago. They were united in marriage at five o'clock by the Rev. Clifford Kaufmann, with the large wedding party flanking them at the candlelit altar.

The bride's gown, designed by Priscilla of Boston, was fashioned of ivory English net over silk. It was lavishly appliqued with Alencon lace over the entire bodice, the bishop sleeves, and the full skirt with its chapel train.

A cap of matching Alencon lace held Judy's bouffant elbow-length veil, and she carried a loose nosegay of orchids, roses, stephanotis, carnations, baby's breath and ivy.

For "something old and blue," she had a lace-edged handkerchief of her paternal grandmother's tucked into her bouquet. For "something borrowed," Judy wore a rose cameo ring from her maternal grandmother, which complemented the rose cameo pendant and earrings completing her bridal attire.

There were two honor attendants: Barbara Lehnhardt of Mount Prospect as maid of honor and the groom's sister Mrs. Kenneth Lechel of Berwyn as matron of honor.

BRIDESMAIDS included Shari Rhode of Highland Park and the bride's cousins: Shelley Miltzow and Linda Setzke, both of Chicago, and Mrs. Leslie Whiteaker of Bethalto, Ill. Susan Hummel of Chicago, another of the bride's cousins, was junior bridesmaid, and 7-year-old Nancy Stoewand of Berwyn was flower girl. Nancy is the groom's niece.

All of the girls wore two-toned gowns with an ivory tulle skirt flowing from an Empire waistline. They carried nosegays of Tropicana roses, blue daisies, starburst pompons, baby's breath and ivy.

Heading the groom's attendants was Dennis Farrell of Ohio, Ill., as best man. Ushers included his brother Richard Duran of Peotone, Ill.; the bride's brother Robert Miltzow; Clement Herman, Chicago; Kenneth Lechel, Berwyn; and Craig Findlay of Pittsfield, Ill. Robert Stoewand, his nephew, was the junior usher, and Charles Hummel, 6, a cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

SEATED IN the front pews, Mrs. Miltzow was attired in a pink silk worsted formal and Mrs. Duran in a yellow formal. Mrs. Miltzow's corsage was a pink cymbidium and Mrs. Duran's a white cymbidium.

The bridal pair met through the Illinois Young Republican College Federation Chapter at Western Illinois University in the fall of 1967. Judy had just graduated from Prospect High School. Until her marriage she was attending Southern Illinois University where Patrick was graduated last year in government and pre-law.

He is now serving in the U.S. Army, stationed at Ft. Bliss, Texas. The newlyweds spent a short honeymoon in Chicago before leaving for El Paso to make their first home. Their address is 135 Vaquero Lane.

Monmouth Students Married

The Rev. James D. Eby officiated at the candlelight ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights on March 20 when Elizabeth Hardeman Fenn became the bride of Michael Stephen Minnaugh.

The couple exchanged vows and rings in the presence of the two immediate families. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Parents of the newlyweds are the Robert Fenns of Sunnyvale, Calif., former Elk Grove Village residents, and Mr. and Mrs. John D. Minnaugh of Glen Mills, Pa.

Elizabeth wore a short dress of white crepe accented with a belt of braided pearls and a Dior bow in her hair. She carried calla lilies. Sally Fenn of Schaumburg was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a yellow crepe dress styled like the bride's, and carried pompon mums. Mr. Minnaugh served as his son's best man.

A dinner was held at Fritz's Restaurant after the 5 p.m. ceremony. After a trip to Philadelphia, the young couple returned to their studies at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., where they are seniors.

Learning to Control Your Allergy

Know Symptoms Causing Attacks

To one person, a chocolate bar is a delicious and tempting confection, and poison oak is a colorful and harmless native plant.

To another they're trouble — sometimes real trouble — in the form of allergic reactions.

It's the same with a long list of substances, entirely harmless to some but "poison" to others when they are eaten, touched or inhaled. Sometimes the symptoms are mild, sometimes violent. Allergic reactions can even cause death.

But doctors know a good deal more today about allergy than they did in the past. Even some of the most serious manifestations, such as asthma, can be controlled. And many persons have learned to avoid trouble simply by avoiding the offending substance.

Here's an up-to-date review of this widespread problem.

Q—What is allergy?

A—Allergy is not a disease, but a medical term for a reaction that does cause distress.

Q—What happens in the human body when an allergic reaction occurs?

A—It's the opposite of immunity. After a person is exposed to pollen, dust, or other substance, a sensitive person may develop allergic antibodies in his blood stream. Then, when he is exposed again, the allergic substance (antigen) combines with the antibodies (antibodies) and other chemicals in the blood. The result of this combination of antigen and antibodies, and the reaction is the result.

Q—What are common types of allergic reactions?

A—The contraction of the muscles around the bronchial tubes which causes the wheezing of bronchial asthma is a common allergic reaction. So is the swelling of the tissues which we find in hay fever and allergic rhinitis. A number of allergic disorders fall into the allergy category. For example, hives, eczema and other forms of contact dermatitis. An allergic reaction may also cause sneezing, watery eyes, blocked ear canals and sinusitis. These may be allergic reactions. Food allergies, which often produce skin reactions, may also result in gastrointestinal cramps or headaches.

Q—What kinds of substances cause allergic reactions?

A—Virtually anything. Pollen and house dust are common offenders. Others include milk, eggs, wheat, chocolate, seafood, nuts, onions, penicillin, aspirin, poison oak, cosmetics, dyes, costume jewelry, the hair of pet animals or insect stings.

Q—What makes people susceptible to allergies?

A—Essentially, this is still one of the unknowns of medical science. It is not understood how substances which are harmless in themselves can cause allergic reactions in some people, and not in others. Each may be prone to believe that susceptibility to allergic reaction is a family trait. In addition, there seems to be a link between allergic response and emotional stress. This is not to say that tension can actually cause an allergy — but in many chronic allergic states the reaction is often made worse by anxiety and by being unable to get the normal satisfactions of living a full life.

Q—What happens during an asthmatic attack?

A—Both the lower and upper respiratory systems may be involved in the allergic reaction. In a mild attack, the patient may cough and experience slight wheezing, especially at night. In children (and most asthma starts in childhood), the attack may be accompanied by sneezing and a slight fever, and is sometimes thought to be a head cold. In severe asthmatic attacks, the muscles surrounding the smaller bronchial tubes go into spasm, and the patient has a frightening, exhausting and sometimes prolonged struggle for breath.

Q—Do children outgrow asthma?

A—Sometimes. It has been estimated that about one-third of asthmatic children truly outgrow the disorder. Another third seem to recover but have return bouts during adolescence. And a third remain chronic asthmatics, a condition which, if ignored, can set the stage for serious lung disorders. Because repeated attacks of asthma can undermine a child's general health, parents are urged not to be passive about it on the assumption that it will be outgrown, but to seek prompt medical attention for the youngster.

Q—Can a person have more than one type of allergic reaction?

A—Yes. This frequently happens. For example, an asthmatic child more often than not has had eczema in infancy, and usually has allergic rhinitis, which takes the form of sneezing and an itchy nose. A given allergen may cause different reactions at different times.

Q—I've had sinus trouble for years. Could it be caused by allergy?

A—It might. The mucous membrane lining of the sinuses and nose are often sensitive. The reaction may take the form of sudden sneezing on exposure to pollen or animal dander, or may be chronic when there is constant exposure to household dusts, a pet or a food to which the individual is allergic.

Q—Sometimes my eyelid, lip or hands will puff away out. It is embarrassing. What makes this happen, and how can I prevent it?

A—It is more than embarrassing; it can be dangerous. The swelling is due to an allergic reaction causing a sudden dilation of the capillaries of the area involved. If your tongue or throat should swell like this, you might not be able to breathe. Ask your doctor to prescribe medication, and try to identify the causative substance so that you can avoid it.

Q—How can I find out what I'm allergic to?

A—Sometimes common-sense observation is enough. If you invariably break out in hives after eating strawberries, you may not have to look farther for the culprit. Or if a child has never had asthma until he gets a pet kitten, banishing the kitten may be all that's required. But things often are not this clear-cut. If you do not observe a direct cause and effect relationship, you may need to undergo a series of skin tests administered by an experienced physician. In this procedure, solutions of all the various substances which could produce an allergy are applied to or injected into the skin. If a hive-like eruption follows, the guilty substance is identified.

Q—What is the most effective treatment for allergy?

A—The best way to tackle the problem is to avoid the substance or substances to which you are allergic. Before you can do that, of course, you must be sure that they have been correctly identified. Sometimes just giving up one item on your diet, or changing cosmetics, will do the job. Sometimes the treatment calls for drastic steps, like moving to a different climate.

Q—Do antihistamines cure allergy?

A—No, but their use is often extremely effective in relieving the uncomfortable symptoms of allergic response.

Q—Do injections cure allergies?

A—In some cases, yes. A series of injections can build up an immunity to the allergy-producing substance, unless the offender is in food. There is no "one-shot" or "all-purpose" injection.

Q—Is contact dermatitis always allergic?

A—No. Sometimes the chemicals which produce a contact dermatitis are uniformly irritating to everyone, for example, in some household products such as cleansers, detergents and polishes.

Q—How can I tell whether dermatitis is allergic?

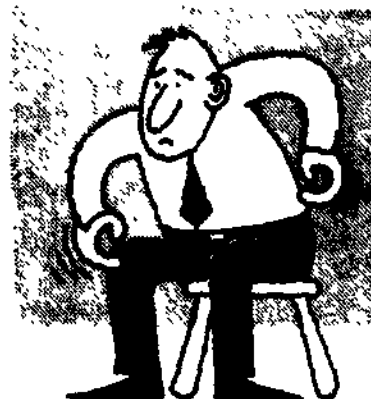

A—The typical allergic dermatitis is a symmetrical eruption on the skin, commonly red and swollen. It may be blister-like and constantly secrete moisture, or it may be dry and scaly. It can occur anywhere on the body.

Q—What causes it?

A—Often, the dye or other chemicals which have been used to treat the fabric in your clothes. A person may be allergic to some dyes and not to others. He may be allergic to a dye when it is used on a specific fabric, but not when it is used on another. Allergic dermatitis may be traced to the fur which trims a garment, or the glue which is used to attach ornaments. Sometimes it is caused by a moth-repellent used in storing clothing.

Q—How can allergic dermatitis be relieved?

A—First, by identifying and removing the offending substance. Sometimes a doctor will prescribe cortisone drugs to relieve the inflammation. It is most important not to undertake self-treatment, because even ordinary soothing lotions or antibiotic salves may irritate the skin further.

Questions & Answers For Family Health

As a Public Service, The Herald offers its readers these answers to many common questions people have about health and medicine. All material has been approved by The Illinois Medical Association and The California Medical Association.

Injectons Can Build Immunity

Q—How can hay fever be relieved?

A—The pollens which cause hay fever may be in the air nearly all year long in some sections of California, but it is rarely practical for people to move away from "hay fever country." Thus, more conservative treatment must be used, including desensitization by injections. In addition, a number of medicines may help, including eye or nose drops, sprays or medications taken by mouth.

Q—What should I say when I am invited out to dinner, when I know they may serve some food to which I am allergic?

A—Say "Thank you. What time shall we come?" If your diet is sharply restricted, eat something before you go. You can usually find something you can eat at the dinner party. Keep your fork busy taking small bites of this. Never bore the host or guests with a description of all your allergies, any more than you would with a description of your operation.

Q—I nearly fainted last week when I was stung by a bee. Now I'm afraid to go into the garden, as I've heard the next sting could kill me. What can I do?

A—You are right to keep away from bees for the present. Have your physician order you an emergency kit with drugs to combat stings. A series of desensitization ing injections of the stinging insect extract can reduce your allergy to the poison. If you are a woman, do not wear flower-colored dresses or wear perfume in the garden; both attract bees. So does eating food outdoors. Do not get excited and try to shoo stinging insects away.

Q—My sister has a bad case of poison oak rash which is oozing and blistering. Can I catch it from her?

A—No. The blister fluid from severe poison oak rash is not contagious. The rash is caused by allergy to the juice of the plant itself. To get poison oak rash, you must be allergic and you must come in contact with the juice. Direct contact with the plant is usually the cause, but the juice may also be transmitted on clothing or the fur of a pet who has brushed against poison oak plants. Ordinary soap and water washing will serve to "decontaminate" the clothing or pets.

IMPORTANT: If you have further questions, consult your personal physician.

Per Capita Income Up 7%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Commerce Department said Tuesday per capita income in the nation was up 7.75 per cent in 1970 to $3,910.

In 1960 it was $2,216, and in 1969 $3,699.

The department said the top gains, around 10 per cent, occurred in the District of Columbia, Alaska, Mississippi, Hawaii, Montana and West Virginia. It rose 3 per cent or less in Delaware, Indiana, Washington and Michigan while declining in North Dakota.

Per capita personal income is total personal income divided by total population.

At the same time, the department said, personal income rose in every region of the country and in 48 states by at least 4 per cent. The nationwide increase was 7 per cent.

Personal income mainly consists of wage and salary payments, proprietors' income, interest, rent, and dividends and government transfers, less personal contributions for social insurance.

A table showing total personal income, per capita income and per cent of per capita income compared with the national average for each state disclosed:

—Michigan $36,001,000,000 total $4,043 per capita 103 per cent.

—Indiana $19,651,000,000; $3,773; 96
—Illinois $50,325,000,000; $4,516; 116.
—Wisconsin $16,491,000,000; $3,722; 95.
—Minnesota $14,473,000,000; $3,793; 97.

Area Planned Parenthood Unit Forming

Plans for forming a Planned Parenthood chapter for the Northwest Suburban area will be discussed at 8 p.m. Monday, May 3, at the home of Mrs. Thomas Hentschel, 2107 N. Kennicott Dr., Arlington Heights. The meeting is open to the public and interested persons are invited to attend.

Planned Parenthood's goals are to help make effective means of family planning accessible to all, and to alert people to the mounting problems of population growth in the United States.

Mrs. Lessel R. Papp, a member of the Planned Parenthood Board of Directors who serves as liaison with all Chicago area auxiliaries, will attend the meeting to explain the various programs which Planned Parenthood volunteer groups conduct and maintain. Several community leaders will be present to discuss the particular needs of the Northwest Suburban area and how these needs could be met by a local Planned Parenthood action committee.

With the assistance of the staff of the Planned Parenthood Association, Chicago Area, the local chapter would initiate and operate programs in the local community.

Mrs. Mark Beaubien Jr., FL8-6108, may be contacted for more information.

9 questions to ask yourself before you buy a home.

Mortgage money is available at Bell Federal Savings. And with it, there are a lot of new people looking for homes. Unfortunately, many of these people don't know everything they should about getting a mortgage.

If you're one of them, it's nothing to be ashamed of. After all, mortgage money has been so scarce in the past that many people held back buying a home. So they felt there really wasn't any need to know about mortgages.

But now there is. So we're providing you with this helpful guide to getting a mortgage. If it doesn't answer all your questions, come on in and we will.

If you're not in the market for a home right now, cut this out anyway.

It will come in handy when you are.

Cut this out and keep it handy.

What is a mortgage?

A mortgage is a legal agreement conveying property as security for the payment of a debt. The borrower agrees to repay the loan in a specified period of time and number of payments. In return for the loan, he grants a lien on the property to the lender. The title remains in the hands of the borrower.

Is there more than one type of mortgage?

Yes, there are three basic types of mortgages: conventional, FHA and VA.

CONVENTIONAL MORTGAGES are granted by savings and loans and other local financial institutions. On conventional mortgages, you can usually borrow up to 80% of the appraised valuation of the property.

FHA (FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION) MORTGAGES are granted by some lending institutions including Bell. The significant difference between these and conventional loans is that the FHA guarantees payment to the lending institution in case of default by the borrower. FHA mortgages generally require smaller down payments. They are available on property approved by the FHA.

VA MORTGAGES are available only to certain eligible veterans. The amount of the loan is guaranteed by the Veteran's Administration up to a maximum of $12,500. The interest rate is sometimes lower than that of other mortgages and you can often borrow the full purchase price without having to make a down payment.

What other charges and closing fees should I expect?

In addition to the down payment you should plan for additional expenses: Many lenders charge service charges and these vary from institution to institution. Some lenders also charge appraisal or closing fees (Bell does not charge for either of these on conventional loans). Title insurance can cost you $50 to $100, and you should plan a legal fee for your lawyer.

How long is the average mortgage?

Most mortgages made today are for 25 years. Of course, it is possible to make a mortgage for a shorter period of time, but this requires larger monthly repayments. In recent years, there have been some mortgages for 30 years. Still the 25 year mortgage remains the standard of the lending industry.

How do I know what I should spend on a house?

What you spend on a house should be determined by two things. How much do you have available for a cash down payment? How much are you able to pay for your monthly payments? Obviously if you're young and expect your income to increase in the years ahead, you can afford to spend more than if you're older and have achieved your maximum income level.

As a general guide for younger buyers, sound economics suggest your monthly mortgage payment not exceed one quarter of your monthly income. Or that the purchase price of the property not exceed two and one half to three times your yearly income. However, your individual circumstances will dictate exactly how much you should spend, and your real estate broker or attorney can be extremely helpful in suggesting the price range of the home you should be looking at.

What are points?

On certain types of mortgages, particularly FHA, the lending institution sometimes makes an additional charge for handling the loan. This is done to bring the return up to what they can get on other types of investments. When this charge is made to the seller, it is called "points". When it's to the buyer, it is referred to as a "service charge".

How long does it take to get a mortgage?

Normally, from the time application is made, it takes about two weeks to process and approve a conventional mortgage. FHA and VA mortgages generally take somewhat longer to process and approve.

Do I need a lawyer?

For the average person, the purchase of a home is probably the largest single investment of a lifetime. Buying a house is a complex transaction, and we would certainly recommend you use the services and expertise of an attorney. He can help you determine such things as exactly what property is included in the sale, the date of possession and the proper pro-rating of such items as insurance, taxes and utilities.

What is included in my monthly payment?

Your monthly payment includes charges on the principal of the loan, interest on the unpaid balance, and escrow payments for real estate taxes and insurance.

SALES INCENTIVE in the office space market is being offered by Nardi & Podolsky Chicago real estate firm, for landing large leases in a facility near O'Hare airport. Milton Podolsky, principal of the firm, said leasing activity has improved since the company offered salesmen a two-week trip to Europe for a 25,000 square foot transaction and a Lincoln Continental for a 50,000 square foot deal. Although he sees a turnaround in economic conditions with activity picking up in all areas of real estate, Podolsky predicts a greater use of such incentives in both office and industrial leasing.

Packaging Expo To Open May 3

More than 400 companies will participate in the 40th presentation of the American Management Association's National Packaging Exposition when it returns to McCormick Place, in Chicago, May 3 through 6.

At the same time, some 70 speakers, drawn from a variety of backgrounds, will take part in a three-day conference on packaging opportunities and problems. The 1971 theme for the companion events is Packaging Opportunities in Times Like These.

About 30,000 visitors are expected to view demonstrations of about 100 types of packaging machines, some 60 types of packaging materials and supplies, about 20 types of packaging services and 16 types of containers.

Jack Yogman, executive vice president of Joseph E. Seagram & Sons, Inc., will be the keynote speaker and his topic will be The Three P's: Pollution, People, Packaging. U.S. Senator Lowell P. Weicker (R., Conn.) is one of the scheduled luncheon speakers.

The show will be some 11 per cent larger than it was in 1970, when it took place in New York. Environmental problems will be considered along with questions of lowered packaging costs, and new types of packaging for consumer convenience.

Exhibitors at the exposition will include the following local companies: Weber Marking Systems, Inc.; Arlington Heights A. J. Gerrard & Co.; Des Plaines Automatic Liquid Packaging Inc. and Application Engineering Corp.; both of Elk Grove Village; Vision-Wrap Industries, Inc., Palatine; Spotsnails Inc. and T & F Fluorocarbon Co., both of Rolling Meadows; and RPC Industries, Wheeling.

Sales, Earnings Climbed in 1970

The Robino-Ladd Co., a diversified housing company, reported for the year ended January 31, 1971, an increase of nearly 60 per cent in net income on a sales increase of some 30 per cent.

Net income of $1,321,503, or $1 per share, was earned on revenues of $4,756,000 compared with $823,307 or $1 cents per share, on revenues of $60,287,000 a year earlier.

Roger W. Ladd, chairman, said that the company's "favorable results in an off year for housing is primarily attributable to our concept of flexibility and diversification."

Although the company's single-family home sales were down from the previous year, he noted, "our geographical dispersion provided a modest hedge and sales of apartments, appreciated land holdings and new ventures more than offset the decline."

The company builds single- and multi-family housing in the areas of suburban Chicago, Wilmington, Del., and south-eastern Pennsylvania.

In addition, Robino-Ladd is building shopping centers, an office building, and is awaiting FHA approval on three mobile home parks.

Bank and Trust Co., Park Ridge. The new service, designed for accounts under $50,000, was developed as a result of a Citizens Bank survey which indicated that only 38 per cent of small or medium sized companies in the area had pension plans and 40 per cent had profit-sharing plans, said Paul Ramsey, vice president for trust business development and financial planning. The Citizens Investment Fund for Employee Benefit Plans is managed by a staff responsible for more than $100 million in trust assets, he said.

BUILDING AN INNOVATIVE Organization is the title of a series of two-day workshops being held this spring at various locations across the country. In the Chicago area, two workshops will be held at the Sheraton-O'Hare Motor Hotel in Rosemont, May 10-11 and June 7-8. The executive workshops are aimed at helping managers respond more effectively to the demands of the environment, according to the sponsor, the Innovative Group. According to the sponsor, the Innovative Group of New York. Panelists and participants will discuss the process of creating and promoting the innovative activity in business. # Wilson Building Firm Announced Leigh A. Wilson & Associates, a new residential building firm in Barrington, offers several types of service to the home-buying public.

"We offer land selection service, with an awareness of market values," said Leigh A. Wilson, principal of the firm. "In choosing an architectural design, we try to make it an enjoyable experience for a family. We also offer assistance in helping to secure financing, the actual construction and servicing after the home is built.

"Families often have to go to a different person for each of these services," said Wilson. "We are trying to coordinate these services in one company."

Leigh A. Wilson & Associates will construct single family homes of any style. The company, headquartered at 146 S. Northwest Hwy. in Barrington, will serve the suburban areas northwest, west and southwest of Chicago.

Wilson noted that his company will specialize in higher priced houses. "This market was slow last year, but there is a tremendous pent-up demand for a competitively priced product," he said. "It will be an excellent market this year."

Wilson has eight years' experience in a management capacity for Arthur T. McIntosh & Co., the Chicago area's oldest land developer. He received a B.A. from Brown University and studied at the Graduate School of Business at the University of Chicago.

Construction is under the supervision of Spencer Rieke. The company features a one-year warranty on workmanship and materials. The warranty includes visits at regular intervals during the first year after construction is completed.

Present Awards For Home Design

Design 71, the home design competition sponsored by the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland, has announced that the Gold Key Awards Dinner will be held on Thursday, April 29, at 8 p.m. in the Randolph Room of the Sherman House Hotel in Chicago.

Award presentations to winning builders and architects will highlight the evening and guest speakers will be Ernest Stevens, regional director, Federal Housing Administration; and M. David Dubin, A.I.A., president, Chicago Chapter of American Institute of Architects. Reservations may be made by calling the HBAC office at 782-8857.

First announced last December, the Design 71 competition invited builders and architects in the greater Chicagoland area to submit entries for consideration in four divisions — single family, townhouse, condominium and apartment. Homes of all types and in all price ranges from Cook, DuPage, Kane, Will, Kendall and Lake counties are represented in the competition. Winning entries were selected by a panel of judges representing the Chicago Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and representatives of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry.

Entries were judged on curb appeal — overall exterior design including relationship to land site; interior floor plan; basic quality of materials and construction; use of new ideas; and total value for the dollar — this involves relationship of value of total package to sales or rental price considering location, size of home, workmanship, etc.

The objectives of Design 71 are: to direct public attention to the new designs in homes available today in the greater Chicago market; to provide individual builders and architects with recognition by their peers; and to focus attention on the progressive trends and contributions of the entire Chicagoland home building industry.

GRAMERCY IS ONE of Levitt's best sellers at its Strathmore subdivision in Buffalo Grove. Two other area top sellers have been the Arlington model in Sheffield Park and the Eton in Sheffield Towne. The company recently reported first quarter sales averaging 50 per cent better than projections.

Levitt Reports Fast Sales Pace

First-quarter sales for all three of Levitt and Sons' subdivisions in Buffalo Grove and Schaumburg were 50-60 per cent ahead of projections.

"It should be our biggest year in Chicago," Robert Craig, director of sales and marketing for the nationwide home-builder's Chicago-area operations, said. "In addition to the present subdivisions, we also plan to open at least two more this year in Naperville and Schaumburg."

Levitt's first subdivision here, Strathmore in Buffalo Grove, which opened 3 1/2 years ago, reported a 60 per cent gain in sales in the first three months.

The other two developments, Sheffield Park and Sheffield Towne, both in Schaumburg, averaged gains of 50 per cent and 57 per cent respectively.

When completely occupied, Strathmore will contain more than 1,000 homes. Sheffield Park, 1,200 homes and Sheffield Towne, 75 townhouses, according to Craig.

Strathmore offers a choice of six model homes in a price range of $27,990 to $38,990 with two to five bedrooms. Sheffield Park has nine models to select from with a range of $28,990 to $39,500 and three to six bedrooms.

Sheffield Towne features nine townhouse models in price categories of $23,990 to $30,990 with two and three bedrooms.

Strathmore is on Arlington Heights Rd. north of Dundee Rd in Buffalo Grove. Sheffield Towne is on Golf Rd a mile east of Barrington Rd. and Sheffield Park is on Schaumburg Rd a mile east of Barrington Rd.

Standard equipment on all of Levitt's homes and townhouses includes choice of colors on all appliances — dishwasher, range, refrigerator-freezer, disposal, washer and dryer, complete landscaping and a selection of either a Tudor or colonial exterior.

"The high sales are pretty much in line with what's going on all over the country," Craig said. People are out to buy now because the interest rate is lower and because they realize that construction costs will continue to go up.

"We expect another good quarter in April-June with sales hitting about 50 per cent ahead of our original estimates again," he said.

Levitt and Sons, Inc., is a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. The firm, which builds across the United States and overseas, constructed more than 8,000 homes last year.

Interest May Go To Tenant

A bill requiring apartment owners to pay 4 per cent annual interest on apartment security deposits of more than $100 has been passed by the Illinois House Public Welfare Committee.

It is awaiting action on the floor of the House of Representatives. If passed it must be sent to the Senate where it will be considered by the Senate Welfare Committee.

With certain exceptions, the bill provides for the payment of interest on deposits held for more than six months. It would take effect in January, 1972.

Mayer Singerman, Apartment Council of Metropolitan Chicago (ACMC) executive director, presented testimony to the House Committee. He said that the payment of interest on security deposits would add to the cost of doing business, resulting in either higher rentals or a reduction in the availability of investment money for the industry.

This view was seconded by ACMC president Edward Zale. "As the return on investment decreases, so would new construction decrease," he said. "The only way to help the housing situation is to build new housing."

New Construction is Up, Hoffman Estates in Lead

THE HERALD

Thursday, April 29, 1971

Section 3 —7

The home building leader for the Chicago metropolitan area is Hoffman Estates.

The municipality leads in the Bell Federal Savings Survey of New Building for the first three months of this year with a total of 198 home permits. The combined value is $3,430,400, with an average value of $17,325. The March single-family permit for Hoffman Estates is 74, compared to 32 a year ago.

Hoffman Estates' acting building commissioner, Daniel Murphy, said the total of 74 units for March includes 50 townhomes at Winston Knolls. "If we base our projections for this year on income, and include commercial and industrial development, we should receive about $100,000 in income from the issuance of new permits, as in the last fiscal year," he said.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS is currently in second place in the number of new single-family home permits issued for the first quarter of this year. The municipality has issued a total of 111 permits. The combined value is $3,885,750, for an average value of $35,007. Of this amount, 72 permits were issued during March, compared to 45 a year ago. The majority of single family permits were issued in the Northgate and Surrey Ridge developments, reported Marty Munson, building commissioner.

Other Northwest Suburban communities and the number of single-family home permits issued during March, are as follows: Carol Stream, 3; Des Plaines, 6; Elk Grove Village, 1; Hanover Park, 54 (in two months); Mount Prospect, 3; Palatine, 31; Rolling Meadows, 5; Schaumburg, 40; and none in Wheeling.

Total housing units in the Chicago metropolitan area exceeded the volume of the corresponding month last year by 20 per cent, according to the Bell Survey.

Permits for single family units increased 71 per cent from 1,099 a year ago to 1,876 while multiples were practically a standstill recording 3,190 in March 1971 compared to the 3,263 reported last month.

Single family home permits issued for the first three months of 1971 totaled 3,420, an increase of 72 per cent over the 1,994 registered in the same period of 1970.

Year-to-date apartment volume at the end of March 1971 stood at 5,531, an increase of 14 per cent from the 4,861 reported for the first three months of last year.

Permits for all new housing for the first three months of 1971 totaled 8,951 housing units, approximately 31 per cent above the 6,855 permits reported during the comparable months of 1970.

The advantages of the "Multiple" Real Estate sales system

The "multiple" Real Estate sales system has been in operation throughout the country for several years. It is accepted as one of the most effective methods for assuring maximum sales coverage in a given geographical area and operates on the simple principle of many individual companies cooperating in a professional, ethical effort to offer a broad scope of customer service.

The MAP Multiple Listing Service, for example, was organized to offer a cooperative sales and service system here in the Northwest Chicago suburbs, serving the communities of Mt. Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine, Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Prospect Heights, Schaumburg, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Hanover Park and Roselle, with a total of 64 participating Real Estate offices and over 400 professional Real Estate sales people.

When you list your home with any participating cooperating MAP Multiple Listing Companies, your home automatically gets the attention of the entire MAP membership who ethically and efficiently use all their individual sales efforts to sell the home. You get the personalized supervision from the Real Estate company you list with PLUS the day-to-day sales effort and dedication of the 64 participating MAP offices.

There are many additional advantages when listing with a MAP office such as total market coverage, mass advertising and nationwide referral system, which will be reviewed in future issues.

Buying or selling there are many advantages when you place your home and your confidence in the hands of a local MAP Multiple Listing Service Real Estate Company.

Nothing To Lose If You Buy Now

Mortgage money will be easier to borrow this spring than at any time since the mid-1960's, but mortgage interest rates are not likely to go much lower in the near future and could even start edging back up.

This assessment of the financing outlook for home buyers is from Lewis S. Eaton, president of the United States Saving and Loan League, and president of the Fresno Guaranty Savings and Loan Association, Fresno, Calif.

Savings and loan associations are by far the nation's biggest private source of home credit. They hold more than $150 billion in mortgages, and the League's nearly 5,000 member-institutions account for 97 per cent of the nation's savings and loan assets.

"Reports from all over the country say you'd have to go back to pre-inflation years for a time when opportunities for qualified buyers to arrange home financing have been as good as they are now," Eaton said. "The reason is a large buildup of savings at our institutions during the winter, due more to a slowdown in savings withdrawals than to an increase in new savings."

The savings buildup was accompanied by a drop in effective mortgage interest rates on new homes from a peak of 8.52 per cent last August to 7.82 per cent in February of this year, according to figures of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. Eaton added that while a further substantial drop is always possible, a lot is working against it.

"A continued pickup in the economy would mean more consumer spending and business borrowing, both of which would tend to reduce the supply of money available for mortgages and to push rates higher," he said. "But of more immediate importance are anticipated heavy repayments by associations of money they borrowed from the Federal Home Loan Bank System."

Eaton said that between now and the end of June, associations will be repaying $2 to $3 billion dollars to their regional Home Loan Banks. These unusually large repayments will stem from a special government program last spring, when money was much tighter. The program was designed to encourage associations to retain borrowings from the Federal Home Loan Banks and thus aid the starving mortgage market, Eaton said. He predicted that a considerable portion of these loans will be paid off in the next several months, because of the recent savings buildup.

Eaton also noted that mortgage interest rates can't go down much further unless interest rates paid to savers go down. "So far, reductions in savings rates have been limited and scattered."

And because associations declare the rate they will pay in any given quarter in the month prior to the quarter, no general reductions in savings rates are now possible until July," Eaton said.

The league president said that most home buyers today are borrowing on more preferential terms than are the nation's largest corporations. "And as is becoming well-understood," he said, "anyone waiting for a substantial drop in mortgage interest rates usually sees his interest savings, if any, more than wiped out by rising construction costs.

"In short, with mortgage money as available as it is today, anyone who finds a home he wants and can afford will probably have nothing to lose by buying now," he concluded.

Peterson Returns To Automatic Electric

Realtors Set to Discuss Taxes, Revenue Sharing

The annual spring meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards (NAREB) will be held in Chicago, May 5-11.

Approximately 1,500 Realtors will gather for the meeting. Bill N. Brown, of Albuquerque, N.M., president, will lead the sessions, headquartered at the Drake Hotel. Presidents of seven of the nine affiliates of NAREB will also participate in the meetings.

Among the major subjects for discussion at various committee meetings will be action taken by the Justice Department against boards of Realtors for alleged violations of the anti-trust statutes, President Nixon's revenue-sharing plan, and variable interest-rate mortgages. Progress of NAREB's broad Make America Better program, developed to help provide solutions to the major problems of cities and towns, will also be highlighted.

Association plans for the remainder of 1971 will also be set by members during the many committee sessions and at the board of directors meeting which concludes the gathering. Also featured in connection with the meetings will be educational sessions sponsored by the NAREB-affiliated institutes, societies, and councils.

Evelyn Pappas, LaCanada, Calif., president of the Women's Council of NAREB, announced that Congresswoman Charlotte T. Reid, (R-Ill.) will address Council members at its annual luncheon, May 8. One of only 12 women in the House of Representatives, she is serving her fifth term and is a member of the Appropriations and Standards of Official Conduct Committees. She will discuss a Woman in the House.

The National Institute of Farm and Land Brokers, which Lester R. Arie, Phoenix, is serving as president will present an extensive workshop on federal tax problems affecting real estate on the afternoon of May 7. The program will be conducted by Davis Lipeon, tax manager of Arthur Andersen and Co., Chicago, and time will be available for questions and answers from participants. Immediately preceding this program, NIFLB members will tour the trading floor of the Chicago Board of Trade.

A special seminar on CPM (Certified Property Manager) consulting services will be held by the Institute of Real Estate Management on May 6. Theodore R. Britton Jr., CPM, Washington, D.C., Deputy assistant secretary for research and technology, Department of Housing and Urban Development, will discuss HUD's new emphasis on housing management at a luncheon during the seminar. Subjects to be covered during the afternoon include government contracts for training hard-core unemployed, consulting services for sponsors of low-income housing, syndication — consulting management and participation, and consulting services for a new office building and apartment house project. William Walters Jr., CPM, Los Angeles, Calif., president, will preside at the IREM meetings.

The relationship between investment banking and real estate and discussion of one of a new town — Park Forest South — will highlight meetings of the American Society of Real Estate Counselors. Both programs will be held May 8, John P. Delman CRE (Counselor, Real Estate), Philadelphia, Pa., society president has announced.

The Annual Commercial-Investment Property Clinic of the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers will be held May 7 and 8, according to Tom Grant Jr., Tulsa, Okla., president. Highlighting this presentation will be extensive discussions on new broker horizons, including turnkey office buildings (a new development whereby tenants move into an office which is completely equipped by the developer "down to the pens and pencils on the desks"), commercial condominiums, and mobile home parks as an investment. A special session will be held on mortgaging and financing. A third program will cover determining value of equities on industrial, multi-family, and office properties.

Special sessions will also be conducted by other NAREB affiliates with their presidents in charge. These include C. Robert Boucher, Washington D.C., American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers and Jack Justice, Miami Beach, Fla., American Chapter, International Real Estate Federation.

The spring meeting of the Society of Industrial Realtors concluded this week in Scottsdale, Ariz.

CONSTRUCTION HAS STARTED on this five-story 80,000 square foot office building as the third construction phase of the new $200 million Walden community in Schaumburg. Included in Walden's total plan are 2,252 low-rise apartments, 400 high-rise units, 348 townhouses, two motor inns and 330,000 square feet of commercial and office space. General contractor is Pepper Construction Co.

Credit Outlook Bright

The outlook for mortgage credit is as bright as it has been for many years, funds are plentiful, and lenders in most areas are again soliciting loans. Bill N. Brown, Albuquerque, N.M., president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, stated recently.

Basing his comments on the just-released study of the mortgage market by the NAREB Department of Research, Brown noted that "as consumers who had to postpone purchase return to the market, demand for home financing has grown, but at a somewhat slower pace than the supply of funds."

"It is widely expected that buyers will enjoy ready access to credit, at least for the next six months," he said.

The NAREB president continued, "With the volume of funds available for placement, financial institutions in competition with one another will be accommodating a wider range of loan applicants. They will approve longer-term maturities and moderately smaller average down payments for some borrowers."

"For others, able to invest a substantial equity (25 to 35 per cent), rates will be 1/4 to 3/4 percentage points below the average charge."

Turning to specific findings of the study of data supplied by 180 Realtors from all parts of the country, Brown reported that not since 1964 and 1965 has the supply of capital for conventional home financing been so abundant. "Currently, the buyer of either an existing house or a new one in a good neighborhood is finding resources ample in four out of five communities. In most of the remainder, the supply is moderate," he said.

He recalled that last year a shortage for existing-home loans in good neighborhoods was reported in 60 per cent of the country, and now the supply is ample in 82 per cent and moderate in 17 per cent.

In a similar reversal, resources for conventional loans on new houses were scarce in a majority of areas (58 per cent), but the supply is currently ample in 84 per cent of the nation and moderate in 15 per cent.

The rate most prevalent for a new-home mortgage is 7.5 per cent, he said. This exists in two-fifths of the country, the NAREB study showed. It is 7.75 per cent in one-fifth of the areas, and a higher cost — generally 8 per cent — is common in almost a fourth of the country, while a lower one — frequently 7.25 per cent — prevails in the remainder.

"These rates represent a major change from six months ago, when 8.5 per cent was dominant," the report continued.

Although the average cost of borrowing for purchase of an existing home in a good neighborhood is slightly higher in some areas, the change from six months ago has been relatively similar.

Brown noted that earlier market reports showed that resources for financing homes in neglected neighborhoods virtually dried up in the recent period of credit shortage. "The current willingness of lenders to accept mortgage applications for purchase of these properties is welcome news for everyone interested in urban renewal," Brown stated. "Specifically, it is significant for those who wish to buy in city areas that are often convenient but in which deterioration and, to a degree, blight, gave the area a serious disadvantage in the competition for mortgage credit."

"Currently the supply of funds for conventional loans on these properties is moderate in 42 per cent of the nation and ample in 28 per cent," Brown reported. The NAREB president noted that, in areas where a conventional mortgage is obtainable, the rate is somewhat higher than for properties in better quality neighborhoods.

Walden Moving To Next Phase

Construction has started on the second and third phases of Walden, a new community in Schaumburg, John Skanderup, president, Pepper Construction Co., Chicago, general contractors, made the announcement.

Skanderup said that the second phase construction includes 204 apartment units in two three-story elevator buildings and 19 townhouses in four buildings. Third phase is an 80,000 square foot five-story office building.

The contractor has already completed the first phase consisting of 204 units in two elevator buildings and 50 deluxe townhouses. Construction costs of the first three phases is in excess of $20 million. Estimated cost of the total development is $200 million.

Included in Walden's total plan are 2,252 low-rise elevator apartment units, 400 high-rise units, 348 townhouses, two motor inns containing 500 rooms, 330,000 square feet of commercial and office space, five lakes and complete supporting facilities. These include pools, ponds, putting greens, tot-lots, a club house, tennis courts, and miles of bicycle paths and walking trails.

A public school is scheduled to be built and operated on the premises by the local school district.

"One of the most interesting parts of the development is the landscaping," Skanderup said. "Normally a developer will allot $50 per dwelling unit for landscaping and recreational facilities, but the Walden developers are allowing a minimum $800 per unit in the initial phases."

Walden is located on 155 acres bordered by Algonquin and Meacham Rds., Arbor Drive, and the Northwest Tollway. The developers are William J. Walsh and McCormick Investments, Inc. Karl Treffinger & Associates, San Francisco, is the architect, while Sasaki-Walker Associates, Sausalito, Calif., is the landscape architect.

What began with a few leaves of green sprinkled with salt, or "sal," has become the versatile imaginative salad. Even the word "salad" comes from this latin word for salt, "sal." Appearing in every guise in our menus and in every costume on our tables, the modern salad combines foods, flavors, colors and textures with limitless inventiveness.

There's the molded main-course salad, awaiting your convenience as a hostess, which combines fruits with meats or other proteins.

Around The World With Savory Salads

The lush salad platter brings sunshine to the luncheon, buffet or patio or patio table and is perfect for help-yourself service.

Then, there's the tossed salad, substantial or delicate, simple or elaborate. Of chameleon-like character, the ubiquitous tossed salad will interpret any mood, any season, any culture. 'Tis your inventiveness that is the master here, particularly if you begin with a Basic Cosmopolitan Salad Bowl. Featuring avocados, apples and iceberg lettuce, this combination becomes the point of departure for a salad "adventure."

Today's salad "tour" begins with Basic Cosmopolitan, then travels to France, Italy and the Orient via fascinating representative additions.

Basic Cosmopolitan Salad Bowl

One California Avocado
One Large Washington Apple
One Head Western Iceberg Lettuce

French Salad

Cut iceberg lettuce into 4 thick slices; arrange on chilled, individual serving plates. Core and cut unpared apple into thin slices. Cut avocado in half lengthwise; remove seed and skin; slice lengthwise. Alternate apple and avocado slices on left side of each lettuce raft. Spoon marinated beef strips and marinade on right side of raft. Serve with Mustard Mayonnaise. Makes 4 servings.

Marinated Beef:

1 1/2 cups thin strips rare roast beef
3 tablespoons oil
1 tablespoon wine vinegar
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon coarsely ground pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
3 tablespoons sliced ripe olives
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Combine strips of beef with oil, vinegar, salt, pepper, pimiento, olives and parsley and mix well. Chill an hour or longer.

Mustard Mayonnaise:

Combine 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 1 1/2 tablespoons tarragon flavor wine vinegar, 1 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard, 2 tablespoons salad oil, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon coarsely ground pepper and mix well. Makes 3/4 cup dressing.

Italian Salad

Cut lettuce into chunks and place in salad bowl. Core and dice apple. Cut avocado in half, remove seed and skin; dice. Combine apple and avocado with lettuce chunks. Pour marinated mushrooms, garbanzos and dressing over all. Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon seasoned salt and toss lightly. Serve at once. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Marinated Mushrooms and Garbanzos:

1/2 cup salad oil
3 tablespoons garlic flavor wine vinegar
1/2 teaspoon Italian herb seasoning
1/4 teaspoon seasoned pepper
1/4 teaspoon sugar
1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
1 (8-oz.) can garbanzos, drained

Combine oil, vinegar, herb seasoning, pepper and sugar. Pour over mushroom slices and drained garbanzos and chill an hour or longer.

Oriental Salad

Coarsely shred lettuce into chilled salad bowl. Core and dice unpared apple. Cut avocado in half, remove seed and skin; dice. Combine apple, avocado and shredded lettuce with crab meat and water chestnuts. Toss lightly. Spoon into individual bowls. Serve with Soy Dressing. Sprinkle each serving with toasted sesame seeds. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Crab Meat and Water Chestnuts:

1 cup diced crab meat
1 can (5-oz.) water chestnuts, drained and sliced

Soy Dressing
Toasted sesame seeds

Soy Dressing:

Mix 1 tablespoon brown sugar (packed) with 1 teaspoon cornstarch, 1/2 teaspoon powdered ginger and 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard in small saucepan. Stir in 1/4 cup water, 2 tablespoons soy sauce, 2 tablespoons catsup and 3 tablespoons garlic flavor wine vinegar. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and thickens slightly. Remove from heat and cool. Add 3 tablespoons salad oil and mix well. Stir again just before serving. Makes about 3/4 cup dressing.

Tomato Herb Sauted Cannelloni

Easy Dish With Italian Flavor

Sunny and singing as Southern Italy itself is this updated version of famous cannelloni. You still have a three part symphony of pasta, filling and sauce, yet by using perfectly seasoned canned tomato herb sauce you eliminate one whole lengthy step of preparation. Made this way, the cook gets to sing too.

The spinach gives interesting texture and color contrast as well as flavor to the cannelloni — makes them look handsome, too. Use a light hand with the dough, to assure its tender freshness.

As for the filling, double up on the cheese and you add depth, but when it comes to the sauce, those herbs and tomatoes already have been perfectly balanced for you by Hunt-Wesson Foods. All you do is add wine and water to tomato herb sauce, which takes no time at all. You can count on this superb tomato sauce to be right, straight on as it comes from the can, or ready for additional personal touches if you prefer. It is always the same trustworthy perfect quality.

Keep the Italian feeling of this special dish by serving it with just warm crusty bread, a big green salad, followed by fresh fruit for dessert. And keep that tomato herb sauce always on hand, simplicity itself for adding an extra touch to already good recipes.

TOMATO HERB SAUCED CANNELLONI

- 1 (10 ounce) package frozen chopped spinach
- 3 eggs, slightly beaten
- 3 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Double Cheese Filling
- 1 (15 ounce) can Tomato Herb sauce
- 1 cup water
- 1 1/2 cup red wine (or water)
- 1/2 pound thin slices Mozzarella cheese

Heat spinach over very low heat until thawed then cover and continue heating 5 minutes. Drain well, pressing out all water. Combine with eggs, pour into center of flour, mixed with salt in mixing bowl. Blend then knead about 5 minutes until dough is well mixed and forms a smooth ball. Roll out dough, half at a time, 1/16 inch thickness on floured board. Cut dough into 3 x 6-inch rectangles, cook 4 or 5 at a time in boiling water 5 minutes. Drain well, pat dry; cover until all are cooked. Spoon some of Double Cheese Filling down center of each cannelloni, roll up. Place seam side down, slightly apart in bottom of buttered 3-quart baking dish. Combine tomato herb sauce, water and wine; pour over all. Cover. Bake at 400 degrees 15 minutes. Uncover, arrange Mozzarella slices slightly overlapping down center of casserole; continue baking 10 minutes or until bubbly. Makes 8 to 10 servings, 2 cannelloni each.

Double cheese filling: Mix together 1 pound ricotta cheese, 1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon sweet basil, 1 tablespoon finely minced onion and 1 teaspoon salt. Makes about 2 cups.

Most Overweight From Overeating

One out of four patients examined by U.S. physicians is overweight, a situation some doctors consider to be an alarming trend.

What disturbs them is that obesity is definitely linked to a number of major diseases, such as hypertension (high blood pressure) and diabetes. Both conditions can lead to diseases of the heart and both are known to be capable of causing serious eye problems, including blindness.

Most people are overweight simply because they overeat. Thus, in the opinion of many medical experts, the most effective and safest way for the average person to lose excess weight is by eating less food each day.

As a general rule, allow yourself 500 to 1,000 fewer calories a day than you are now getting to lose weight at the recommended rate of one to two pounds a week. You may need to cut down even further if you are still gaining weight. Don't cut down to fewer than 1,200 calories a day, however, unless you are under a doctor's supervision, since you may not get enough essential nutrients.

Kabobs Add Mealtime Excitement

Shish kabobs have always been a popular dish because they are easy to prepare and take advantage of practically any food the homemaker has on hand, including skinless franks. Cook the hot dog kabobs outdoors on the grill, inside under the broiler or tote to a picnic site.

Chunks of bologna or 1-inch slices of regular-size franks may be substituted for the cocktail franks, if desired and any number of different fruits and vegetables may be used. A few suggestions are: cherry tomatoes, parboiled small potatoes, orange sections, zucchini slices, apple wedges or fresh mushroom caps.

ARIZONA KABOBS

Kabobs
2 packages skinless cocktail frankfurters
1 jar parboiled canned onions
2 green peppers, cut into squares
1 (1 pound) can pineapple chunks

Basting Sauce

Pineapple juice, drained from can
1/4 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons prepared mustard

Alternate chunks of frankfurter, onions, green pepper and pineapple on metal or wooden skewers. Lay skewers in broiler pan or on grill, if cooking outdoors. Combine pineapple juice, brown sugar and mustard. Dribble over kabobs.

Mrs. Donald E. Hartung

She's No Harried Hostess

by LOIS SEILER

Unique recipes that can be prepared in advance are Mrs. Donald E. Hartung's choice for dinner parties.

"I like my guests to feel they are special and that I have gone to extra effort on their behalf," Lois Hartung said. "But on the other hand, I don't want to appear a harried hostess so I prefer dishes that can be fixed ahead and require no last-minute fuss."

With one of this good cook's favorite menus featuring Orange Ginger Chicken and Oven-Baked Rice, a hostess can feel relaxed and be assured that dinner will be a success. Even if guests linger over cocktails, the dinner will wait in the oven with no ill effects.

The chicken is easy to prepare. It is simply baked in sauce consisting of orange marmalade, oil and wine vinegar seasoned with Good Seasons Garlic Dressing Mix and ground ginger.

"All of the ingredients blend together nicely to glaze the chicken and give a savory sweet-sour flavor," Lois said.

The rice dish bakes in the oven along with the chicken. It is made from a recipe that was featured in this column several years ago and has been used regularly by this cook ever since.

Regular rice is used for this recipe. It is browned in butter first and then combined with bouillon. This can be done a couple of hours ahead, then the dish is baked an hour before serving.

"I USE CHICKEN bouillon when serving this rice with fowl, and beef bouillon when using it with beef," Lois explained.

As accompaniments for the Orange Ginger Chicken and baked rice Lois suggests a green vegetable, hot rolls and a crisp tossed salad.

To top off the dinner she recommends a Cherry Dessert that has been a long-time family favorite.

Cooking is just one of this homemaker's talents. An accomplished seamstress, she sews most of her own clothes and those of her three daughters, Judy, 14, Jean, 12, and Janet, 7. She leads the Junior High choir at the First Presbyterian Church, where she is also membership chairman of the Women's Association. In addition, Lois spends one day a week as a volunteer teacher at Westgate School, and she belongs to Chapter IX of PEO.

The Hartung family lives at 519 S. Lincoln Lane in Arlington Heights.

ORANGE GINGER CHICKEN

2 whole chickens, cut up
2/3 cup cooking oil
3/4 cup orange marmalade
1 envelope Good Seasons Garlic Dressing
1/4 cup red wine vinegar
1 teaspoon ground ginger
Wash chicken and pat dry. Place in a shallow baking pan or pyrex dish. Combine the remaining ingredients in a blender. Blend and pour over chicken. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 1 1/2 hours, basting frequently. Serves 8.

OVEN-BAKED RICE

4 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 cups dry regular rice
3 1/2 cups hot water
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
Melt butter in heavy skillet; add rice. Cook over moderate flame and stir until golden brown. Dissolve bouillon cube in water and add to rice with seasoning. (Beef bouillon may be substituted for the chicken.) Turn into a 1 1/2 quart casserole, cover and bake one hour at 350 degrees. Serves 8.

CHERRY DESSERT

1/2 cup margarine
1 1/2 cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 package vanilla pudding
1 can prepared cherry pie filling
Whipped cream
Cut shortening into flour and sugar with a pastry blender. Pat into an 8 inch square pan. Bake 25 minutes at 375 degrees. Remove from oven and cool. While the crust is baking, cook vanilla pudding according to package directions. Let cool. Pour the cooled pudding over the cooled crust. Spread the cherry pie filling over the pudding. Chill in refrigerator 6 to 8 hours or overnight. Cut in squares and serve garnished with whipped cream. Serves 8.

Triple Play Franks

Baseball Fans Will Cheer These Triple Play Franks

Get ready, wives and mothers, for the annual bout with the 20th century Pied Piper called baseball. Sons and husbands will be lured away to sandlots, ballparks and television sets and you'd better be prepared to rearrange meal times and menus. Quick-to-fix man-pleasing food is the answer and here from The R. T. French Company's Test Kitchens in Rochester, N.Y., are two new recipes that will bring as many cheers as a no hit game.

Cheese pastry spread with tangy prepared yellow mustard and wrapped around frankfurters are the components of the Triple Play Franks. Easy to make and to eat, they're perfect any time the players and rooters arrive home hungry. And they make delicious snacks too, when the fans are watching a night game on the home screen.

Rooter's Hot Dog Rolls are another sure-fire concoction. Chopped franks are cooked in a zesty sauce made with an envelope of onion gravy mix. Spooned into frankfurter rolls and topped with shredded lettuce, they're a tasty treat with exciting color and texture contrast. Accompany either dish with crisp carrot and celery sticks, olives and pickles. With brownies and a glass of milk for dessert, the menu is a nutrition-packed meal providing servings from each of the Basic Four Food Groups.

TRIPLE PLAY FRANKS

2 sticks pie crust mix
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
1/4 cup prepared yellow mustard
8 frankfurters
Prepare pastry for 2-crust pie as directed on package, stirring cheese into the crumbled pie crust mix. Roll out on floured surface to 14x20-inch rectangle; cut into eight 7x5-inch rectangles. Spread center of each with mustard. Place one frankfurter on each rectangle; roll up to enclose and pinch edges together to seal. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 425 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes or until light golden brown. 8 servings.

ROOTER'S HOT DOG ROLLS

1 cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon oil
4 frankfurters, chopped
1 envelope (1-oz.) onion gravy mix
1 can (6-oz.) tomato paste
1 cup water
6 frankfurter rolls
1 cup shredded lettuce
Cook celery in oil until tender, about 5 minutes. Stir in frankfurters, contents of envelope of gravy mix, tomato paste and water. Simmer 10 minutes over low heat, stirring occasionally. Spoon onto rolls and top with lettuce. 8 servings.

JEAN AND JANET HARTUNG ran all the way home. Lois Hartung doesn't usually prepare Cherry Dessert as an after school snack for her daughters, but it's irresistible. The dessert consists of a baked crust, a vanilla pudding filling and a topping of prepared cherry pie fill. Lois's dessert is easy, can be made in advance and her family loves it.

What's Thawing For Dinner?

Continental May Day Desserts

by CHARLOTTE ERICKSON

Perk up family spirits and surprise everyone with one of the following desserts as a May Day treat. European countries celebrate May Day with much gusto and tradition. Baskets of spring flowers are picked and presented to a favorite friend or neighbor. Festivals, dancing, gay music and, of course, the appropriate foods and wines are served to herald the coming of spring.

ORANGE LIQUEUR CAKE

1 cup butter (2 sticks)
1 cup sugar
3 egg yolks
1 teaspoon orange liqueur
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
grated rind of 1 orange 1/2 cup sour cream
1/2 cup buttermilk
2 cups sifted flour
2 ounces semi-sweet chocolate, grated
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup orange juice
1/2 cup orange liqueur
Cream butter and sugar until mixture is lemon colored and fluffy. Add egg yolks one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add liqueur, baking powder, baking soda and orange rind. Combine sour cream and buttermilk. Alternately add sour cream mixture with flour, mixing well after each addition. Add grated chocolate and pour into a 9-inch bundt cake pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 50-55 minutes or until cake tests done.

Meanwhile, combine sugar, orange juice and orange liqueur in a sauce pan and heat until sugar is completely dissolved. Pour all but 1/3 cup of orange juice liquid over top of hot cake just as it comes out of the oven. Invert on serving platter and pour remaining 1/3 cup of liquid over cooled cake.

This cake keeps well when stored in an airtight container.

ITALIAN TIPSY CAKE

This cake should be made at least a day before you are going to serve it so that all the flavors get a chance to permeate.
3 layers (9-inch round) sponge or angel cake from mix, bakery or homemade
1 package (3 ounces) vanilla pudding, (cooked type) 1 1/2 cups milk
grated rind of 1 lemon
2 cups frozen whipped topping
1/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla

1/2 cup dark rum
1 16-ounce jar strawberry or cherry preserves whole fresh strawberries or cherries or 1 can sweet dark pitted cherries

Bake layers following package directions or follow instructions below for Sponge Cake. Prepare pudding according to package directions, using only 1 1/2 cups of milk. When pudding is completely cooked, remove from heat and add lemon rind. Cover with plastic wrap and cool.

In a mixing bowl combine frozen whipped topping with sugar and vanilla. Fold 1 cup of this mixture into the cooled pudding. Keep remaining topping well chilled. Sprinkle 1/3 of the rum over bottom cake layer. Spread 1/3 of the preserves over the first cake layer, then spread on 1/2 of the pudding mixture. Repeat this with the second cake layer, using rum, preserves and custard. Place final layer on top, sprinkle with remaining rum and spread with preserves. Frost sides of cake with reserved whipped topping, making a ledge around the edge of the cake so that the cake top is indented. If you are using fresh fruit, arrange fresh fruit on top of the preserves. (Use fresh strawberries with strawberry preserves and fresh cherries with cherry preserves.) If you are using canned sweet dark cherries, drain cherries, reserving juice. Cook juice down to 1/2 cup of liquid. Add 1/4 cup of sugar, which has been mixed with 1 tablespoon of cornstarch. Continue cooking, stirring constantly, until mixture is thick and clear. Remove from heat, add 1 tablespoon of butter and spread on top of preserves. Now arrange the cherries on top of cake.

GOLDEN SPONGE CAKE

9 eggs
1 1/2 cups instant sugar
3/4 teaspoon almond or vanilla flavoring
3/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Separate eggs. Gradually beat sugar into egg yolks until light in color. Add flavoring, baking powder and salt. Beat whites stiff; fold lightly into sugar mixture. Now add sifted flour gradually. When this is well blended, turn batter into 3 greased 9-inch pans with bottoms lined with waxed paper. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 16 to 18 minutes, or until cake springs back when lightly touched. Turn out on cooling racks to cool.

Ripe Olive Cucumber Salad

A Shower Of Salads For Springtime

Increase your Springtime salad repertoire with this array of pretty and cool salads. Festively accented with California's native fruit — the ripe olive — these delightful salads are perfect entrees for leisurely informal entertaining.

Novel grapefruit baskets hold a refreshing tuna and grapefruit salad, flavor highlighted with the meaty textured ripe olive. Tastily dressed with a sour cream mixture, this salad is a perfect luncheon entree. It will look particularly gay with radish roses and glossy black olives for a contrasting garnish with the pale grapefruit shells.

Add the continental note to an attractive cool cucumber salad ring with a center of antipasto. Ripe olives, hard cooked egg wedges, bologna and salami cornucopias are just a few ideas for an exciting choice of foods. Served as a luncheon or buffet salad, it is sure to please all guests.

New Approach To 'Same Old Stew'

by AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

A spring steak stew takes on a new appearance when the beef is wrapped around fresh vegetables. Slice top round steak into thin lengths and roll around bundles of carrots, green beans or celery. Brown first and then simmer in tomato bisque. To serve cut into thirds and serve with rice or favorite potatoes and a salad. This is a different approach to stew that adds extra points to your being the cook of the block.

SPRING STEAK STEW

- 2 pounds beef top round steak
- 1/2 pound green beans
- 1/2 pound carrots
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1 (10 1/2-oz.) can bisque of tomato soup
- 1/2 soup can water
- 2 cups cooked rice

Have butcher cut steak into 3 thin slices. Cut these in pieces the length of a whole green bean. Snap ends off beans. Cut carrots in strips the size of the beans. Blanch vegetables tender-crisp in boiling water and cook quickly in cold water. Arrange bundles of carrots and beans in center of beef. Sprinkle with lemon peel mixed with sugar, salt, pepper and monosodium glutamate. Roll up and secure with picks. Brown on all sides in butter. Add soup and water. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Slice rolls into thirds and arrange vegetable side up on rice. Spoon sauce over. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

There's a saying in the Ozarks which goes something like this "Sweet taters is good to set on the table with most anything else. Even good with possum. Course anything would be an improvement over possum."

I'm particularly fond of sweet potatoes but didn't relish a couple of experiences with baked possum. Mrs. Burlin Jones of Beloit, Wis., sent this excellent recipe for sweet potato puffs which are great garnishment for baked ham.

With a few Flynn adjustments, here's how to prepare the puffs to serve 8 people. Cook, peel, then mash well 5 large sweet potatoes.

Place in a bowl and blend in 3 tablespoons soft butter, 1 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon, and 3 tablespoons light brown sugar.

Using a wooden spoon lift out the mixture and make into eight balls inserting 3 to 4 miniature marshmallows in each. Roll in crushed corn flakes (1 1/2 cups).

On a cookie sheet or 9 by 12 baking pan place 8 whole slices of canned pineapple. Place the puffs atop each slice and top with maraschino cherries. Bake about 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

For richer puffs, you can add 1/4 cup broken pecan meats to the sweet potato mixture. Great thing about this recipe is that puffs can be made a day in advance and kept covered in the refrigerator.

Speaking of yellow vegetables, here's an unusual method for preparing acorn squash. Drain juice from a 16-ounce can of grapefruit sections and reserve. Wash 2 acorn squash and cut in half lengthwise. Remove seeds.

Place squash halves cut side down in a shallow baking pan and just cover the bottom of the pan with part of the reserved grapefruit juice. Bake 45 minutes at 375 degrees.

Take squash from oven, turn cut side up and fill cavity with grapefruit sections. Combine remaining juice with 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup sugar, and 1 tablespoon molasses (or dark syrup). Pour over the grapefruit sections. Dot with butter and return to oven to bake another 15 minutes. Serve very hot to 4.

Cinco De Mayo, May 5

Celebrate Mexican Style

Feliz cinco de Mayo!

... or "Happy Fifth of May," United States (pardon me, Los Estados Unidos) style.

The fifth of May is a national legal holiday in Mexico, much like our fourth of July. It celebrates the Battle of Puebla which took place over one hundred years ago. Although the Mexican freedom reigned for only a year (to be regained nine years later,) that battle signified Mexico's resistance to foreign invasion.

Cinco de Mayo is a day for those who love liberty ... and a day for fun and food ... fiesta time.

Even if you don't want to go dancing in the streets or singing along with strolling mariachis, you can treat your family, or friends, to a real Mexican feast ... hearty, filling, and richly seasoned.

Home economists at Thermo-Serv suggest starting off the meal with a guacamole appetizer, and gazpacho soup dish, and then serving an enchilada main course a la casa. Mexican cooks have always been inventive and the possibilities of devising your own enchilada recipe are countless.

ROLLED BEEF ENCHILADAS

- 8 Corn tortillas
- Salad oil for frying tortillas
- About 1 1/4 cups Mexican Red Chile, or Enchilada sauce
- 1 1/2 pounds ground beef filling
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 cup shredded Jack cheese
- Fry tortillas in oil over medium heat until they blister and become limp. Dip into heated Chile Sauce. Set tortilla on board or pan, and spoon about 3 tablespoons beef filling and 2 teaspoons onion down the center of each. Roll tortilla around filling and place, flap down, in an ungreased shallow casserole, side by side.
- Pour enough sauce over enchiladas to moisten entire surface of the casserole. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake uncovered at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Serves 4. Two enchiladas per person is adequate when served in casserole with rice.

Note: Mexican Red Chile Sauce or Enchilada Sauce may be purchased in cans, and added to in a variety of ways to suit your taste.

The following is a standard beef filling recipe from which your enchilada "a la casa" may be derived.

GROUND BEEF FILLING

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 small onion, chopped
- Dash Tabasco
- 1 tablespoon chili powder
- 1 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 1 egg, beaten
- Blend well all ingredients in bowl
- Spoon about 3 tablespoons onto each tortilla.

Florida Orange Shortcake

Florida Orange Shortcake

A Springtime Delight

Southern cooks have had some advantages over those in other parts of the country, for they live where fruits and vegetables grow abundantly close at hand. Most naturally, Florida cooks have used fresh juicy oranges in myriad novel ways.

Thanks to modern methods of transportation, fresh citrus fruits are shipped from the groves to every state in the country in a matter of days. And thanks to modern communication media, the state's favorite orange recipes can be long to all of us.

One of the best desserts is orange shortcake which uses the whole Florida orange — rind, juice and sections. This time of year the big juicy Valencias, the most prized Florida orange variety, are coming into market. They're ideal to use in recipes like this because they're packed with rich, sweet juice, and are seedless and easy to section. Oranges are a good buy now, so stock up on them both to treat your family to this sunny-spring dessert and to eat whole, or squeeze fresh for breakfast juice each morning.

Goulash In-A-Jif From Cans

by AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Everyone has friends who "zotz" up canned foods by adding all sorts of spices and herbs or catsup. An in-a-jif beef goulash starts with a canned roast beef with gravy. To this is added tomato paste, onions, noodles, poppy seeds and sour cream. It's a quick way for a goulash or stroganoff which many people enjoy eating.

"IN-A-JIF" BEEF GOULASH

- 4 medium onions, sliced (about 2 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 3 cups)
  - 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
  - 1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
  - 1 tomato-paste can water
  - 2 tablespoons paprika
  - 2 cans (12 oz. each) roast beef with gravy
  - 1 package (4 oz.) noodles
  - 1 teaspoon poppy seeds
  - Sour cream (optional)
- Saute sliced onions in 2 tablespoons of the butter or margarine until tender but not browned, about 3 minutes. Stir in tomato paste, water and paprika. Simmer over low heat 10 minutes to blend flavors. Add roast beef with gravy. Heat thoroughly.

Meanwhile, cook noodles according to package directions. Drain; toss with remaining butter or margarine and poppy seeds. To serve, spoon goulash over noodles. If desired, top servings with generous dollop of sour cream.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Low-Income Dwelling Sites Earmarked For This Area

by DAVE CRIPPEN

More than 65 sites in or near five Northwest suburban communities may be under consideration by the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) for construction of low-income dwellings.

The Herald has learned that the CHA early this month obtained information on 13 sites in Elk Grove Township and 34 in Wheeling Township from the Northwestern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). And it was reported CHA officials would ask NIPC for similar information on several other suburban townships, including Maine, that previously was not available.

These additional statistics show 20 possible sites in Maine Township.

NIPC Executive Director Matthew Rockwell said CHA reviewed a study the commission is currently preparing to identify suitable locations for low and moderate-income housing in the six-county metropolitan area.

A PRELIMINARY report now completed earmarked tracts of land in or near Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Mount Prospect for potential use in meeting subsidized housing needs.

When CHA first reviewed the study, it obtained information on Elk Grove Township, even though that area was not among 10 townships considered by NIPC to have "first priority" sites available.

The preliminary report identified only

Maine and Wheeling Townships plus eight other townships, seven in Cook County and one in Kane County, as meeting the criteria for a first priority rating.

Exact locations of sites could not be determined, but maps prepared from aerial photographs showed tracts designated in both unincorporated and incorporated areas.

The report's statistics reflected roughly 425 acres available for construction of 2,296 units in or adjacent to Des Plaines.

In excess of 580 acres, enough space for 2,613 units, were available in or near Arlington Heights. And 518 acres of incorporated and unincorporated land in the Wheeling-Elk Grove area could be developed for 1,799 units, according to the statistics.

MORE THAN 2,600 units could be built on 568 acres shown by the report in or adjacent to Mount Prospect.

Figures on acreage and potential number of units in Elk Grove Township were not available.

NIPC officials pointed out their findings determined land and construction costs in each of the Northwest suburban townships exceeded funding limits set by the Federal Government. Therefore, as far as NIPC is concerned, the three townships in this area are not considered most desirable for low-income developments.

The CHA, however, is still expected to consider sites in the Northwest suburbs for its controversial plans.

CHA officials, maintaining their two-month-old silence on specific suburban locations, declined yesterday to elaborate on exactly how the NIPC report would be used.

CHA Executive Director C. E. Humphrey merely noted the study was valuable in determining the "needs of housing."

Humphrey also denied earlier reports by another top CHA official that meetings were underway with leaders of communities in which low-income housing was to be proposed.

He explained, "We have had discussions with some communities at their request to discuss the situation." But there reportedly has been no decision on specific sites.

"WE DON'T KNOW what we're going to do," Humphrey replied when asked about locations. Negotiation of an agreement with the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), he added, was the most immediate task facing CHA. Under state and federal laws, CCHA must give its approval for CHA to exert any authority outside Chicago.

CCHA Executive Director Victor Walchik reported a number of meetings with CHA had been held.

"We've met with them on several occasions," he said. "But there has been nothing definitive." Walchik would not comment on whether he thought an agreement would be reached.

Trustees Reject Fund Allocation For Water Study

The Village of Schaumburg this week declined financial participation with Hoffman Estates in a proposed water retention study which could provide solutions to flooding of Parcel A northeast of Higgins and Roselle roads.

Although trustees indicated that they would be willing to cooperate in any way other than funding in such a study their action follows a similar attitude taken regarding an earlier request for participation in a similar investigation in Hanover Park.

Since February, Village Engr. Joe Zgonina has been meeting with Hoffman Estates officials concerning flooding problems.

The local discussions were initiated following strong suggestions made by the Illinois Department of Highways that both villages get together to mutually solve area flooding problems.

ZGONINA TOLD the village board Tuesday that through the joint discussions with Hoffman Estates engineers the decision came to contract an independent engineering firm to study the problems and make appropriate recommendations.

He said Schaumburg was asked to share costs of the study on a 50-50 basis and estimated costs of the project at between $3,000 and $10,000.

Commenting on the request, Mayor Robert O. Atcher said that Schaumburg, back in its early planning days, had taken the water retention and flooding problems into consideration and at that time expended funds for a comprehensive study.

"Schaumburg put out money years ago and we have done more than our share in this respect since we knew that we had to preserve the flood plains even before the state geological survey came out," Atcher explained.

"I couldn't in good conscience propose to do any more than cooperate with the Metropolitan Sanitary District or any other governmental unit with respect to this but from the standpoint of contributions we have already done this and it has guided us so that we have no problems," he added.

Atcher said Schaumburg would be willing to join in pleas to the Metropolitan Sanitary District for assistance.

ASKED FOR HIS opinion and recommendation, Zgonina said he agreed completely with Atcher.

"It is my recommendation not to spend village money on this but to work with Hoffman Estates and other governmental agencies," he said.

Zgonina said that Schaumburg currently helps in the other villages' water control through insistence that retention facilities be provided.

He cited that Zoremba planned-unit development at Golf and Roselle roads. "That developer's system handles drainage of a 600-acre area, 500 acres of which is in Hoffman Estates, and we have forced that developer to handle this runoff," Zgonina said.

The state highway department had offered to put a retention basin on the Higgins Road site of the Bowling Proprietors Association of America (BPAA) holdings, he added.

"THEY (HOFFMAN Estates) have refused this and say that they do not want to give up this necessary land," he said.

According to Zgonina, Richard Regan, plan commission chairman in Hoffman Estates, has advised that the BPAA property is for sale and an interested developer wants to build on the land rather than donate a three to four-acre portion for retention.

He also noted that the state highway department had proposed a solution system estimated at $600,000 and Hoffman Estates engineers claim that the job can be done for half that cost.

"I can only presume that they have now chosen to abandon the route suggested by the state since they now propose this study," Zgonina remarked.

DAN LARSEN, administrative assistant to Mayor Fred Downey, said Wednesday that Hoffman Estates is exploring every

Teaching Panel

Students Learn From Specialists

by NANCY COWGER

Back in the good old days, school kids had more than an even break. The odds were in their favor, with only one teacher per classroom of about 30 imaginative youngsters, who individually or collectively brightened their teacher's life with a variety of mischief.

But now, at least in some classrooms, the odds are evening out, and from all indications the pupils are happy with the change.

At Aldrin School, and others in Schaumburg Dist. 54, some teachers are teaming up to give the children in their classes the benefit of having a panel of instructors to work with, not just one.

Fifth grade pupils have a science expert in Lars Larsen, and a mathematician and English enthusiast in Mrs. Carol Casey. Sixth graders study under the combined tutelage of Mrs. Susan Murnick, whose strong point is math; Mrs. Alice Martin, who handles English, and Mrs. Cheryl Rowder, who carries the science end of the team.

Team teaching came into vogue after most of today's parents were out of school, and the idea of having two or three instructors at the head of a class may seem confusing to them. But it doesn't work that way.

Each class meets alone for a portion of the day. The sixth graders are in a team situation about 3½ to four hours out of the school day, and in their separated classes the remainder. When the classes are together, the teacher with the best understanding of the particular material being studied is a sort of classroom master.

The "master" does the actual lecturing, demonstrating and presenting of material. The other one or two teachers either stay in the classroom, helping youngsters who do not understand what is going on, or take a smaller group of children into another room for concentrated work in areas of difficulty.

From the description, it may sound like the teachers have found a way to make their jobs a lot easier — one person taking responsibility for two or three classes while the others relax in a lounge somewhere.

This is not the case, say the teachers. They, like most other persons, understand some things better than others. Under the old system, a teacher who was a whiz in math might spend all her free time studying history or English, just to be able to teach it.

Now, with a specialist for each area, the teachers can concentrate on developing their own expertise in their favorite areas, to plan more intensive work for the children.

Larsen is one example. A science teacher at heart, when he was teaching all subjects he did not have time to prepare really exciting projects for the children, he said. Now, with Mrs. Casey on his team, he has been able to plan such projects as making radios out of wood, construction paper and wire and motors out of magnets and wire.

These have helped children to a better understanding of electricity and other areas of science, he said.

Each of the teachers feels one thing in common — the need to "come in in top form every single day."

If one of them is not explaining something clearly, the other teachers will ask questions.

They all feel teaming up has allowed them to make the best use of their talents, the time allotted them and the children's abilities to learn.

The teachers not at the head of the room have learned from each other. "You have to be able to stop talking yourself and listen as a student," said Mrs. Casey, who added she never really understood electricity before teaming with Larsen.

The teaming allows more time and enough personnel to concentrate on group work, said Mrs. Murnick. It gives each child three different persons to seek answers from, and gives the teachers three different opinions on the problems of each child, said Mrs. Rowder. Each child is noticed and given attention, said Mrs. Martin, and the bashful does not suffer because he does not assert himself. And teaming allows more flexible scheduling, they all said.

No Vote Count Challenge

Democrats in Hoffman Estates are putting aside any consideration they've had to challenge the results of the village board elections last week, said John Morrissey, Schaumburg Township Democratic committeeman.

A partial recount of the precinct results was requested because Democratic candidate William Brilliant, defeated, came within 67 votes of trustee elect Diane Jensen.

Election law requires that Brilliant receive 95 per cent of Mrs. Jensen's total vote and he received only 94.7 percent, Morrissey said.

Mrs. Jensen was given votes by 1,270 Hoffman Estates residents; Brilliant received 1,203.

Morrissey said the Democratic organization does not have the funds to challenge the election results in court on any other grounds.

VFW Planning 'Loyalty Day'

by JERRY THOMAS

"A Loyalty 'demonstration,' not of marches and speeches, of our appreciation and recognition of Vietnam veterans sacrifices has been planned for Saturday, Loyalty Day in Hanover Park," said VFW Post 2451 member Jim Koby.

A bus load of wounded Vietnam veterans are the only audience planned for the VFW Post's event.

"Now what we need to make this 'demonstration' a success is more demonstrators, young and old alike to show these brave servicemen how we feel," said Koby.

Koby is chairman of the VFW group's Loyalty Day observance for the tri-village area of Hanover Park, Streamwood and Bartlett.

The Hanover Township Post and the St. George and the Dragon Restaurant plan to host the Vietnam veterans patients at Great Lakes Naval Hospital, to a luncheon and an afternoon party in the Queen Anne Room at the restaurant, Barrington and Irving Park Roads.

"There won't be any speech making, unless it's something one of the men want to tell us," said Koby, who is also a Vietnam veteran.

KOBY SAID THE post's idea of observing Loyalty Day "is to bring those young men able to leave the hospital to the community and show them how we feel about their service."

"To do this we need the area residents' help," he added.

Citizens are asked to come to the Queen Anne Room between 2 and 4 p.m. talk to the veterans and "show support."

possible method of alleviating the problems and has not discarded any suggestion.

He said that a number of proposals ranging from $70,000 to $750,000 are now in his possession but that the idea of a complete study by an independent engineering firm was considered important before selection of any plan.

Estimating the cost of the proposed joint study at $7,000, Larsen noted that since Schaumburg's study was made, a number of new areas have developed and new storm water runoff figures created.

At the time it was prepared Schaumburg's study was good but since then land contours have changed among other things and I would have to say that their plan may be inaccurate to the extent of subsequent development," Larsen said.

Larsen didn't speculate whether the study would progress without Schaumburg participation.

of these brave men's efforts," Koby said.

The village residents in the tri-villages are expected to proclaim Saturday as Loyalty Day in the communities in conjunction with President Richard Nixon's proclamation.

Koby said the restaurant can accommodate a large crowd and urged area residents to attend and meet the servicemen.

Copies of a letter addressed to the President of the Republic of North Vietnam will also be available for residents to inspect and sign.

The letter urges North Vietnam to consider a five point request regarding prisoners of war.

Requested are the names of all prisoners of war, the return of bodies, visitation rights for Red Cross officials, an exchange of packages and correspondence between families and prisoners and the transfer of all prisoners in critical mental or physical condition to a neutral country.

"In this way we can show those returned Vietnam veterans how we feel and at the same time demonstrate that we have not forgotten about those who are prisoners," said Koby.

School Construction Bids Opening Is Today

Construction bids on an 8-room addition to Hanover Highlands School and a 15,000-square foot warehouse for Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 will be opened at 8 p.m. today at Helen Keller Junior High School.

The board of education is holding a special committee-of-the-whole meeting for the bid opening, which will be attended by S. Guy Fishman, the district's architectural consultant.

Fishman said yesterday 10 to 13 general contracting firms had taken out specifications on the projects, to use in bid preparation. Some of the companies may not submit bids, said Fishman, but he is hoping to get 10 of them.

Fishman said he could not predict how the bids will run, in relation to construction cost estimates prepared last fall. While his firm, S. Guy Fishman Associates, generally expects bids to come within 10 per cent of the estimates, he said he could not predict whether the Dist. 54 bids would be above or below estimates.

Fishman originally quoted a cost of about $225,000 for the addition, and about $100,000 for the warehouse, which is to be located on the Schaumburg Elementary School site.

The quote on the warehouse could turn out to be out of line, said Fishman, because changes in specifications made the area a bit larger than anticipated at the time he estimated costs.

In the most recent public project bid in the township, the Schaumburg Township Public Library addition, bids were much lower than had been anticipated. Library officials attributed the low bids to the general lag in the economy, commenting the construction industry appeared "hungry" for work.

Fishman agreed this is a "good bidding period," and said the school district is hoping to "get lucky" and be able to take advantage of the economic decline.

The addition to Hanover Highlands school is being financed through construction bonds. The warehouse, however, is to be paid for with funds appropriated from the past two years' budgets.

Order Plans For Sewer Work

Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) members directed a Schaumburg village engineering consultant firm to prepare plans and specifications for extension of a water and sanitary sewer system to the area of Roselle and Schaumburg Roads this week.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher, Atty. Jaak M. Siegel and Kenneth Stonecipher, BOLI counsel, will meet with Schaumburg Township Public Library officials Friday at 4 p.m. at the library. They will further discuss possible library advancement of funds to help the project.

Although the program would be handled through special assessment procedures initiated by BOLI and ratified by the village board, a 15 to 20 per cent estimated savings could be appreciated through completion of the sewer and water hook-up along with construction of a library expansion now in progress.

Library directors agreed informally to the hook-up last week and the village has indicated willingness to waive the usual related fees.

Project cost has been estimated at $125,000 with the library portion being between $6,000 and $8,000.

If the project is initially funded by the village, however, Stonecipher said Tuesday that before any assessment program can be worked out, plans and specifications must be prepared.

House Is Purposely Set Afire In Drill

A vacant house in Schaumburg burned to the ground Monday night in a case of "arson" which had the full knowledge and cooperation of the fire department.

In fact, the fire department set the fire, to use the house for a drill project. The building, on a planned development of property owned by J. Emil Anderson company, was slated for demolition anyway, said Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamson, and Anderson gave permission for the burning.

About 15 men from Schaumburg participated in the drill, along with other firefighters from Hoffman Estates, Elk Grove Village sent a pumper to the Schaumburg Fire Hall in case an unplanned fire broke out.

Abrahamson said the drill was a success, in that it gave the men practice in using firefighting techniques they have been learning.

Women's Club Will Host Community Unit

The Hanover Park Women's Club will host the proposed community council 8:15 p.m. today at Ahlstrand Fieldhouse.

The council was formed as a community project, and the meeting will be for authorized delegates, one delegate representing each organization in the village.

The steering committee, consisting of 15 members, has been meeting for the last few months and has a list of proposed by-laws.

Each organization has been sent a copy of the proposed by-laws, and these will be discussed at the meeting. Any organization that didn't receive a copy of the by-laws and wishes to be represented and hasn't been contacted, may contact Mrs. Dennis McKinney, chairman of the steering committee.

A nominating committee will be officially chosen. This committee will consist of the three officers of the steering committee, to include Mrs. McKinney, chairman, Al Perozzi, vice president, and Mrs. Jane Hengels, secretary, and five delegates.

The nominating committee will then meet to nominate four officers and three trustees for the community council.

The by-laws and the officers will be voted on in May and installed in June.

Conant Gets Award

James B. Conant High School of Hoffman Estates is among 144 high schools to receive the 1971 Book Award presented by the University of Illinois Mothers Association.

The award is presented in honor of Conant graduate Norma Jane Helsper who was one of 27 freshmen to achieve a straight A academic average for the first semester at the University.

Miss Helsper is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Helsper of Schaumburg.

The Mothers Association presents the awards in honor of academic excellence achieved by a freshman and to recognize the role of their high schools in helping make this achievement possible.

High Schools from which the students graduated have been asked to select books of their choice to be placed in the library to honor these recent graduates.

Dead Bolt Lock Ordinance Urged

Trustee William Cowin this week asked the village board to consider an ordinance requiring apartment developers to install dead bolt locks in their units.

The request was prompted by the number of apartment burglaries experienced in apartments compared to single family homes in the village.

Investigation into the ordinance's construction and feasibility will be done before any formal proposal is made.

Trustee Virginia Hayter told the board about information concerning flood insurance available in other regions of the country. She asked Trustee Edward Hennessy, judiciary committee chairman, to investigate how applicable the insurance might be to residents in Hoffman Estates.

tors, holding three-year terms, are Ronald DuPlessis, Greg Harper, Larry Knipp, Melina Kniptash, Dan Larson, Hoffman Estates; Eugene Ernsting and Wayne Schable, Roselle; Larry Paul Jr., Pete Justen, Kathleen McGahey, George Sloan, Schaumburg. Holding one-year terms, members are Lee Cook, Schaumburg, newly elected, and Mrs. Alston, the only incumbent.

Service awards also were presented at the dinner meeting, with past-president's plaques going to Vern Laubenstein, Richard Rathe and Tom Alston. Gary Salzman received the distinguished service award for his leadership in Project 100.

Norm Foster and Terry Lynch received service to youth awards, while Twinbrook awards were presented to Jan Herman, Barbara Wacker, Ken Pierce and Bernie Swonick. The outstanding youth leadership award was given to Rod Smolla.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS learned the Y ended the past year with a $3,766 deficit, in hearing the annual report.

'Fantasticks' On Stage May 7-8 At Conant High

James B. Conant High School's drama and music departments will present "The Fantasticks" Friday and Saturday, and on May 7 and 8, in the school's cafeteria at 8 p.m.

Featured as the young lovers whose interest in each other causes some domestic difficulties will be Holley Thorsen of Schaumburg and Ray Wolf of Hoffman Estates.

Joel Gluck of Hoffman Estates portrays the girl's father and the part of the boy's father will be played by Glenn Markgraf of Schaumburg.

Telling the "love story" through music and narrative will be Dave Westgor of Hoffman Estates as El Gallo (the narrator). Also in the cast are Jim Potter of Schaumburg and Rick Koepke and Cassie Telford of Hoffman Estates.

Directing the school's annual musical is Donald Breshears of the music department. He is assisted by William Patterson, Mrs. Nancy Temple, stage director, and Mrs. Jane Metcalfe, choreographer.

Faculty members Joanne Stevens and Barbara Anderson will play the piano in the accompanying orchestra. At the bass will be Conant student Mike Franzen. Mrs. Betty Friedman will be featured on the harp.

Student technical crews will be directed by Jo Landacre, lighting and sound; Holly Thorsen, costumes; Sue Cramer, make-up; Tom Citrano, construction; Mike Kremmer, house manager; and Glenn Markgraf, publicity.

"The Fantasticks" was a hit the moment it opened off Broadway a few years ago and is still in production. Such songs as "Soon It's Going to Rain" and "Try to Remember" make it a popular show with audiences, said Breshears.

Tickets for Conant's production will be available at the door; adults $1.50 and students $1.00.

Attitudes On Ecology To Be Survey Topic

Under the direction of Trustee Jack Larsen, Schaumburg's Clean Environment Committee will survey community attitudes on ecology-related subjects Saturday.

A group of about 70 volunteer workers will handle the project through distribution of questionnaires to 20 per cent of the village chosen as a scientific random sample.

Questions will deal with attitudes toward prohibiting sale of phosphate detergents in the village, willingness of people to separate types of solid refuse, bundling of papers, and possible use of paper or plastic garbage bags as opposed to the conventional covered containers.

Larsen said the questionnaire contains about a dozen questions and the community's answers may influence future work of the Clean Environment Committee.

Findings of the survey will be presented and discussed at an open meeting of the committee next Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Jennings House Youth Center.

Link High Percentage To Voter Confusion

113 Incorrect Ballots Reported

An unusually high number of defective or objected to ballots was revealed during this week's official canvass of the April 20 municipal election in Schaumburg.

Scrutiny of election judges tally sheets, conducted Tuesday night by Atty. Kenneth Stonecipher in the absence of Jack M. Siegel, village counsel, showed 113 incorrectly voted ballots reported from among the eleven precincts involved.

Voters confused by the ballots was cited by several village officials for the high percentage of defective ballots.

Names of seven United Citizens Party (UCP) candidates, five of whom ran unopposed, were listed on one side of the ballot.

UCP TRUSTEE candidates Jack Larsen and Herbert J. Aigner were listed for two-year terms at the bottom of this column. Directly opposite were the names of their unsuccessful challengers—Trustee Sigval B. Thorsen and Earl Meitzner.

From election judges, comments made to several officials, a large number of voters cast ballots for all candidates running in the election and they had to be discounted.

Many others were reported to have written in comments which defaced ballots and excluded them from the total count.

Following completion of the canvass, Thorsen, whom UCP failed to slate, moved for adoption of the ordinance accepting the official vote total, before stepping down from the village board.

"EARL MEITZNER and I are sincere in our efforts for and devotion to Schaumburg and I hope you will accept both of us as trustees-at-large," Thorsen told the board after indicating that he had discarded a previously prepared farewell speech.

"Earl and I will be pleased to contribute our talents to whatever causes that they may be wished for use by you people," he said.

Cub Pack Hosts Pool To Open June 12; Classes Listed

Entertainment ranged from the scientific to the silly at the monthly meeting of Cub Scout Pack 285 of Hanover Park.

Boys of Webelos Dens 22 and 24, led by Joe Lindl and Don Wagner, staged some scientific experiments that varied from popping bottle corks to growing inorganic crystal "gardens" in glass jars.

Mrs. Helen McNamara's Cub Den 2 topped the entertainment with a clown act.

The Arrow of Light award, highest in Cub scouting, went to Brian Leahy. Ben Leckinger and Robert Olson as they were graduated from the pack into Boy Scouts.

The Hoffman Estates Park District Lions Pool, will open June 12 and remain open daily, weekends and holidays, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. during the entire summer.

Learn-to-swim lessons for beginners through advanced water enthusiasts and several new aquatic instructional programs will be offered under the direction of Pool Mgr. Jim Sindelar.

A class for mothers and babies, aged eight weeks to three years, will be offered from July 12 through August 2.

"It is essential that mothers participate and weather will be an important factor in scheduling," Sindelar said.

The class will consist of exercise and swimming for mothers and babies together.

DIVING WILL also be offered, but Sindelar stressed that this will be separate from diving instruction covered in intermediate swimming lessons.

"We will cover basic dives and form in this series from one and three-meter boards," he said.

Basic elements of form and grace in the water will be stressed in synchronized swimming lessons which will require group participation and team work. Completion of advanced swimming is a prerequisite.

Water basketball will be open to boys and girls who are at least intermediate level swimmers.

"Solid" advanced swimmers may take advantage of basic scuba diving instruction from snorkeling through use of equipment, Sindelar added.

"Classes will be formed on demand and will be taught after the pool closes in the evening or weekend morning before it opens," Sindelar explained.

He said the first scuba class is scheduled for June 19 at 8 a.m.

FEES CHARGED will not be for instruction, but rather for pool use, Sindelar said, adding, class level for all swim students will be determined at the first lesson.

Minimum height is 44 inches in order to be eligible for swim instruction.

For further information concerning swim instruction contact park district offices, 529-8600, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays or from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday.

Beginning Saturday registration for swim lessons will be taken at the park administration building, 650 W. Higgins Rd.

Basic cost of instruction is $10 for a series of ten lessons.

Two Stores Sign Leases For Mall

Two more women's apparel stores have signed leases for Woodfield Mall, joining five other women's clothing stores and three department stores planning to offer lines of women's wear.

Madigan's and Foyers will be among stores ready for the Sept. 9 grand opening. Other women's clothing stores will be Bramson's, Lytton's, Hirsch Clothing, O'Connor and Goldberg, and Jackie's. The department stores will be Sears, Marshall Fields and Penney's.

The 8,000 square foot Foyer's store will feature "very young and contemporary decor," said A. Sigmund Firestone, president. There are four other Foyer's stores in the Chicago area.

Madigan's will concentrate on women's coats, suits, dresses and sportswear, said Joseph D. Madigan, Jr., vice president.

The shopping center will include about 200 shops and services, becoming the world's largest enclosed regional retail development.

Confirmation Reunion Set

Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church of Bartlett is holding a confirmation reunion service and reception for all persons confirmed by the church since 1899 on Sunday, May 2, 3:30 p.m.

Following the service, a potluck luncheon reception will be held in the parish fellowship hall.

This event is the third in a series of special services scheduled this year to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the founding of Immanuel congregation.

Guest speaker will be Arthur F. Schroeder, Lutheran institutional chaplain at Denver, Colo. He was a member of Immanuel's confirmation class of 1933 while attending the Immanuel Christian Day School. The school was discontinued in 1940.

According to Pastor Edward A. Lazarz, Immanuel was founded in 1871 as a German Lutheran Society, southeast of Ontarioville on Fischer Road. Its original church building and parsonage were moved to Ontarioville in 1876 and the congregation worshipped there for 83 years.

Because of growing pains, Immanuel began using temporary worship facilities on the second floor of the Set Screw & Mfg. Co. building in Bartlett in 1959.

In 1964, the congregation dedicated its new church building located at 1118 Devon Ave., a five acre site donated by a couple who were not members of the church.

The village of Hanover Park at the suggestion of the Community Beautification Committee, will present a tree to each of the schools in the village to commemorate Arbor Day.

Although Arbor Day is Friday the presentation of the trees will be delayed until Tuesday when they will be planted in morning Arbor Day ceremonies. The ceremony was delayed because the school principals will be attending the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers Conventions on Arbor Day.

Each principal was given his choice of tree for his school. James Binder selected a saucer magnolia for Anne Fox School. Hanover Highlands School Prin-

Robert Summerfield chose a red maple. John Almond of Laurel Hill School selected a sycamore, and Ontarioville School will receive a hybrid honey locust at the request of Richard Pijanowski.

THE PLANTING CEREMONY will be attended by Richard Baker village president, Louis Barone, a former trustee instrumental in getting approval of the project, the principals and representatives of the student bodies.

Also attending will be Mrs. Egon Petersson, beautification committee member who arranged the project, and committee chairman, Mrs. Barry Crawshaw.

More Public Hearings Scheduled

Board Approves Levitt Unit Three

An added commercial area plus reduction in the number of three-bedroom units in Levitt and Sons Sheffield Towne will necessitate public hearings on the part of Schaumburg's zoning board of appeals as well as the village board. Trustees, however, approved the Levitt unit three this week permitting the developer to record a plat of subdivision.

Approval, however, is subject to compliance with provisions to be set out in an amendment to the ordinance annexing the Levitt property to Schaumburg. The action is in line with decisions arrived at by members of the village's legal committee last week.

Essentially, the developer is agreeing to reduce its total number of three bedroom townhouses to 400 from the 575 previously planned.

A PUBLIC hearing on the annexation amendment will be held immediately prior to the May 25 village board meeting.

The newly proposed commercial area, planned for the south side of Bode Road, first came to light last Saturday when the legal committee met. The center will be channelled through the zoning board of appeals.

A hearing has been scheduled for Wednesday, May 19.

Changes in the Levitt building program came about through questions from village officials who became concerned about the large number of three bedroom units being completed by the developer.

The total development, to contain 3,800 units, will provide no four-bedroom dwellings.

Board To Expand Meeting Schedule

Schaumburg village board will officially expand its schedule of monthly meetings from two to three effective May 1.

Trustees this week agreed to hold village board meetings every second, third and fourth Tuesday at 8 p.m., at the Great Hall.

For the past several years meetings have been held second and fourth Tuesdays but the extra meeting is being inserted in order to cut down on post-midnight hours now spent at meetings.

Although each village board meeting agenda lists a 10-30 p.m. adjournment, trustees rarely conclude their business before 1 a.m.

Village Clerk Sandy Carsello told Mayor Robert O. Atcher and the board that she fears that the third meeting will also stretch out past midnight. She will, however, continue to carry the posted adjournment time on future agendas.

Atcher said he has no objection to the adjournment rule being noted on agendas but noted "this board will always continue its meetings until the people's business has been done."

Teacher To Address Mongoloid Council

Mrs. Elli Stern, teacher of a class for mongoloid children held at Ann Fox School, Hanover Park, will be main speaker at a meeting of the Mongoloid Development Council at 8 p.m. May 7 in the Fine Arts Building, 410 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago.

Mrs. Stern earned her master's degree in special education at Indiana University before taking the class at Fox. She will present video tapes of her pupils to demonstrate how a modern academic program can be taught to primary children with learning abilities rated as educable or high level trainable.

The council is an organization formed to help parents and teachers understand the development and educational needs of children with Down's Syndrome. The meetings are open to the public.

Persons from the Schaumburg area may contact Mrs. Robert Mead, 201 Sumac Lane, Schaumburg, for more information. Her telephone number is 529-8895.

24 Conant Pupils To Be Cited

Twenty-four James B. Conant High School graduates will be honored at the 47th Annual University of Illinois Honors Day Convocation, Friday at the University Assembly Hall.

The former students are freshmen Jill Stahnke, Douglas Traven and Norma Helsper all of Schaumburg; sophomores Robert Ruby, Richard Boreczak, James Button, Arlene Castle, Laura Marcus, Paul Weinstein, and John Hasenberg, all of Hoffman Estates; Nicholas Kron and Linda Miller of Schaumburg, and Eric Turlizzi of Dundee.

Juniors to be honored are Rodney Dyck, Roesta Gerstein, Carol Donahue, Mark Okerstrom, Alice North, Elizabeth Radosta, and Evelyn Trogner of Hoffman Estates.

Seniors are, Barbara Thorpe, Liza Christiansen and Mark Cramer of Hoffman Estates and George Schenck of Roselle.

During the convocation the university will give recognition to those full-time students who have been on the dean's list since last Convocation Day.

Freshmen are considered if they are on the dean's list of their college during the first semester enrolled.

Man Injured At Construction Site

James Norman, 38, of 1517 Revere Circle, Schaumburg, was listed yesterday in good condition at St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village, after an accident Tuesday at the J. C. Penney store under construction at Woodfield Mall.

Norman was unloading a semi-truck trailer when he slipped and fell onto a large coil of wire, according to a police report. Hospital authorities said he sustained bruises to his back.

Low-Income Dwelling Sites Earmarked For This Area

by DAVE CRIPPEN

More than 65 sites in or near five Northwest suburban communities may be under consideration by the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) for construction of low-income dwellings.

The Herald has learned that the CHA early this month obtained information on 13 sites in Elk Grove Township and 34 in Wheeling Township from the Northwestern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). And it was reported CHA officials would ask NIPC for similar information on several other suburban townships, including Maine, that previously was not available.

These additional statistics show 20 possible sites in Maine Township.

NIPC Executive Director Matthew Rockwell said CHA reviewed a study the commission is currently preparing to identify suitable locations for low and moderate-income housing in the six-county metropolitan area.

A PRELIMINARY report now completed earmarked tracts of land in or near Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Mount Prospect for potential use in meeting subsidized housing needs.

When CHA first reviewed the study, it obtained information on Elk Grove Township, even though that area was not among 10 townships considered by NIPC to have "first priority" sites available. The preliminary report identified only

Maine and Wheeling Townships plus eight other townships, seven in Cook County and one in Kane County, as meeting the criteria for a first priority rating.

Exact locations of sites could not be determined, but maps prepared from aerial photographs showed tracts designated in both unincorporated and incorporated areas.

The report's statistics reflected roughly 425 acres available for construction of 2,296 units in or adjacent to Des Plaines.

In excess of 580 acres, enough space for 2,613 units, were available in or near Arlington Heights. And 518 acres of incorporated and unincorporated land in the Wheeling-Elk Grove area could be developed for 1,799 units, according to the statistics.

MORE THAN 2,600 units could be built on 568 acres shown by the report in or adjacent to Mount Prospect.

Figures on acreage and potential number of units in Elk Grove Township were not available.

NIPC officials pointed out their findings determined land and construction costs in each of the Northwest suburban townships exceeded funding limits set by the Federal Government. Therefore, as far as NIPC is concerned, the three townships in this area are not considered most desirable for low-income developments.

The CHA, however, is still expected to consider sites in the Northwest suburbs for its controversial plans.

CHA officials, maintaining their two-month-old silence on specific suburban locations, declined yesterday to elaborate on exactly how the NIPC report would be used.

CHA Executive Director C. E. Humphrey merely noted the study was valuable in determining the "needs of housing."

Humphrey also denied earlier reports by another top CHA official that meetings were underway with leaders of communities in which low-income housing was to be proposed.

He explained, "We have had discussions with some communities at their request to discuss the situation." But there reportedly has been no decision on specific sites.

"WE DON'T KNOW what we're going to do," Humphrey replied when asked about locations. Negotiation of an agreement with the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), he added, was the most immediate task facing CHA. Under state and federal laws, CCHA must give its approval for CHA to exert any authority outside Chicago.

CCHA Executive Director Victor Walchirk reported a number of meetings with CHA had been held.

"We've met with them on several occasions," he said. "But there has been nothing definitive." Walchirk would not comment on whether he thought an agreement would be reached.

Expansion Vote For Library Slated May 22

May 22 has been set as the date for a referendum which would expand the Wheeling Library District into Lake County and nearly double the size of the district.

The date for the annexation referendum, which was approved in February by the library board, was set this week by Circuit Court Judge Harry Comerford, according to library trustee Joyce Finnegan.

The Lake County section of Buffalo Grove is among the areas that would be annexed by the district if the referendum passes.

The referendum, Mrs. Finnegan said, would not increase the taxes of property owners within the present library district boundaries.

HOWEVER, IF THE referendum is successful, residents of the new section of the district would begin paying taxes to the library. The library tax rate is 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation or $20 a year on a house valued at $10,000.

The library district now includes most of Wheeling and the Cook County section of Buffalo Grove. It wants to expand to take in all of Buffalo Grove, and the communities of Prairie View, Half Day, Horatio Gardens, Aptakisic and part of the Village of Long Grove.

The boundaries of the new area would be the Des Plaines River on the east, Arlington Heights Road and Rte. 83 on the west, the county line on the south and a line about one mile north of Port Clinton Road on the north.

Voters in both the proposed Lake County section of the district and the existing Cook County area will go to the polls in the referendum. A simple majority of the total number of voters will decide the issue, according to Roger Bjorvik, attorney for the library district.

PETITIONS REQUESTING the referendum were signed by 100 residents of the 15-square mile annexation area and then submitted to the Circuit Court for a ruling.

Library District Boundaries Told

The Wheeling Library District takes in an irregularly shaped area containing most of Wheeling and the Cook County portion of Buffalo Grove.

It is bounded on the north by the Lake County line and on the east by the Wheeling Township line which runs through the Cook County Forest Preserves.

The southern boundary runs along Palatine Road from the township line to Wolf Road and then continues north along Wolf Road to Hintz Road. The boundary continues along Hintz Road to a section line a little west of Buffalo Grove Road and follows that line to Dundee Road.

Finally, the boundary continues along Dundee Road to Arlington Heights Road and north on that road to the county line.

Bjorvik said that the district has not learned the total assessed valuation of the annexation area, so it does not know exactly how much additional tax revenue would be raised from that area.

However, Ray Duetsch, head librarian for the district, has said earlier that he hoped to double the number of volumes owned by the district, if the annexation move succeeds. He said that about 65 per cent of the out-of-district library cards are held by residents of the Lake County section of Buffalo Grove.

Because of this, Duetsch said, the district gave top priority to annexing this area. He said that annexation of other areas directly west of the current district boundaries could be included in a later referendum.

unpacks books which will fill the children's room on the lower level of the building which will open to library users in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling at 9 a.m. on Saturday.

New Library Triples Old Facility

The Wheeling Public Library will reopen Saturday in a new building three times as large as its old facility on Milwaukee Avenue.

The new library, which serves most of Wheeling and the Cook County section of Buffalo Grove, is located in a building at 850 Jenkins Ct., Wheeling, just south of the Dunhurst Shopping Center.

The library has been closed since April 15 while employees move themselves and the collection of 30,000 books into a building which formerly housed St. Mark's United Church of Christ.

THE LIBRARY will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Ray Duetsch, the head librarian, said, "The opening Saturday is to show we're back in service." He said an open house will be held later.

The new building has about 9,000 square feet of usable space, Duetsch said. The library's old building had about 3,000 square feet.

Duetsch said the old building was filled to capacity with books and "now we wonder how we got them all in there."

In contrast, the new building will be able to hold roughly 80,000 volumes, Duetsch said.

The library's next move, he said, will be to begin to increase the number of books and services.

"NOW THAT WE have the building, what we have to do is build," Duetsch said. "We have to build up our services and the collection of books."

Duetsch said that based on the number of people it serves, the library should have about 50,000 volumes, rather than the 30,000 it now owns. If a plan to annex a section of Lake County succeeds, Duetsch said that the library's 80,000 book capacity would be just adequate for the increased number of people.

"We're going from an inadequate facility to a building where we will be able to give adequate service. There are no extras here."

The key difference between the old and new buildings is the amount of space both for the public and for library employees.

IN ADDITION, THE new library has a children's reading room on the lower level, carrels for individual study, a meeting room for the library board, and an employees lounge. The old building had none of these, Duetsch said. And he said the library will add a professional children's librarian to its staff in June.

The library's new location, near Dundee and Elmhurst roads, puts it closer to the library's service area and closer to the residential areas of the district.

Correction

The main activities for Wheeling's cleanup day will be held on Saturday.

Containers for trash picked up by the cleanup crews will be at the Dunhurst Shopping Center from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

Although one group of students from Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School will clean the creek banks Friday, other cleanup activities will be on Saturday, according to Mrs. Roger Stucker.

Deutsch said that he expects "more demands for service and we expect to give more service." However, he said that in the near future, he does not think the library will be able to make any "drastic changes" in its services.

The library has a parking lot that can hold 50 cars, but Deutsch said that he doubts that it will be surfaced in time for the Saturday opening.

The opening of the new library comes a little more than a year after voters approved a $250,000 bond issue for the library district. The money was used to purchase and remodel the church building.

THE NEW BUILDING is the third in which Deutsch's assistant, Mrs. Muriel Lischett, has worked. "The first one was a little building on Milwaukee Avenue not much bigger than a garage," Mrs. Lischett said.

"Then came the store building and now this building. It's been marvelous to watch the library grow through the years. And I think the townspeople feel the same way about it."

'Top Priority' To Civil Defense

The Buffalo Grove Civil Defense Commission received a boost Tuesday night when Gary Armstrong, the new village president, pledged "top priority" to the local civil defense effort.

Armstrong spoke at a reception held by the commission to mark the beginning of a ten-week training course for the commission's emergency task force of volunteer workers.

In addition to Armstrong, Fire Chief

Wayne Winter, Police Chief Harold Smith, and Steven Brooks, the commission's director, addressed the gathering of about 35 people in the emergency operations center located in the basement of the village municipal building.

Also, Robert Johler, the communications director of the Des Plaines Civil Defense unit spoke, and two civil defense films were shown.

ARMSTRONG SAID the village board "will cooperate in every way they can. The board is well aware of the emphasis that should be placed on civil defense," he said.

"We're going to give it top priority and hopefully we can come up with money," Armstrong told the audience.

Armstrong said the commission "is to be complimented on their efforts. They have put in many long hours and they are dedicated individuals. This is the first time in the history of the village that the civil defense effort has taken hold. They've taken the ball and run with it."

IN HIS SPEECH, Brooks outlined the civil defense efforts in the village since the commission was formed in January. He also renewed his plea for more workers.

"We need key people to handle our key operations here," Brooks said, referring to the staffing of the emergency operations center.

"Now is tornado season and we want to get going on this. We need your help because this is you," Brooks told the audience.

Defense Director Is 1st Casualty

The director of the three-month-old civil defense commission in Buffalo Grove became his own first casualty Tuesday night.

Steven Brooks slipped and fell, injuring his knee during a reception held by the civil defense commission at the village municipal building.

"It wasn't planned," Brooks said. "I was my own first casualty, but two of those nurses got hold of me and fixed me up."

"I salute the nurses corps and Chief Smith (Police Chief Harold Smith) for getting the ice pack for my knee," Brooks quipped.

"It kept the swelling down to two inches."

Tests Cause Rust-Colored Water

The testing of new pumping equipment at village well number four, behind the Ranchmart shopping center, has produced rust-colored water in some residential lines.

Tuesday about 25 Buffalo Grove residents called village offices complaining of dirty water coming from their faucets.

Bill Davis, director of public services, said yesterday colored water was the result of one of the tests performed which involved reversing the flow of water in the water mains.

"It stirred up rust in the system," Davis said.

Davis said if residents are experiencing rust-colored water, they should not drink the water, but let their faucets run until the water becomes clear.

The colored water should only last until the system returns to normal after the well is put into operation tomorrow, Davis explained.

Yesterday public works employees were draining the 500,000 gallon reservoir at the well site. It was filled with water with a high chlorine concentration to clean the reservoir. The reservoir now has to be drained and water with normal chlorine levels pumped back in.

Despite the recent cool weather, it was warm enough for these two boys to go fishing.

Village Ponders Annexation

Wheeling might annex only those portions of the Cook County forest preserves lying west of the Des Plaines River instead of a larger 240 acre parcel between Dam No. One woods and Palatine Road, the village board learned Monday.

Robert Duchek, a planner for Harland Bartholomew and Associates, official Wheeling planning consultant, told board members in a report that Cook County officials "felt annexation of only the forest preserve land west of the Des Plaines River would accomplish the objectives of the village."

Earlier this month Duchek and village trustee John Koeppen attended a committee meeting with Cook County commissioners on the possibility of Wheeling annexing the forest preserve land.

Until that meeting discussions about the annexation between the village and Cook County officials had been stalled since 1968.

DUCHEK IN HIS report said Wheeling wanted the forest preserve land as a stepping stone to "areas along Milwaukee Avenue between Camp McDonald Road and Hintz Road which are now undergoing urban development."

Most notable of those areas is Pal-Waukee Airport which lies on the west side of Milwaukee Avenue between Hintz and Palatine Roads.

Duchek said the village position at the hearing was that Wheeling "desired to be in a position to annex certain land within its planning area now undergoing urban development and could not obtain continuity through other means."

He said it is "desirable for the village to annex land within its planning jurisdiction as it undergoes urban development in order to insure that urban services such as water supply, fire protection, etc. are provided and that development in accordance with the (village) comprehensive plan is obtained."

He said the Cook County commissioners "stated certain reservations about the annexation," however.

THE RESERVATIONS primarily related to "the power of municipalities to exercise police powers and control licensing in the annexed territory and to the five year limitation on the provisions of pre-annexation agreements."

The police powers might interfere with the authority of forest preserve rangers. Licensing relates to business license fees for the concessions operating in the forest preserve.

Duchek said the county commissioners approved a motion to take the matter under advisement and indicated that they were willing to meet to consider a pre-annexation agreement with the village for the tract west of the river, which makes up only a small part of the originally proposed 240 acres.

A problem may occur with the agreement. Wheeling has avoided pre-annexation agreements for any parcel, instead giving the property owner the right to disannex from the village if he is not satisfied.

WHIP Wins In Campaign Finances

The Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) lost its battle for village offices last week but won a small victory in campaign finances.

With the campaign concluded and its bills paid, WHIP still has $46.38 in its treasury, according to a report submitted to the Herald by WHIP member Norbert Bigalke.

The money, Bigalke said, will be used to finance WHIP activities for the next few months. The party plans to stay in existence and serve as a "watchdog" of village government.

According to the WHIP financial report, contributions totaled $773, while expenses were only $726.62.

The report showed that the party got most of its money from small donations including 127 contributions of $1 each and $57 in party dues. The largest donation was a single $75 contribution. The party also got ne $35 donation and four $25 donations.

The party's largest expenses were flyers, $279.50; photography, $111.95; and $120 for the party's fund raising dinner.

The party also spent $54.50 for posters, $51 for sample ballots, $44.82 for telephone service, $10 for copying services and $5 for rental of a meeting room.

Even though it did not win a single seat on the village board, WHIP listed expenses of $49.82 for a "victory party."

FROM HIS SNORKEL truck a worker makes final adjustments to the new traffic signal installed at the intersection of Arlington Heights and Hintz roads. The signal has long been sought by area residents.

Village Objects To 2 Developments

The Wheeling Village Board Monday directed village attorney Paul Hamer to file written objections to two proposed developments with the Cook County Board of Appeals and the Cook County Board of Commissioners.

The developments are a proposed horseback riding academy and an apartment project at River and Euclid Roads in Prospect Heights.

The riding academy, proposed for a nine-acre tract near Portwine and Lake

Cook Roads, is in a residential area and would be spot zoning, according to Hamer. The village board will object to the rezoning for those reasons.

The River and Euclid apartment project is a second attempt by George Martin Sloan to get apartment zoning for a 10 acre tract.

The new plan calls for eight three-story apartment buildings with 192 living units. The apartments would be one bedroom and two bedroom units.

A PROPOSAL for a larger development on the site was denied a year ago by the Cook County Board.

Hamer cited several new objections to the revised Sloan plan in addition to the objections he made at hearings last year. He then objected to placing the apartment development in an area of single family homes.

The new objections include a charge that the property owner cannot legally apply again for a special use permit since the first permit was refused less than a year ago.

Hamer said the density of the development "is still excessive" even though the proposed number of apartments has been cut from 270 to 192.

Hamer said the road rights of way and a single family residence which will remain on the property should have been deducted in computing the density of the proposed development.

He said the property should be subdivided, leaving the single family home in single family zoning instead of making it part of planned development zoning.

Hamer also cited problems with storm water drainage and sanitary sewage service in the area.

Parochial Aid Discussed

Members of five area Catholic parishes met in Mount Prospect Tuesday to find out what they could do to promote state aid to non-public schools.

About 60 parents attended the meeting at St. Raymond Catholic School, 300 S. Elmhurst Rd. They came from St. Raymond, St. Cecilia and St. Emily parishes in Mount Prospect and from St. Alphonsus and St. Thomas a Beckett parishes in Prospect Heights. The five parishes are served by schools at St. Raymond, St. Emily St. Alphonsus, and by Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic School in Arlington Heights.

Michael Mokate, a member of St. Raymond, told parents they should write their state legislators urging them to vote for passage of bills providing state aid to parochial schools.

MOKATE IS ONE of the speakers trained by the "Time for Action" program, which is conducting a state-wide campaign to get aid for parochial schools. The program is sponsored by the Illinois Catholic Conference, co-ordinating body for Catholic schools throughout the state.

Mokate and Norma Stein of Bellwood spoke at the meeting. Mokate said parents should write to their representatives urging passage of the bills, sponsored by Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, that are now in the Illinois House of Representatives.

The three House Bills, 2164 to 2166, provide aid through non-public school through parental grants, subsidies for families with incomes less than $3,000 and the creation of a state committee to develop new educational programs for both public and non-public schools.

HB 2164 provides a parental grant not to exceed $60 for elementary pupils or $90 for high school students a year for parents who send their children to parochial schools. The amount would depend upon state aid given to the public schools in the same area.

MOKATE POINTED OUT that Dist. 57, which serves central and northern Mount Prospect, receives $48 for each student, and High School Dist. 214 gets $54 per student in state aid.

The two speakers urged their audience to write to thank Schlickman for the bills and to urge Rep. Eugene Chapman, D-Arlington Heights and Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, to vote for them.

Three bills similar to Schlickman's have been introduced into the Illinois Senate.

"But don't waste your time writing to state Sen. John Graham," Mokate said. He told the audience to write to Carl Hansen, Wheeling Township Republican committeeman instead, "to protest Graham's attitude." Graham, R-Barrington, is opposed to state aid for parochial schools.

"The cost of operating our schools is rising. With increasing taxation for public schools, for many parents it has become a question of how much to sacrifice to send their children to parochial schools," Mokate said.

MOKATE SAID HE feels "the possibilities are good" for passage of state aid this year because "there has emerged a better understanding of the merit of a dual system of schools."

He said that granting state aid to non-public schools would not violate constitutional rights because money would only be given to teach secular subjects.

"Catholic schools can and are doing a better job in preparing their students for college," Mokate said. "Our decision to send our children to a non-public school doesn't hurt anyone. It's about time we share in the taxes we must pay."

Arlington High Wall Victim Returns Home From Hospital

Brad Boice has been released from the hospital and has gone home to complete his recovery from injuries he received more than three months ago.

The 17-year-old Arlington High School senior was released from Northwest Community Hospital Sunday. He was one of three students injured in a freak accident at the school Jan. 20.

Another student, William Horn, 17, of 145 N. Highland Ave. Arlington Heights, died early Easter Sunday at the hospital as a result of injuries he received in the accident. The third student, William Kelly, 17, of 751 S. Burton Pl. Arlington Heights, was released from the hospital Jan. 30.

Boice, of 814 S. Ridge Ave., Arlington Heights originally thought to be the student most seriously injured, underwent surgery on his liver at least twice during his stay at the hospital. All three students received compressed spinal fractures in the accident. Boice also received four broken ribs and a lacerated liver. Since the accident he had also reportedly contracted hepatitis and a staph infection.

A SPOKESMAN AT THE hospital said Boice will be confined to bed until his temperature stabilizes.

The students were injured as a result of a prank between classes at the school.

Police and school officials said two other students had barred the double doors of a washroom locking the trio in. They were attempting to force open the door bracing themselves against a free-standing "modesty wall" when the wall collapsed on them.

The students allegedly responsible for the incident were charged by police with reckless conduct and are scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights Court May 21.

But No Pumpkins?

A witch will be in Buffalo Grove tomorrow night, even though it isn't Halloween.

Her name is Pheona and she will speak at Henry Wadsworth Longfellow School as part of the Longfellow community education program. The program will start at 8 p.m. Friday.

Pheona will cast spells and outline the history of witchery for the audience.

Arbor Day Plans Told

Wheeling Park District commissioners will plant five maple trees in Chamber of Commerce park on North Wolf Road tomorrow in honor of Arbor Day.

The tree planting at approximately 5 p.m. is designed to begin landscaping of the park as a place for walking and sitting among trees and flowers.

Dist. Supt. Ferd Arndt explained the commissioners hope to make additions to the park development on an annual basis each Arbor Day in addition to other development of the park.

Just Politics

by Ed Murnane

A new bid has been launched in Springfield to change the date of primary elections in Illinois and also to give the state a meaningful presidential primary every four years.

The latest effort is being directed by the Committee on Illinois Government, a liberal-oriented, generally Democratic organization.

The CIG is pushing a package of 19 bills which would change the primary date from the third Tuesday of March to the third Tuesday of May, and would also change the manner in which delegates to the national political party nominating conventions are selected.

The CIG proposes that delegate candidates be allowed to indicate on the primary ballot what candidate for President they intend to vote for on the first ballot at the conventions.

A candidate would also have the option of expressing no preference.

"This process would give the rank and file of both parties at least some say in whom their conventions nominate and it would make the Illinois primary an important national indicator of presidential preference," said Frank Cicero, CIG vice chairman.

CICERO, WHO was a delegate at the Illinois Constitutional Convention, told United Press International that delegate selection in Illinois "has largely been invisible and closed."

Currently delegate selection by both parties is a mixture of election in congressional districts and appointment by the state central committee of the parties.

There is little opportunity for party faithful to express their feelings about who the presidential nominee should be and there generally is no competition in contests for delegate seats.

Other items in the election reform package include proposals for direct popular election in the primary of the chairman of county central committees and for a reduction in the number of signatures on nominating petitions for ward and township committeemen.

WELFARE ROLLS in Illinois, one of the prime contributors to the state's financial difficulties, continue to get bigger.

Harold O. Swank, deputy director of the Department of Public Aid, said preliminary figures for March said 37,326 persons were added to the welfare list last month. That means more than 830,000 persons are now on welfare in the state.

Southern Illinois communities continue to have the highest percentage of persons on relief. More than 30 per cent of the population of Pulaski County is on welfare and 29.7 per cent of Alexander County is.

Statewide, 7.1 per cent of the population is on relief while 9.4 per cent of Cook County residents are receiving welfare checks.

COMMENTARY ON ILLINOIS' pollution. The new state highway map lists 99 recreation areas in the state and swimming is allowed at only five. Fishing and boating are allowed at most, which means the water is there but stay out of it.

Minority Groups Hampered By Industry Moves

by MARY REIFSCHEIDER

The job exodus from central Chicago to suburbs as industries relocate, is excluding blacks and other minorities living in the inner-city from employment opportunities, according to the Chicago Urban League.

The answer to the problem, according to a research report completed by the League, is coordination of all mass transportation in the Chicago area.

The report, released today, contends that blacks are often left unemployed because they do not have a means of transportation that will permit them to follow a firm's relocation from Chicago to a suburb.

The lack of public and private transportation excludes the inner-city blacks from accepting employment in the expanding suburban job market.

The report stresses that transportation solutions alone will not solve the problems for black job-seekers. "The need for opening up housing opportunities for black citizens in suburban areas must go hand in hand with improvements in transportation accessibility from the inner city to suburban job sites."

THE REPORT points out that nationally, 75 to 80 per cent of new employment in trade and industry goes to the suburbs. Statistics show from 1955 through 1964 Chicago lost some 90,000 jobs, mainly from the west and south side black areas.

Blacks, generally employed in lower skilled or unskilled jobs, also suffer "from a severe lack of employment information about suburban jobs," the report states.

"Jobs that may be advertised in small suburban newspapers may never be known to inner-city workers. Many small suburban companies may be able to skirt fair employment practices on the basis that no blacks have ever applied for advertised jobs," the report adds.

But even when blacks have the opportunity to work in a suburban industry, they must often turn it down because of the high costs of "reverse commuting," according to the report.

The reverse commuter, the person who travels from the city to a suburban job, must depend almost exclusively on a personal automobile for transportation. Public transportation is not available.

"Many potential reverse commuters cannot use an automobile for they simply cannot afford to purchase a car," the report says.

REVERSE COMMUTING without a car becomes a time-consuming and costly proposition.

The worker must often start with bus or "el" transportation from his home to a commuter railroad station downtown. When he arrives at a suburban community, he must find transportation from the train station to the place of employment; local taxis are usually the only transportation.

A sample journey in the report states the monthly cost of commuting between Cabrini Homes to the Western Accelerator Project, a distance of 33 miles, costs $59, excluding cab fares or $174 by automobile, excluding toll costs.

Possible solutions recommended by the Urban League include buying or chartering a bus to provide transportation between employees' homes and job sites; purchase a fleet of used cars to rent to new employees; and operation of shuttle services.

FEDERAL FUNDS are available for demonstration projects and the Urban League has five ideas for the funds.

—CTA and suburban rail and bus services should be better coordinated by joint fares and transfers without loss of needed revenue to individual carriers.

—Establish a central telephone information service so Chicago area transit riders can obtain complete fares, routings and schedules on any of the transportation systems in the metropolitan area with a single phone call.

—Gather more information on the origin and destinations of reverse commuters.

—Increase the use of taxi and jitney services to provide more mobility both in the inner-city as feeder services to rapid transit routes and in the suburbs between rail stations and employment opportunities.

—Provide greater flexibility to the legislative bodies in Chicago, Cook and surrounding counties and Springfield, along with the transportation carriers to experiment with innovative demonstration programs.

Low-Income Dwelling Sites Earmarked For This Area

by DAVE CRIPPEN

More than 65 sites in or near five Northwest suburban communities may be under consideration by the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) for construction of low-income dwellings.

The Herald has learned that the CHA early this month obtained information on 13 sites in Elk Grove Township and 34 in Wheeling Township from the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). And it was reported CHA officials would ask NIPC for similar information on several other suburban townships, including Maine, that previously was not available.

These additional statistics show 20 possible sites in Maine Township.

NIPC Executive Director Matthew Rockwell said CHA reviewed a study the commission is currently preparing to identify suitable locations for low and moderate-income housing in the six-county metropolitan area.

A PRELIMINARY report now completed earmarked tracts of land in or near Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Mount Prospect for potential use in meeting subsidized housing needs.

When CHA first reviewed the study, it obtained information on Elk Grove Township, even though that area was not among 10 townships considered by NIPC to have "first priority" sites available.

The preliminary report identified only

Maine and Wheeling Townships plus eight other townships, seven in Cook County and one in Kane County, as meeting the criteria for a first priority rating.

Exact locations of sites could not be determined, but maps prepared from aerial photographs showed tracts designated in both unincorporated and incorporated areas.

The report's statistics reflected roughly 425 acres available for construction of 2,296 units in or adjacent to Des Plaines.

In excess of 500 acres, enough space for 2,613 units, were available in or near Arlington Heights. And 518 acres of incorporated and unincorporated land in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area could be developed for 1,799 units, according to the statistics.

MORE THAN 2,600 units could be built on 568 acres shown by the report in or adjacent to Mount Prospect.

Figures on acreage and potential number of units in Elk Grove Township were not available.

NIPC officials pointed out their findings determined land and construction costs in each of the Northwest suburban townships exceeded funding limits set by the Federal Government. Therefore, as far as NIPC is concerned, the three townships in this area are not considered most desirable for low-income developments.

The CHA, however, is still expected to consider sites in the Northwest suburbs for its controversial plans.

CHA officials, maintaining their two-month-old silence on specific suburban locations, declined yesterday to elaborate on exactly how the NIPC report would be used.

CHA Executive Director C. E. Humphrey merely noted the study was valuable in determining the "needs of housing."

Humphrey also denied earlier reports by another top CHA official that meetings were underway with leaders of communities in which low-income housing was to be proposed.

He explained, "We have had discussions with some communities at their request to discuss the situation." But there reportedly has been no decision on specific sites.

"WE DON'T KNOW what we're going to do," Humphrey replied when asked about locations. Negotiation of an agreement with the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), he added, was the most immediate task facing CHA. Under state and federal laws, CCHA must give its approval for CHA to exert any authority outside Chicago.

CCHA Executive Director Victor Walchirk reported a number of meetings with CHA had been held.

"We've met with them on several occasions," he said. "But there has been nothing definitive." Walchirk would not comment on whether he thought an agreement would be reached.

Expansion Vote For Library Slated May 22

May 22 has been set as the date for a referendum which would expand the Wheeling Library District into Lake County and nearly double the size of the district.

The date for the annexation referendum, which was approved in February by the library board, was set this week by Circuit Court Judge Harry Comerford, according to library trustee Joyce Finnegan.

The Lake County section of Buffalo Grove is among the areas that would be annexed by the district if the referendum passes.

The referendum, Mrs. Finnegan said, would not increase the taxes of property owners within the present library district boundaries.

HOWEVER, IF THE referendum is successful, residents of the new section of the district would begin paying taxes to the library. The library tax rate is 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation or $20 a year on a house valued at $10,000.

The library district now includes most of Wheeling and the Cook County section of Buffalo Grove. It wants to expand to take in all of Buffalo Grove, and the communities of Prairie View, Half Day, Horatio Gardens, Aptakisic and part of the Village of Long Grove.

The boundaries of the new area would be: the Des Plaines River on the east, Arlington Heights Road and Rte. 83 on the west, the county line on the south and a line about one mile north of Port Clinton Road on the north.

Voters in both the proposed Lake County section of the district and the existing Cook County area will go to the polls in the referendum. A simple majority of the total number of voters will decide the issue, according to Roger Bjorvik, attorney for the library district.

PETITIONS REQUESTING the referendum were signed by 100 residents of the 15-square mile annexation area and then submitted to the Circuit Court for a ruling.

Library District Boundaries Told

The Wheeling Library District takes in an irregularly shaped area containing most of Wheeling and the Cook County portion of Buffalo Grove.

It is bounded on the north by the Lake County line and on the east by the Wheeling Township line which runs through the Cook County Forest Preserves.

The southern boundary runs along Palatine Road from the township line to Wolf Road and then continues north along Wolf Road to Hintz Road. The boundary continues along Hintz Road to a section line a little west of Buffalo Grove Road and follows that line to Dundee Road.

Finally, the boundary continues along Dundee Road to Arlington Heights Road and north on that road to the county line.

Bjorvik said that the district has not learned the total assessed valuation of the annexation area, so it does not know exactly how much additional tax revenue would be raised from that area.

However, Ray Deutsch, head librarian for the district, has said earlier that he hoped to double the number of volumes owned by the district, if the annexation move succeeds. He said that about 65 percent of the out-of-district library cards are held by residents of the Lake County section of Buffalo Grove.

Because of this, Deutsch said, the district gave top priority to annexing this area. He said that annexation of other areas directly west of the current district boundaries could be included in a later referendum.

unpacks books which will fill the children's room to library users in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling at 9 a.m. on Saturday.

New Library Triples Old Facility

The Wheeling Public Library will reopen Saturday in a new building three times as large as its old facility on Milwaukee Avenue.

The new library, which serves most of Wheeling and the Cook County section of Buffalo Grove, is located in a building at 850 Jenkins Ct., Wheeling, just south of the Dunhurst Shopping Center.

The library has been closed since April 15 while employees move themselves and the collection of 30,000 books into a building which formerly housed St. Mark's United Church of Christ.

THE LIBRARY will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Ray Deutsch, the head librarian, said, "The opening Saturday is to show we're back in service." He said an open house will be held later.

The new building has about 9,000 square feet of usable space, Deutsch said. The library's old building had about 3,000 square feet.

Deutsch said the old building was filled to capacity with books and "now we wonder how we got them all in there." In contrast, the new building will be able to hold roughly 80,000 volumes, Deutsch said.

The library's next move, he said, will be to begin to increase the number of books and services.

"NOW THAT WE have the building, what we have to do is build," Deutsch said. "We have to build up our services and the collection of books."

Deutsch said that based on the number of people it serves, the library should have about 50,000 volumes, rather than the 30,000 it now owns. If a plan to annex a section of Lake County succeeds, Deutsch said that the library's 80,000 book capacity would be just adequate for the increased number of people.

"We're going from an inadequate facility to a building where we will be able to give adequate service. There are no extras here."

The key difference between the old and new buildings is the amount of space both for the public and for library employees.

IN ADDITION, THE new library has a children's reading room on the lower level, carrels for individual study, a meeting room for the library board, and an employees lounge. The old building had none of these, Deutsch said. And he said the library will add a professional children's librarian to its staff in June.

The library's new location, near Dundee and Elmhurst roads, puts it closer to the library's service area and closer to the residential areas of the district.

Tornado Film Slated

A film entitled, "Tornado!" will be shown at the meeting of the Buffalo Grove Civil Defense commission tomorrow.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the Buffalo Grove Municipal Building, 50 Raupp Blvd. The public is invited and persons interested in volunteering for civil defense work are urged to attend, according to Steven Brooks, civil defense commission director.

Deutsch said that he expects "more demands for service and we expect to give more service." However, he said that in the near future, he does not think the library will be able to make any "drastic changes" in its services.

The library has a parking lot that can hold 50 cars, but Deutsch said that he doubts that it will be surfaced in time for the Saturday opening.

The opening of the new library comes a little more than a year after voters approved a $250,000 bond issue for the library district. The money was used to purchase and remodel the church building.

THE NEW BUILDING is the third in which Deutsch's assistant, Mrs. Muriel Lischett, has worked. "The first one was a little building on Milwaukee Avenue not much bigger than a garage," Mrs. Lischett said.

"Then came the store building and now this building. It's been marvelous to watch the library grow through the years. And I think the townspeople feel the same way about it."

'Top Priority' To Civil Defense

The Buffalo Grove Civil Defense Commission received a boost Tuesday night when Gary Armstrong, the new village president, pledged "top priority" to the local civil defense effort.

Armstrong spoke at a reception held by the commission to mark the beginning of a ten-week training course for the commission's emergency task force of volunteer workers.

In addition to Armstrong, Fire Chief

Wayne Winter, Police Chief Harold Smith, and Steven Brooks, the commission's director, addressed the gathering of about 35 people in the emergency operations center located in the basement of the village municipal building.

Also, Robert Johler, the communications director of the Des Plaines Civil Defense unit spoke, and two civil defense films were shown.

ARMSTRONG SAID the village board "will cooperate in every way they can. The board is well aware of the emphasis that should be placed on civil defense," he said.

"We're going to give it top priority and hopefully we can come up with money," Armstrong told the audience.

Armstrong said the commission "is to be complimented on their efforts. They have put in many long hours and they are dedicated individuals. This is the first time in the history of the village that the civil defense effort has taken hold. They've taken the ball and run with it."

IN HIS SPEECH, Brooks outlined the civil defense efforts in the village since the commission was formed in January. He also renewed his plea for more workers.

"We need key people to handle our key operations here," Brooks said, referring to the staffing of the emergency operations center.

"Now is tornado season and we want to get going on this. We need your help because this is you," Brooks told the audience.

Defense Director Is 1st Casualty

The director of the three-month-old civil defense commission in Buffalo Grove became his own first casualty Tuesday night.

Steven Brooks slipped and fell, injuring his knee during a reception held by the civil defense commission at the village municipal building.

"It wasn't planned," Brooks said. "I was my own first casualty, but two of those nurses got hold of me and fixed me up."

"I salute the nurses corps and Chief Smith (Police Chief Harold Smith) for getting the ice pack for my knee," Brooks quipped.

Tests Cause Rust-Colored Water

The testing of new pumping equipment at village well number four, behind the Ranchmart shopping center, has produced rust-colored water in some residential lines.

Tuesday about 25 Buffalo Grove residents called village offices complaining of dirty water coming from their faucets.

Bill Davis, director of public services, said yesterday colored water was the result of one of the tests performed which involved reversing the flow of water in the water mains.

"It stirred up rust in the system," Davis said.

Davis said if residents are experiencing rust-colored water, they should not drink the water, but let their faucets run until the water becomes clear.

The colored water should only last until the system returns to normal after the well is put into operation tomorrow, Davis explained.

Yesterday public works employees were draining the 500,000 gallon reservoir at the well site. It was filled with water with a high chlorine concentration to clean the reservoir. The reservoir now has to be drained and water with normal chlorine levels pumped back in.

Despite the recent cool weather, it was warm enough for these two boys to go fishing.

Village Ponders Annexation

Wheeling might annex only those portions of the Cook County forest preserves lying west of the Des Plaines River instead of a larger 240 acre parcel between Dam No. One woods and Palatine Road, the village board learned Monday.

Robert Duchek, a planner for Harland Bartholomew and Associates, official Wheeling planning consultant, told board members in a report that Cook County officials "felt annexation of only the forest preserve land west of the Des Plaines River would accomplish the objectives of the village."

Earlier this month Duchek and village trustee John Koeppen attended a committee meeting with Cook County commissioners on the possibility of Wheeling annexing the forest preserve land.

Until that meeting discussions about the annexation between the village and Cook County officials had been stalled since 1968.

DUCHER IN HIS report said Wheeling wanted the forest preserve land as a stepping stone to "areas along Milwaukee Avenue between Camp McDonald Road and Hintz Road which are now undergoing urban development."

Most notable of those areas is Pal-Waukee Airport which lies on the west side of Milwaukee Avenue between Hintz and Palatine Roads.

Duchek said the village position at the hearing was that Wheeling "desired to be in a position to annex certain land within its planning area now undergoing urban development and could not obtain continuity through other means."

He said it is "desirable for the village to annex land within its planning jurisdiction as it undergoes urban development in order to insure that urban services such as water supply, fire protection, etc. are provided and that development in accordance with the (village) comprehensive plan is obtained."

He said the Cook County commissioners "stated certain reservations about the annexation," however.

THE RESERVATIONS primarily related to "the power of municipalities to exercise police powers and control licensing in the annexed territory and to the five year limitation on the provisions of pre-annexation agreements."

The police powers might interfere with the authority of forest preserve rangers. Licensing relates to business license fees for the concessions operating in the forest preserve.

Duchek said the county commissioners approved a motion to take the matter under advisement and indicated that they were willing to meet to consider a pre-annexation agreement with the village for the tract west of the river, which makes up only a small part of the originally proposed 240 acres.

A problem may occur with the agreement. Wheeling has avoided pre-annexation agreements for any parcel, instead giving the property owner the right to disannex from the village if he is not satisfied.

WHIP Wins In Campaign Finances

The Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) lost its battle for village offices last week but won a small victory in campaign finances.

With the campaign concluded and its bills paid, WHIP still has $46.38 in its treasury, according to a report submitted to the Herald by WHIP member Norbert Bugalke.

The money, Bugalke said, will be used to finance WHIP activities for the next few months. The party plans to stay in existence and serve as a "watchdog" of village government.

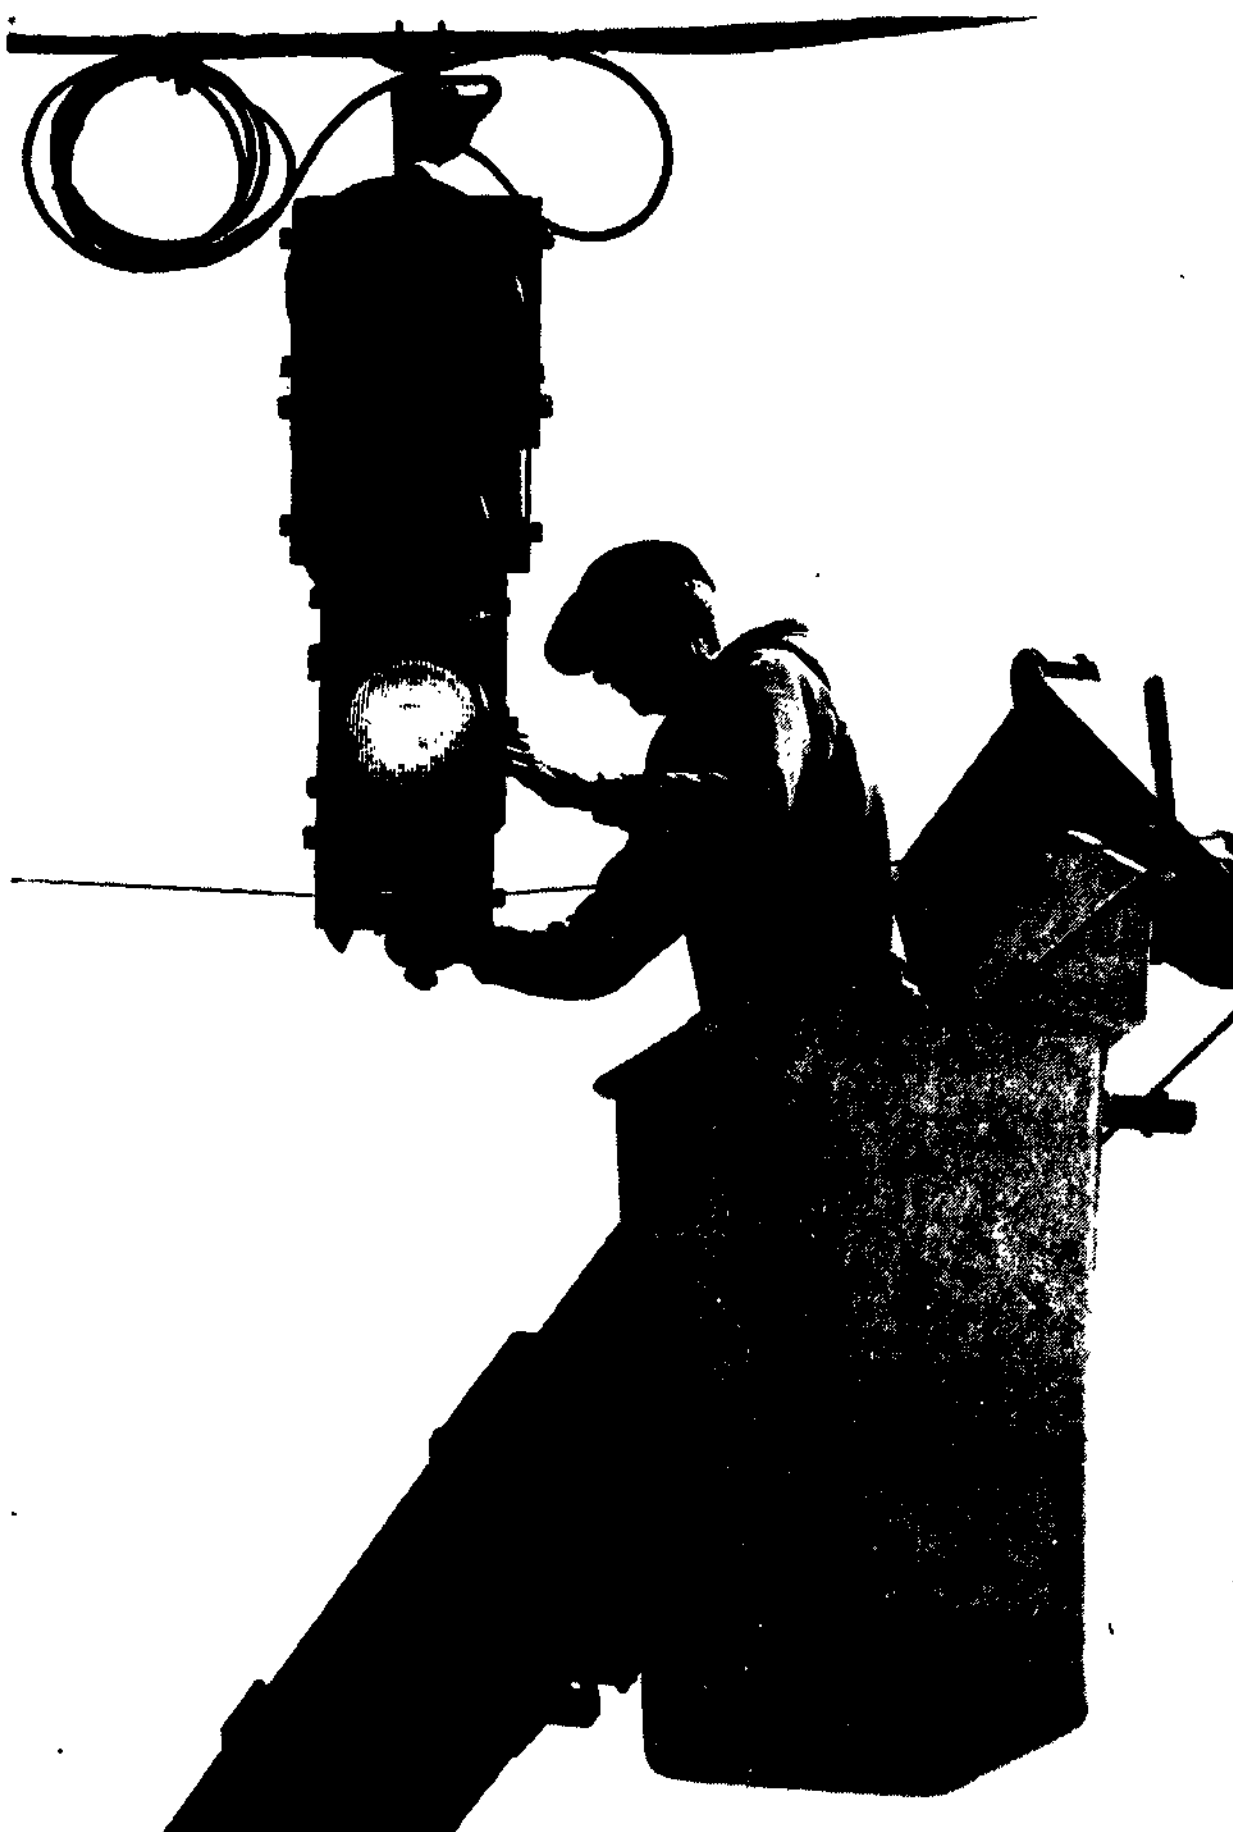

According to the WHIP financial report, contributions totaled $773, while expenses were only $726.62.

The report showed that the party got most of its money from small donations including 127 contributions of $1 each and $57 in party dues. The largest donation was a single $75 contribution. The party also got one $35 donation and four $25 donations.

The party's largest expenses were flyers, $279.50; photography, $111.95; and $129 for the party's fund raising dinner.

The party also spent $54.50 for posters, $51 for sample ballots, $44.82 for telephone service, $10 for copying services and $5 for rental of a meeting room.

Even though it did not win a single seat on the village board, WHIP listed expenses of $49.82 for a "victory party."

FROM HIS SNORKEL truck a worker makes final adjustments to the new traffic signal installed at the intersection of Arlington Heights and Hintz roads. The signal has long been sought by area residents.

Low-Income Dwelling Sites Earmarked For This Area

More than 65 sites in or near five Northwest suburban communities may be under consideration by the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) for construction of low-income dwellings.

The Herald has learned that the CHA early this month obtained information on 13 sites in Elk Grove Township and 34 in Wheeling Township from the Northwestern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). And it was reported CHA officials would ask NIPC for similar information on several other suburban townships, including Maine, that previously was not available.

These additional statistics show 20 possible sites in Maine Township.

NIPC Executive Director Matthew Rockwell said CHA reviewed a study the commission is currently preparing to identify suitable locations for low and moderate-income housing in the six-county metropolitan area.

Exact locations of sites could not be determined, but maps prepared from aerial photographs showed tracts designated in both unincorporated and incorporated areas.

The report's statistics reflected roughly 425 acres available for construction of 2,296 units in or adjacent to Des Plaines.

In excess of 580 acres, enough space for 2,613 units, were available in or near Arlington Heights. And 518 acres of incorporated and unincorporated land in the Wheeling-Elk Grove area could be developed for 1,799 units, according to the statistics.

MORE THAN 2,500 units could be built on 568 acres shown by the report in or adjacent to Mount Prospect.

Figures on acreage and potential number of units in Elk Grove Township were not available.

NIPC officials pointed out their findings determined land and construction costs in each of the Northwest suburban townships exceeded funding limits set by the Federal Government. Therefore, as far as NIPC is concerned, the three townships in this area are not considered most desirable for low-income developments.

The CHA, however, is still expected to consider sites in the Northwest suburbs for its controversial plans.

CHA officials, maintaining their two-month-old silence on specific suburban locations, declined yesterday to elaborate on exactly how the NIPC report would be used.

CHA Executive Director C. E. Humphrey merely noted the study was valuable in determining the "needs of housing."

Humphrey also denied earlier reports by another top CHA official that meetings were underway with leaders of communities in which low-income housing was to be proposed.

He explained, "We have had discussions with some communities at their request to discuss the situation." But there reportedly has been no decision on specific sites.

Village, CCPA Police Salary Accord In Limbo

No salary agreement for Palatine police has been reached between the Combined Counties Police Association (CCPA) and the village, despite the fact that a bargaining contract between the two groups expires tomorrow.

However, the Palatine Village Board has allotted salary provisions for the patrolman, which are less than the CCPA is seeking.

Village Atty. Bradley Glass, Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun and Palatine police chief Robert Centner have been negotiating unsuccessfully with the CCPA, formerly called the Cook County Police Association, since the contract was signed on Dec. 23, 1970, says Arthur Loevy, CCPA attorney.

Still, the village board recently allotted $549,319 for police salaries in the 1971 budget, allowing $12,800 top pay for patrolman, and six and seven-eighths per cent increase for all other patrolmen — an offer which Braun notified Loevy of on April 13, but which has not been ratified by the CCPA.

Loevy termed this action "a breach of good faith," and told Braun in an April 16 letter, "We demand that negotiations be reopened immediately, or in the alternative, that the village follow the recommendations of its negotiating committee and honor the understandings which we thought were reached in good faith."

Loevy charged the village board of trustees "renege" on its own negotiating committee's recommendations made in March. He said the CCPA and village teams at that time tentatively settled upon a 9 per cent increase for the first year, and an 8 per cent hike the second year.

He explained this agreement resulted from negotiating sessions which followed a previous offer made by the village in March for an across the board 7.5 per cent hike for all salary steps.

Braun's only comment is that the board recently concurred on an amount less than the 7.5 per cent offer, and obviously less than the 8 and 9 per cent agreement. "This," he said, "is where the rub lies."

Since fringe benefits are contingent upon a salary settlement, they, too, have not been agreed upon, Loevy said. CCPA representatives were also "irritated with the village" by a denial of a dues deduction clause for CCPA members. But most of the other 14 demands the CCPA made to the village on Jan. 28 of this year have been settled.

"BUT I CAN'T help think the only thing settled upon is the fact that the village had no intentions of truly negotiating with us," he said. "And we wonder if any of the items agreed upon will hold water since the village has arbitrarily broken their faith on the salary item," he added.

Last August, the village board officially voted to recognize the CCPA as the sole bargaining agent for collective negotiations between the village and the Palatine patrolmen. The vote came two weeks after the patrolmen almost unanimously voted to recognize the CCPA. To date, all but a few of Palatine's 25 patrolmen belong.

Officer Michael MacDonald, president, Palatine chapter of the CCPA, was not available for comment on the salary dispute. Loevy, however, said one can expect the patrolmen to take action soon against the fact they were not "negotiated with in good faith" by the village. Loevy did not say what type of action would be taken.

Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun said although a budget allotment has been made, he could not comment on specific salary provision for patrolmen until the board approves a salary ordinance within the next few weeks. Currently, top patrolmen pay is $11,700.

SINGING OUT TUNES of contemporary interest, junior high students at Plum Grove School rehearse their musical and dramatic program to be presented at 8 tonight at the school.

Members of the school chorus and drama club decided to join forces for the combined fine arts program. A number of popular songs, several jazz numbers with guitar accompaniment and skits based on Peanuts characters will compose the show.

Cracker Barrel

SPARROW AGNEW? When it was proposed that the Palatine Park District name a park in Hunting Ridge Sparrow Park, citizen Jack Scoley said he felt slightly terrified.

"I thought for a while you wanted to call it Spiro Park," he said, referring to the vice president.

"No," someone retorted, "That is what we're going to call a park near the golf course."

AND THE WINNERS ARE . . . ! Park Board Member Walden Degner announced the winners of the park property vandalism contest Tuesday night. Maple Park led all other park facilities in vandalism over the past year followed closely by the Palatine Hills Golf Course. Thank you, local delinquents!

ONE OF THE highlights of Monday's village board meeting was Mayor John Moodie's announcement that he recently became a grandfather. "My daughter Christine in Australia had the baby on Saturday and I knew about it on Friday. If there's such a thing as the international dateline . . ." the proud mayor beamed.

Joint Drama, Musicales Slated At School Tonight

More than 100 Plum Grove School junior high students will present a light dramatic and musical program by combining the efforts of the chorus and drama club at 8 p.m. today in the Plum Grove cafeteria, Old Plum Grove Road and Meacham.

A pop choral concert, featuring the voices of 75 students, will include some jazz works using guitar accompaniment. The singers will be directed by Mrs. Carol Maloney, a music teacher at Plum Grove.

A drama presentation, based on characters in Peanuts will involve about 35 students in cast and crew. Mrs. Virginia

DeWyz, a Plum Grove teacher of speech and drama organized the dramatic presentation as sponsor of the school drama club.

Although both the choral and drama groups each year hold a number of individual performances, members of the group this year decided to join forces. Practices have been going on for almost six weeks during classes and after school.

Selections in the popular music performance will include "Sunny," "Yesterday," "Spinning Wheel" and "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Admission to the show will be free.

Ex-Eskimo Ran Hot Campaign

by TOM ROBB

Merwin E. Soper's recent election to the Palatine Village Board is similar to the time he was recruited to play professional football with the Edmonton Eskimos in Alberta, Canada.

Soper was in college when he received a phone call out of the blue one day. It was the manager of the Edmonton Eskimos who simply said we need your help and there's a plane ticket waiting for you at the airport.

For the next year, Soper played ball in the wintry north between studying at the University of Alberta.

Several months ago, Soper received another call — this time from the Palatine Township Republican Organization. In December, he was slated as a GOP candidate for the board. Last Tuesday he got more votes than any of the other six contenders; and Monday night, "Sope," as he is called, took his seat on the village board.

This isn't too unusual as it stands. But consider the fact that Soper only came to Palatine in February of 1969.

In such a short time, he was able to survive the early days of "Who is Merwin Soper?" after he was slated to become the most popular candidate in 1971. In more than one way, the story of the newly elected trustee is an American success story. Born in Iowa City, the tall, impressive figure has accumulated impressive educational credentials, football scholarships, a stint at Harvard, a business world success and now, a foothold in politics.

At 43, Soper is a man of many places. His diversified educational background, which includes doing work on a doctoral degree, has taken Soper from Iowa State to Butler University to Drake University to Harvard.

As a child, his father's career in dentistry kept the Soper family moving from Memphis to New Orleans, to Gavelston and then back to his birth place, Iowa.

Merwin E. Soper

It was in the Corn State's small town called Nevada that Soper went on through high school, college, the Army and, in 1957, joined a large life insurance company which located him in Des Moines.

Like his education and father's career, that company kept Soper on the move from Iowa to San Francisco to Ohio and finally to Chicago, where he now manages that office for Connecticut General Life Insurance Co.

So being elected to an office is not the only new experience for Soper. He has also been able to finally settle down in one spot and says, "I feel good about it." He has brought his wife Charlene and their two children, eight-year old David and four-year old Stephanie, to Hunting Ridge with a welcomed sigh of permanent residency, he said.

And Monday night, Soper looked just as comfortable sitting on the village board. "I guess several weeks of rigorous campaigning helped take the nervous edge off the new experience," he said.

Four years from now, Soper will probably be one of few residents who can say he has spent four of his five and one-half years in Palatine serving as a village father.

And for a former Edmonton Eskimo, that's got to be a touchdown.

Summer Sessions Expanded

Thirty-four developmental, continuing study and accelerated courses will be offered this summer to first through eighth grade students of Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 in six different schools.

The summer school program, from June 15 through July 16, is a greatly expanded program which will be state supported. The only fees for registration are a $5 book rental fee and optional $10 transportation fee. Each student must attend class for three hours each day from 8 to 11 a.m. to qualify for state aid.

Classes will be held at Central Road and Kimball Hill schools in Rolling Meadows and at Plum Grove, Stuart R. Paddock, Virginia Lake and Winston Churchill-Winston Park schools in Palatine. Special education and speech correction classes will be held at special centers.

REGISTRATION FOR summer school will be conducted by mail. Forms may be obtained at the E. S. Castor Administration Building, 505 S. Quentin Rd., and must be completed and returned by May 3. Registered students will be notified of their placement prior to the opening of summer school.

Classes will be offered in 45-minute, one and one-half hour and three-hour time slots. Courses must be arranged so that each student is registered for three full hours of study.

Courses in developmental, continuing study, independent and accelerated reading and mathematics will be offered to students in first through eighth grade. A creative writing class, journalism for junior high students and typing for sixth, seventh and eighth graders will also be offered.

A number of science courses, including a nature and field study program and lab science activities, are also scheduled. Economics for fifth and sixth graders will be offered.

ART AND MUSIC classes for older students are planned by the district, which include lessons for guitar, choral and instrumental music, and string music. No private lessons will be given and students must provide their own instruments.

A number of physical education activities for fifth through eighth graders will be offered, including group and individual recreational activities such as archery, badminton, volleyball, softball, horseshoes and heavy apparatus exercises.

Checks for book rental and transportation should be made payable to Community Consolidated School Dist. 15.

Spring Concert Set Friday Night

The Concert Band and Wind Ensemble of the Immanuel Lutheran School will present its annual Spring Concert at 8 p.m. Friday in the lower level auditorium of the church at Plum Grove Road and Lincoln.

Selections played at the Illinois District Contest in March will be performed at the concert, as well as a Dixieland jazz number featuring the graduating band members. Themes of Stravinsky's ballet "Petroushka" will also be performed to honor the memory of the musician who died last month.

Other numbers to be performed by the concert band are "Marco Polo Concert March" by Donald I. Moore, "Medieval Fresco" by John J. Morrissey, "This Guy's In Love With You" by Burt Bacharach, "Il Re Pastore Overture" by Wolfgang Mozart and "Russian Sailors Dance" by Reinhold Gliere.

The Wind Ensemble will play "Music for a Ceremony" by John Morrissey, "Blue Tango" by Leroy Anderson and "Seventy-Six Trombones" by Meredith Wilson.

No admission fee will be charged for the concert, but a free-will offering will be taken for the school's band fund.

From The Library

by the staff of the Palatine Public Library

Want to read the biography of a grizzly bear?

This animal's life story, along with 34 other North American animals, are in "Alive in the Wild." This book, authored by many noted naturalists is one of many new volumes available in the Palatine Public Library this week.

American author Mark Twain once worked as a journalist out west. In "Clemens of the 'Call' Mark Twain in San Francisco," Edgar M. Branch relates his exploits with the San Francisco Call and reprints some of his work.

Another journalist, Turner Catledge, takes a behind the scenes look at the New York Times in "My Life and the Times." This book is full of many interesting facts and entertaining anecdotes about the operation of one of the world's most powerful newspapers.

Our state's life story is related in "Illinois Guide and Gazetteer." Compiled by the Illinois Sesquicentennial Commission, this volume contains nearly everything there is to know about "The Prairie state" from 1818 to the present.

REMEMBER FLASH GORDON, Zorro, and Ace Drummond? They were all major characters in movie serials made from 1930 and 1953. Alan G. Barbour has authored an affectionate pictorial history of these great serials and others in "Days of Thrill and Adventure."

Shakespeare and his works are the topic of two new books at the library. "The Sole Voice" by Philip Burton examines the characters who populate the Bard's works. Noted science fiction writer Isaac Asimov takes on a refreshing new approach to his study of Shakespearean plays in a two volume set "Asimov's Guide to Shakespeare."

Graham and Cooley are authors of "So You're Going to Have Surgery." This book contains everything you've ever wanted to know about having an operation, but never had a reason to ask.

NATURAL DISASTERS and what causes them is the subject matter of T.

L. Gaskell's "Physics of the Earth." Among other things, this book examines tornadoes, which are now in season locally, and earthquakes, like they had in California recently.

An expedition to Antarctica is the subject matter of "Laboratory at the Bottom of the World." Author Peter Briggs also relates various new findings about the seventh continent, including proof of continental drift in this informative volume.

Boats that ended up in Davy Jones' locker are the subject of two new library books. K. C. Barmaby tells of some famous and not so famous maritime calamities in "Some Ship Disasters and Their Causes." Robert F. Burgess tells, in dramatic narration, of his exploration of sunken ships in "Sinkings, Salvages and Shipwrecks."

Carl H. Delacote is author of an important book for parents. Entitled "A New Start For the Child With Reading Problems," this book is an important guide for helping a child learn.

Cub Scout Pack 48 Receives Awards

Several scouts in Cub Scout Pack 48 sponsored by Immanuel Lutheran School were presented with awards last week at the pack meeting.

Receiving his Bobcat pin was Jeffrey Netzeband, who officially entered into Cub Scouting. Eric Larsen was awarded a Bear Badge, a Gold Arrow was presented to Mark Anstedt and David Asmus received a Silver Arrow.

Advanced to Webelos were David Asmus and Eric Larsen while Robert Lueder and Kevin Vogeler were graduated from Webelos, with Lueder officially advancing into the Boy Scout program.

Cub Pack 48 is currently working on Project SOAR (Save Our American Resources). Several film slides of scouting activities in past years were shown at last week's meeting.

Pack Crowns Jeff Kennedy Derby Champ

Cub Scout Pack 59 of Palatine crowned Jeff Kennedy as its Pinewood Derby champion Saturday.

Kennedy, a member of Den 1 and Cub Scout chap, won the derby by defeating Randy Hughes, a member of Den 3 and Webelos champ. Kennedy received a trophy for winning while Hughes was honored for being the runner-up.

Held Saturday at Jane Addams School, about 20 boys competed in the derby. The races were held on a 40-foot blue and gold electronically run race track. The derby cars were hand made from kits by the scouts and their fathers.

Scouts competed first for den championships in either Cub Scout or Webelos divisions. Then, these winners competed for their division championship. Finally, Kennedy and Hughes competed for the pack grand championship.

IN EACH DEN, trophies were awarded to each champ while a ribbon was awarded to the runner-up. In the Cub Scout division, the den champs were Kennedy, Den 1; Tom Dinahue, Den 2; Dave Williams, Den 3; Stewart Smith, Den 4; Craig Coursey, Den 5; Chris Lulay, Den 6; Pat Duncan, Den 7; Mark Rogers, Den 8; and Don White in Den 9. Runner-ups were Mark Samojla, Den 1; Jeff Michalski, Den 2; Paul Stevens, Den 3; Robert McMannus, Den 4; Jay Carlson, Den 5; Andy Frank, Den 6; Stewart Steinman, Den 7; Allen Chis, Den 8; and Brad Mornolstein, Den 9.

For the division title, Kennedy was champ, White was runner-up and Lulay finished in third place.

In the Webelos division, den champs were Greg William, Den 1; Ken King, Den 2; and Hughes, Den 3. Runner-ups were Mark Freeman, Den 4; Mike Fitzpatrick, Den 2; and Lenard McMannus, Den 3.

FOR THE DIVISION title, Hughes was champ, King was runner-up, and Williams finished third.

GRAND CHAMPION Jeff Kennedy displays the trophy he won at Cub Scout Pack 59's Pinewood Derby Saturday and the car that helped him win. He was crowned the champ after beating out Randy Hughes, the Webelos division champ, in the final race. Kennedy was also the Cub Scout division champ.

Other special trophies were awarded by a panel of judges. Tom Murphy received a trophy for having the most colorful racer. Tim Seaman had the most novel racer. Pat had the best finish. Greg Cate had the best design and Robert Metzger had the most patriotic racer.

In addition to the derby, Pack 59 also held a short meeting. During the meeting, Tom French was presented with the Arrow of Light Award by cubmaster Gordon A. Long. French was then inducted into Boy Scout Troop 182.

Residents Demanding More Public Skating

A number of Rolling Meadows residents have been circulating petitions in the Waverly Park area demanding the park district summer ice program be amended to include more public skating hours.

Some petitions are also requesting the park district increase the availability of time for Rolling Meadows residents to make use of ice facilities and decrease the amount for nonresidents.

Park Board Pres. William Billings said he has spoken with Mrs. Mary Mathis, one of the petitioners, about the objections, and said if they are presented to the board, consideration would be given to them and a decision made.

The park board of commissioners will hold its regular monthly meeting at 8 tonight. If residents present their petitions, they will be turned over to the park recreation committee for discussion and a special meeting will be called next week for a decision.

According to Billings, the summer ice program would have to be amended in two weeks, if such a decision is made, in order to properly implement the revised program.

MEMBERS OF THE park board finance and building and grounds committees gave the petition demands preliminary consideration at a meeting last night. No action, however, will be taken until the petitions are officially presented to the board, and Billings said he was not sure whether the Waverly Park residents would do so at tonight's board meeting.

Billings also said he had met with Dean Hallerud, park district director, Tuesday night to "go over preliminary budgetary figures" for tonight's board meeting and not to specifically discuss the petitions.

City Employees Get 5.6 Per Cent Raise

Rolling Meadows employees will receive a 5.6 per cent cost of living increase effective May 1.

City council unanimously voted in favor of the resolution for the raise in salaries. A merit increase has also been authorized for city employees at the discretion of the city department heads.

Tribute To Firemen

Mayor Roland Meyer has proclaimed the week of May 2 through May 8 as Fire Service Recognition Week in Rolling Meadows as a tribute to "your skilled and courageous firemen."

The Rolling Meadows fire department will participate in an exhibition at the Randhurst Shopping Center during the week.

Low-Income Dwelling Sites Earmarked For This Area

by DAVE CRIPPEN

More than 65 sites in or near five Northwest suburban communities may be under consideration by the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) for construction of low-income dwellings.

The Herald has learned that the CHA early this month obtained information on 13 sites in Elk Grove Township and 34 in Wheeling Township from the Northwestern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). And it was reported CHA officials would ask NIPC for similar information on several other suburban townships, including Maine, that previously was not available.

These additional statistics show 20 possible sites in Maine Township.

NIPC Executive Director Matthew Rockwell said CHA reviewed a study the commission is currently preparing to identify suitable locations for low and moderate-income housing in the six-county metropolitan area.

A PRELIMINARY report now completed earmarked tracts of land in or near Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Mount Prospect for potential use in meeting subsidized housing needs.

When CHA first reviewed the study, it obtained information on Elk Grove Township, even though that area was not among 10 townships considered by NIPC to have "first priority" sites available. The preliminary report identified only

Maine and Wheeling Townships plus eight other townships, seven in Cook County and one in Kane County, as meeting the criteria for a first priority rating.

Exact locations of sites could not be determined, but maps prepared from aerial photographs showed tracts designated in both unincorporated and incorporated areas.

The report's statistics reflected roughly 425 acres available for construction of 2,396 units in or adjacent to Des Plaines.

In excess of 500 acres, enough space for 2,613 units, were available in or near Arlington Heights. And 518 acres of incorporated and unincorporated land in the Wheeling-Elk Grove area could be developed for 1,799 units, according to the statistics.

MORE THAN 2,600 units could be built on 568 acres shown by the report in or adjacent to Mount Prospect.

Figures on acreage and potential number of units in Elk Grove Township were not available.

NIPC officials pointed out their findings determined land and construction costs in each of the Northwest suburban townships exceeded funding limits set by the Federal Government. Therefore, as far as NIPC is concerned, the three townships in this area are not considered most desirable for low-income developments.

The CHA, however, is still expected to consider sites in the Northwest suburbs for its controversial plans.

CHA officials, maintaining their two-month-old silence on specific suburban locations, declined yesterday to elaborate on exactly how the NIPC report would be used.

CHA Executive Director C. E. Humphrey merely noted the study was valuable in determining the "needs of housing." Humphrey also denied earlier reports by another top CHA official that meetings were underway with leaders of communities in which low-income housing was to be proposed.

He explained, "We have had discussions with some communities at their request to discuss the situation." But there reportedly has been no decision on specific sites.

"WE DON'T KNOW what we're going to do," Humphrey replied when asked about locations. Negotiation of an agreement with the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), he added, was the most immediate task facing CHA. Under state and federal laws, CCHA must give its approval for CHA to exert any authority outside Chicago.

CCHA Executive Director Victor Walchirk reported a number of meetings with CHA had been held.

"We've met with them on several occasions," he said. "But there has been nothing definitive." Walchirk would not comment on whether he thought an agreement would be reached.

City Council Approves Budget Of $2.5 Million

The Rolling Meadows City Council Tuesday approved a $2.5 million budget for the 1971-72 fiscal year, an increase of more than $400,000 from last year's budget.

The new budget reflects no tax increase for city residents and will allow the corporate portion of the city real estate tax to be abolished in September, according to Mayor Roland Meyer.

"The only part of the real estate tax residents will pay is for the city police pension and the library," Meyer said. "This will mean a savings of between $20 and $25 for each home."

Meyer said 11 per cent of the budget has been allocated for street improvement and capital improvements.

THE $200,000 addition to city hall is reflected in the $281,500 budgeted for capital improvements, and $212,600 has been allocated to the street department for city road programs.

City residents will receive approximately the same services this fiscal year as last, according to City Mgr. James Watson, but a special fund has been established to hire a sanitarian to inspect businesses for compliance with city health codes. The salary budgeted is more than $11,000.

There were some changes in the preliminary budget, including an increase of $2,500 for the public information and education committee. There was no category for the committee last year but this year's total is $12,450.

The youth and family relations budget was tripled from the preliminary figure and the police department was increased by $5,000. The building and zoning department also received an increase over the preliminary budget.

City treasurer, building maintenance and administrative departments received slightly less.

ONLY A SLIGHT change from the preliminary budget was in the public library total. The librarian's salary was raised from $9,797 to $10,279. The three assistant librarians received a total $400 increase of the preliminary figure of $17,527.

The increase in the total budget is due primarily to an increase in 27 of the 29 city department categories. Only two departments, the administrative and civil defense division, were not increased from last year's budget.

A look at the category totals for the new budget: —Legislative, $26,100; —City clerk, $12,595; —City treasurer, $4,500; —Public information and education, $12,450; —Administrative, $94,278; —Legal department, $23,000; —Health department, $15,784; —Building and zoning, $56,151; —Engineering department, $12,300; —Building maintenance, $18,888; —Capital improvements, $281,500; —Zoning board of appeals, $250; —Plan commission, $990;

—FIRE MARSHAL, $2,075; —Police department, $550,808; —Civil defense, $36,200; —Youth and family relations, $6,620; —Board of fire and police commissioners, $1,050; —Sanitation department, $194,970; —Water department, $541,953; —Mental health, $7,000.

THE NEWEST MEMBERS of the Rolling Meadows City Council are City Clerk Mrs. Eileen Kornatz and Ald. John Rock (center) who took the oath of office for their first term Tuesday. They receive information from Mrs. Elizabeth Houldsworth, city clerk, and reelected Alderman William Ahrens. Seven incumbent city officials were also sworn-in including Mayor Roland Meyer, City Treasurer Robert Cole and Aldermen Thomas Scanlan, Merrill Wuerch, James Huddleston, Kenneth Ratzke and Ahrens.

Concert Band Performs At Little City

The Rolling Meadows Concert Band performed a variety of tunes ranging from classical to contemporary in a free concert Tuesday night at Little City in Palatine.

Directed by Dale Elmshaeuser, who is also conductor of the Immanuel Lutheran School Band, the group played the following selections: "Marcho Polo," "Russian Choral and Overture," "Green-sleeves," "Paint Your Wagon," "English Suite," "Hopak," "La Bella Roma," "Rhumba Numbah," "For Once in My Life" and "Thundercrest."

The group includes musicians of all ages, currently from 10 to 82. Although members of the band are from several surrounding suburbs, the band is seeking more musicians from Rolling Meadows.

Residents interested in playing with some knowledge of music should attend a band practice session from 7:30 to 9 p.m. each Tuesday at Trinity Lutheran Church, 3201 Meadow Dr.

Cracker Barrel

THE ROLLING MEADOWS library has suddenly turned into a very artsy place. Almost 80 works of art were entered in the library's art fair last week, and now adorn the walls and shelves of the building. Entries ranged from silk screening and weaving to mosaic designs and glazed clay figures.

IT WAS LIKE a family reunion at the Rolling Meadows City Council meeting Tuesday. Each of the city officials had family members present and each was introduced to the audience.

STANDING ROOM ONLY was available at city hall Tuesday at the swearing-in ceremonies. It marked the first time a large number of persons have attended a Rolling Meadows city council meeting in many months.

Joint Drama, Musicals Slated At School Tonight

More than 100 Plum Grove School junior high students will present a light dramatic and musical program by combining the efforts of the chorus and drama club at 8 p.m. today in the Plum Grove cafeteria, Old Plum Grove Road and Meacham.

A pop choral concert, featuring the voices of 75 students, will include some jazz works using guitar accompaniment. The singers will be directed by Mrs. Carol Maloney, a music teacher at Plum Grove.

A drama presentation, based on characters in Peanuts will involve about 35 students in cast and crew. Mrs. Virginia DeWyz, a Plum Grove teacher of speech and drama organized the dramatic presentation as sponsor of the school drama club.

Although both the choral and drama groups each year hold a number of individual performances, members of the group this year decided to join forces. Practices have been going on for almost six weeks during classes and after school. Selections in the popular music performance will include "Sunny," "Yesterday," "Spinning Wheel" and "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Admission to the show will be free.

Plan Reorganization Of Police Department

The Rolling Meadows Police Department will be reorganized to eliminate one sergeant and add another lieutenant.

The new lieutenant will be chosen from the sergeant ranks, according to Police Chief Lewis Case. The structural change makes the department consist of a chief, captain, two lieutenants, three sergeants and 20 patrolmen.

City officials also have budgeted for the position of corporal on the department. Four patrolmen are expected to be promoted to the corporal ranks.

Board OKs Fence For Playground

Rolling Meadows officials have authorized $3,500 for a chain-link fence to be constructed on the south side of Plum Grove-Countryside playground on Euclid Avenue.

Ald. Thomas Scanlan asked for the funds as a safety precaution for children at the playground. Scanlan said the speed limit on Euclid has been reduced from 50 mph to 45 mph but termed the reduced speed a "disappointment."

Scanlan had asked the state for a fence, a stop sign at Vermont and Euclid and a possible overpass across the highway.

Mrs. Kornatz Is Now A Politician

by DOUG RAY

Mrs. Eileen Kornatz is now a politician.

She stepped into the man's world of local politics when she decided to run for city clerk three months ago.

Winning without opposition, tallying the second highest number of votes, she assumed her clerk duties for the first time Tuesday night.

Sitting between Mayor Roland Meyer and Ald. Merrill Wuerch on the council, she's in the midst of everything. But with her soft voice and timid manner, she seems out of place.

When the voice becomes more stern and her slowpaced speech becomes more like the sidewalk auctioneer's, she will be learning the ropes of her new job.

A WOMEN'S LIBBER she's not "Leave that to the younger women," she said.

Her husband's involvement in CAP campaign four years ago, allowed her to become involved in city government. "I was kind of on the outside looking in four years ago, but I learned enough to know I'd be interested in the job this year."

City officials changed the clerk's duties from full-time to part-time, and she feels her experience as a secretary and stenographer qualify her for the new post.

A resident of Rolling Meadows for 14 years, her desire to serve the community is not a new ambition. She served as a Cub Scout den mother and troop organizer for Girl Scouts at Central Road School.

Mrs. Eileen Kornatz

SHE WILL SOON find the bi-monthly city council meetings and her preparation for them, even more hectic than supervising city youth. Tuesday will be her busiest day as she prepares minutes and the council agenda which sometimes changes after the city council meeting is under way.

She says she won't try to become Rolling Meadows' first woman alderman or even mayor.

But now Mrs. Kornatz is a politician and women outnumber men in Rolling Meadows.

Summer Sessions Expanded

Thirty-four developmental, continuing study and accelerated courses will be offered this summer to first through eighth grade students of Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 in six different schools.

The summer school program, from June 15 through July 16, is a greatly expanded program which will be state supported. The only fees for registration are a $5 book rental fee and optional $10 transportation fee. Each student must attend class for three hours each day from 8 to 11 a.m. to qualify for state aid.

Classes will be held at Central Road and Kimball Hill schools in Rolling Meadows and at Plum Grove, Stuart R. Paddock, Virginia Lake and Winston Churchill-Winston Park schools in Palatine. Special education and speech correction classes will be held at special centers.

REGISTRATION FOR summer school will be conducted by mail. Forms may be obtained at the E. S. Castor Administration Building, 506 S. Quentin Rd., and must be completed and returned by May 3. Registered students will be notified of their placement prior to the opening of summer school.

Classes will be offered in 45-minute, one and one-half hour and three-hour time slots. Courses must be arranged so that each student is registered for three full hours of study.

Courses in developmental, continuing study, independent and accelerated reading and mathematics will be offered to students in first through eighth grade. A creative writing class, journalism for junior high students and typing for sixth, seventh and eighth graders will also be offered.

A number of science courses, including a nature and field study program and lab science activities, are also scheduled. Economics for fifth and sixth graders will be offered.

ART AND MUSIC classes for older students are planned by the district, which include lessons for guitar, choral and instrumental music, and string music. No private lessons will be given and students must provide their own instruments.

A number of physical education activities for fifth through eighth graders will be offered, including group and individual recreational activities such as archery, badminton, volleyball, softball, horseshoes and heavy apparatus exercises.

Checks for book rental and transportation should be made payable to Community Consolidated School Dist. 15.

Spring Concert Set Friday Night

The Concert Band and Wind Ensemble of the Immanuel Lutheran School will present its annual Spring Concert at 8 p.m. Friday in the lower level auditorium of the church at Plum Grove Road and Lincoln.

Selections played at the Illinois District Contest in March will be performed at the concert, as well as a Dixieland jazz number featuring the graduating band members. Themes of Stravinsky's ballet "Petroushka" will also be performed to honor the memory of the musician who died last month.

Other numbers to be performed by the concert band are "Marco Polo Concert March" by Donald I. Moore, "Medieval Fresco" by John J. Morrissey, "This Guy's In Love With You" by Burt Bacharach, "Il Re Pastore Overture" by Wolfgang Mozart and "Russian Sailors Dance" by Reinhold Gliere.

The Wind Ensemble will play "Music for a Ceremony" by John Morrissey, "Blue Tango" by Leroy Anderson and "Seventy-Six Trombones" by Meredith Wilson.

No admission fee will be charged for the concert, but a free-will offering will be taken for the school's band fund.

From The Library

by VIRGINIA CONNELL

If you were present when Buck Warren, our local poet, spoke to guests at the Rolling Meadows Library open house Sunday celebrating National Library Week, whether you were an adult or a child, you gleaned many new ideas and ideas to live by.

Warren talked of his feelings of O'Hare Field and his work there as a mechanic for United Airlines. You might be interested in reading a new book recently added to the library's collection called "A History of the World's Airlines" written by R. E. G. Davies. All students of air transport will recognize the vast amount of meticulous research which has gone into the compilation of this unique account of the world's air carriers.

REMEMBER BUCK WARREN'S statement about airlines carrying not only people, but mail, lions, tigers and even whales. This book is of interest not only to adults but young people as well.

Our poet also talked about some of the difficulties of getting started on a career in writing. If you too would like to write, the library has several titles of books to help you get started. "The Handbook for Writers," published by Prentice-Hall, is an excellent book to begin with.

Some of the subjects discussed in it are Does the title fit? Is the topic sentence clear in each paragraph?

In Flesch's "Readable Writing," some of the topics discussed are: What do you want to say? All writing is creative; How to appeal to the unpredictable reader.

By the way, have you ever sat with a blank sheet of paper and a pen and tried to express your thoughts on paper, only to find the paper end up in the wastebasket time after time?

IF YOU WOULD LIKE to advance in your chosen field you can again turn to the library and we suggest you may like to read "Resumes that Get Jobs, A Better Life Through a Better Resume," by Maroon J. George. Also helpful is Angel's "Why and How to Prepare an Effective Job Resume."

I mention the above titles because, and I quote Buck Warren, "Everyone must have a dream to live by, or else his life is without purpose or meaning."

Low-Income Dwelling Sites Earmarked For This Area

by DAVE CRIPPEN

More than 65 sites in or near five Northwest suburban communities may be under consideration by the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) for construction of low-income dwellings.

The Herald has learned that the CHA early this month obtained information on 13 sites in Elk Grove Township and 34 in Wheeling Township from the Northwestern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). And it was reported CHA officials would ask NIPC for similar information on several other suburban townships, including Maine, that previously was not available.

These additional statistics show 20 possible sites in Maine Township.

NIPC Executive Director Matthew Rockwell said CHA reviewed a study the commission is currently preparing to identify suitable locations for low and moderate-income housing in the six-county metropolitan area.

A PRELIMINARY report now completed earmarked tracts of land in or near Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Mount Prospect for potential use in meeting subsidized housing needs.

When CHA first reviewed the study, it obtained information on Elk Grove Township, even though that area was not among 10 townships considered by NIPC to have "first priority" sites available.

The preliminary report identified only

Maine and Wheeling Townships plus eight other townships, seven in Cook County and one in Kane County, as meeting the criteria for a first priority rating. Exact locations of sites could not be determined, but maps prepared from aerial photographs showed tracts designated in both unincorporated and incorporated areas.

The report's statistics reflected roughly 425 acres available for construction of 2,296 units in or adjacent to Des Plaines.

In excess of 580 acres, enough space for 2,613 units, were available in or near Arlington Heights. And 515 acres of incorporated and unincorporated land in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area could be developed for 1,799 units, according to the statistics.

MORE THAN 2,600 units could be built on 588 acres shown by the report in or adjacent to Mount Prospect.

Figures on acreage and potential number of units in Elk Grove Township were not available.

NIPC officials pointed out their findings determined land and construction costs in each of the Northwest suburban townships exceeded funding limits set by the Federal Government. Therefore, as far as NIPC is concerned, the three townships in this area are not considered most desirable for low-income developments.

The CHA, however, is still expected to consider sites in the Northwest suburbs for its controversial plans.

CHA officials, maintaining their two-month-old silence on specific suburban locations, declined yesterday to elaborate on exactly how the NIPC report would be used.

CHA Executive Director C. E. Humphrey merely noted the study was valuable in determining the "needs of housing."

Humphrey also denied earlier reports by another top CHA official that meetings were underway with leaders of communities in which low-income housing was to be proposed.

He explained, "We have had discussions with some communities at their request to discuss the situation." But there reportedly has been no decision on specific sites.

"WE DON'T KNOW what we're going to do," Humphrey replied when asked about locations. Negotiation of an agreement with the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), he added, was the most immediate task facing CHA. Under state and federal laws, CCHA must give its approval for CHA to exert any authority outside Chicago.

CCHA Executive Director Victor Walchirk reported a number of meetings with CHA had been held.

"We've met with them on several occasions," he said. "But there has been nothing definitive." Walchirk would not comment on whether he thought an agreement would be reached.

Incorporation Hearing Is Continued Again

A petition to incorporate the City of Prospect Heights will not be heard by the Cook County Circuit Court before June 15, as the result of another continuance.

This is the second time the hearing has been continued. The hearing began March 24, but was continued by Judge Harry Comerford at the request of Atty. Don Kreger, who is representing the petitioners.

Wednesday, Judge Helen McGillicuddy continued the hearing a second time after granting Kreger's motion for a judicial determination on some of the objections "prior to evidence being taken at a hearing."

Approximately nine objections to the incorporation proposal have been filed with the court. The objectors include the villages of Arlington Heights and Wheeling, the River Trails Park District, two bank trusts and private landowners.

Kreger has filed a motion with the court to strike certain objections to the proposal, which the judge may make a ruling on before the hearing. Kreger declined to list what these objections are, at this time.

HOWEVER, KREGER did say most of these objections are questions of constitutionality. They center on the right of an area less than four square miles with a population of more than 7,500 to incorporate as a city without the consent of municipalities within one mile of the proposed boundaries.

The objectors may submit a written response to the court up to May 18, supporting the points Kreger is fighting. On June 8 there will be "argument on my motion before the court," said Kreger. Kreger is confident the court will make a pre-hearing ruling on at least the question of the necessity of securing the consent of neighboring municipalities before incorporation.

If the court makes a ruling on any of the points of debate before the hearing, that ruling may be appealed by either the incorporation petitioners or the objectors. In this case the hearing, now set for June 15, will be further delayed.

The petition to incorporate the city was filed by the leaders of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA), which represents the "old town" area of the community west of Wolf Road. The petition calls for incorporation of an area reportedly less than four square miles, including "old town" and parts of unincorporated Wheeling and unincorporated Arlington Heights.

Swimmers 'Tagged' For Identification

Swimmers at the Lions Park pool in Prospect Heights will be wearing metal tags this summer instead of carrying paper cards to show they have a season pass.

The Prospect Heights Park District will operate the pool from June 12 to Sept. 6. District residents will be notified of the new pool rates and receive application forms for season passes next month.

Bill Kuhns, park board president, said the park commissioners decided to switch to metal tags because, "we think they will be more permanent than the cards and possibly cheaper. Other park districts have had good success with them."

Season passes for district residents will cost a single child under 16 $10 and an adult $12. Family passes range from $21 for two persons to $28 for eight or more persons. All season pass rates are 50 per cent higher for out-of-district residents.

Daily rates for district residents will be 75 cents for children and $1.50 for adults. Out-of-district children must pay a daily rate of $1.25 and adults must pay $2.

THE FIRE TRUCKS have been replaced but the Prospect Heights fire station is the same structure built in 1949. Modern fire engine trucks are larger than the models the station was designed for. In the past the firemen have compensated by raising the height of the station door. But now they are calling for construction of a larger garage and remodeling of the present building for offices and storage in a bond issue referendum Saturday.

Fire Department Outgrowing Station

by BETSY BROOKER

Twenty years ago this month residents in Prospect Heights celebrated the opening of a fire station at 8½ Camp McDonald Road.

Today the firemen claim, "everything, including our department has gotten bigger and better since 1949, except our fire station."

The firemen are using the same facility that their predecessors constructed two decades ago. The department did not have to pay anything for labor during the six months of construction. Money for the building materials was raised by the firemen in summer carnivals.

The station was built to house two pieces of equipment, a 500-gallon tanker and a truck that carried only a soda acid tank. The department was manned by about 20 men, many of whom were businessmen at the adjacent shopping center.

This is the second of two stories dealing with the upcoming referendum in the Prospect Heights Fire Protection District. In the referendum, to be held Saturday, voters will decide the fate of a proposed $275,000 bond issue.

LOOKING BACK to the department's early years, Fire Chief Donald Gould said, "the district was mostly prairie then, settled with approximately 100 homes. Most of the 15 calls received in 1949 were grass fires."

Today firemen from a roster of more than 40 volunteers respond to an average of 158 calls a year, most of which are house fires. The original two fire trucks have been replaced by three pumpers, with a combined capacity of 3,500 gallons of water, two squad trucks and a chief's car.

The size of the district, approximately four square miles, has not increased, but the population has risen from 300 to 9,000, according to the department's records.

"Firefighting today is more complex, and the volunteer fireman is more professional," said Gould. "We are dealing with new materials in fighting fires, such as plastics. Our men can't just be specialists. A volunteer has to know something about every phase of firefighting."

THE AVERAGE MAN in the volunteer department donates 750 hours a year, according to Gould. The roster includes ministers, a bricklayer, an eye doctor, an insurance salesman, a carpet layer, a plumber, a computer program analyst, a hair dresser and a welder.

During the past years, the department has put almost all of its money into equipment. But as it modernized, it outgrew its station.

"I'd say the station became outdated in the 1960s after we added a new pumper truck and squad truck," said Gould. "The new trucks are a lot larger than

Fire Departments To Show Equipment At Randhurst

A wide range of rescue and firefighting equipment will be on display May 3 through 8 on the mall at Randhurst Shopping Center, Rand and Elmhurst roads, Mount Prospect.

The Mount Prospect Fire Department will host the six-day show in observance of Fire Recognition Week which begins Sunday.

About 25 exhibits will be on display throughout the mall Monday through Saturday. The exhibits will be open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. and Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. There will be no admission charge.

Old and new firefighting equipment, tools, ambulance and rescue equipment will be on display.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Department will have on exhibit a simulated auto accident showing ambulance services and rescue methods used by firemen. A display on water safety rescue equipment and methods will also highlight the show.

The local exhibit will include an illustrated history of the fire department from 1927 to 1971. Displays on home fire safety rules and regulations and tornado safety will be sponsored by the Fire Prevention Bureau and Bureau of Emergency Planning.

Other organizations participating in the fire service show include the Salvation Army, Charles Bruning and Co. industrial fire brigade, Boy Scouts, Northwest Trauma Association, Randhurst Corporation and the University of Illinois.

MANY OF THE fire departments in the Northwest suburbs and surrounding communities will also participate in the show. Firefighting equipment from more than 20 fire departments will be on display Saturday, May 8, in the southeast parking lot of the shopping center.

The heavy firefighting and rescue equipment will be on display only Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Presentations explaining the equipment and its uses will be held at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The outdoor exhibit will point out the new concepts in design and color of firefighting equipment. A yellow fire engine with turquoise trim will be displayed by the Elmhurst Fire Department.

A variety of red, white and yellow fire engines and trucks will also be provided by other fire departments.

The Elk Grove Village Fire Department will have on exhibit its all-terrain vehicle, a pickup truck equipped with a deluge gun, the 100-foot aerial ladder truck and a model of the ambulance now under construction.

The indoor and outdoor exhibits will be staffed by firemen, who will be available to explain the services of the fire department and answer questions from the audience.

ACCORDING TO Fire Chief Larry Pairitz of Mount Prospect, the purpose of the show is to explain all the services provided by fire departments and alert the public to these programs.

"Most people think the main function of the fire department is to fight fires, but they're not acquainted with the wide variety of services we perform in addition to fighting fires. This is one of the reasons for the show. Another is to encourage awareness of the need for fire prevention in the home," Pairitz said.

The six-day show was designed and coordinated by Capt. Ray Kordecki, Lt. Kenneth Koepfen and Fireman Lowell Fell of the Mount Prospect Fire Department. Also included in the planning of specific exhibits are Firemen Donald Barra, Don Reynolds and Lt. Stu McKillop.

Pairitz said he hopes the show, in recognition of the fire service, will be continued on an annual basis in the Northwest suburban area.

School Board Forestalls Action On Possible Suit

No action has yet been taken by the Dist. 57 school board in response to a possible lawsuit against the board by the Illinois Education Association (IEA).

"There is no action to be taken until we are formally notified of a lawsuit," said Harrison Hanson, board president. Hanson would not comment on what the board will do if such a lawsuit is filed.

Supt. Eric Sahlberg last week told board members about the possibility of a suit resulting from a recent calendar revision made by the board. Sahlberg met recently with Ted Sanders, the IEA representative called in by the Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA), to discuss the re-scheduled Institute Day held April 12.

"A NOTICE WILL SOON be forthcoming if that's their attitude," Sanders said yesterday. He said he is waiting to hear about the board's reaction before taking further action. "I find out what they think first. The courts prefer us to negotiate if we can," Sanders said he is trying to find out "if the board is willing to sit down and work things out."

If board members are not willing, Sanders said "I will call our attorneys and they can take over from there."

The controversy arose because teachers consider the re-scheduled workshop, previously a day off a violation of their 1970-71 contract, according to David Metzler, MPEA negotiations chairman. He said teachers think the revision violated an "amnesty agreement" included in the final negotiated contract. The agreement states that "no reprisals of any nature" will be taken against the teachers for walking out of a workshop Sept. 4 to protest a board contract offer. The April 12 Institute Day, attended by all teachers,

Tape Decks Stolen

Stereo equipment valued at about $260 was reportedly stolen this week in separate incidents from cars parked in Mount Prospect.

Father Paul Burke, of 3535 Thornwood Ln., Mount Prospect, told police a stereo tape deck and two tapes were stolen from his car while it was parked in the lot at the Mount Prospect Cinema, 827 E. Rand Rd.

Father Burke estimated the value of the stolen property at about $130. Police said burglars gained access to the car by using a coat hanger to jimmy the lock on the door.

Larry Wright, of 1028 Algonquin Rd., Mount Prospect, also reported the theft of a tape deck, valued at about $130. Wright told police his car was parked in the lot behind his apartment at the time of the theft.

Police said burglars gained entry to the car by prying open the lock on the door.

Woman Is Charged With Intoxication

A 29-year-old Schaumburg woman was arrested Wednesday morning and charged with disorderly conduct and public intoxication following an incident at the Alpine Apartments, Dempster and Busse streets, Mount Prospect.

Janice Mooney, of 1200 E. Algonquin Rd., was charged with disorderly conduct after she allegedly set fire to a suitcase in the parking lot behind the apartment buildings.

Miss Mooney was released on $25 bond. She is scheduled to appear in the Mount Prospect branch of the Cook County Circuit Court May 19 on the charge.

Police said Miss Mooney set fire to the suitcase following an alleged argument with her boyfriend, Mount Prospect firemen extinguished the fire. Police said the incident happened at about 12:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Man Charged With Public Indecency

A 28-year-old Prospect Heights man was arrested Tuesday and charged with public indecency following an incident that occurred April 3 in the parking lot of Randhurst Shopping Center, Rand and Elmhurst roads, Mount Prospect.

Julio Lugo, of 210 Viola Ln., was arrested in his home Tuesday by Mount Prospect police. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Lugo is scheduled to appear in the Mount Prospect branch of the Cook County Circuit Court May 13 on the charge.

was scheduled to replace the one teachers were paid for in September.

Sanders said he thinks the MPEA would accept a suit for an extra day's pay or a day off at the end of the school year. Metzler said the MPEA governing board would have to take a vote before the IEA "takes any extreme action."

Education Group Elects Officers

New officers of the Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA), teacher bargaining agent and professional organization in Dist. 57, were elected Monday.

Penny Osgood, fourth grade teacher at Sunset Park School, was chosen as president-elect. Mrs. Osgood will be in training to take over the presidency of the association in 1972.

Jeff Golob, science teacher at Lions Park School, was elected vice president. His job will be to coordinate the program committee.

Laurie Michaelson, will be the association's new secretary to take minutes and handle correspondence. Mrs. Michaelson is a second grade teacher at Westbrook School.

Robert Rothwell, vocal music teacher at Busse and Gregory schools, will take over as treasurer. Rothwell has served as a past president and secretary.

The vice president, secretary and treasurer will be sworn into office at a governing board meeting on May 10. Dale Heilman, current president-elect chosen in 1970, will also take office as president. Heilman is a science teacher at Lincoln Junior High School.

Laughlin Named AFS President

Mrs. Roger Laughlin, of Prospect Heights, has been elected president of the John Hersey High School chapter of the American Field Service (AFS).

The local AFS chapter helps select United States students to study in foreign countries. Scholarship funds are raised annually by the nonprofit organization for these students. AFS also supplies funds to bring foreign students to this country.

Other newly elected AFS officers are Mrs. Robert Bandelow, of Prospect Heights, vice president and home selection chairman; Mrs. Charles Fisher, of Arlington Heights, "Americans Abroad" coordinator; Mrs. Jean Crom, of Mount Prospect, membership chairman; and Samuel Perpitch, student-faculty liaison and faculty representative. Lindy Sue Luster, of Prospect Heights, is president of the student AFS club.

Two Mount Prospect youths were arrested Monday afternoon and charged with disorderly conduct after park district officials signed complaints against them.

Neal Power, 18, of 112 N. Pine St., and Michael Yde, 17, of 1460 W. Lonnquist Blvd., were charged with disorderly conduct and released on $25 bail. They are scheduled to appear in the Mount Prospect branch of the Cook County Circuit Court May 13 on the charge.

Park Dist. To Plant New Trees

The Mount Prospect Park District will observe Arbor Day with the planting of trees at Meadows Park and the Lions Park Recreation Center Saturday.

Cub Scouts in Mount Prospect Pack 151 have donated three trees and will plant them at 9 a.m. at Meadows Park, on the western edge of Mount Prospect. The troop purchased two Norway maples and one honey locust with $85 collected from a recent glass recycling drive.

About 75 trees and plants will be put in at the center, 411 S. Maple St., starting at 9:30 a.m. Letters have been sent out to various Girl and Boy Scout organizations, inviting them to participate in the planting.

The park district has purchased junipers, plum shrubs and barberry bushes to landscape the new center. Arbor Day is Friday, but the planting was postponed until Saturday so that more people could participate, according to Dick Julison, in charge of building and grounds.

Kuhns Re-elected Park Dist. Head

Bill Kuhns has been elected to serve as president of the Prospect Heights Park District board for a second year.

He was elected at the district's organizational meeting earlier this week. Kuhns has served four years of a six-year term on the board.

Joe Lesniak, who has served a two-year term and an additional two years of a six-year term, was elected vice president of the board. Max Lyle, who was just elected to the board, is the new board treasurer.

The board voted to employ Rosemary Roth, a former board member, as board secretary and John Haas as board attorney.

The board's meeting time has been changed to 8 p.m. The board will continue to meet on the second and fourth Monday of every month at the John Muir School library, located on Oak Avenue.

the 1940 models.

For years the problem was a "matter of complaining and not acting," said Gould. "When I became chief about two years ago, one of my first projects was to start working for more space."

FINALLY, THIS year the district's three trustees voted to take the problem to the voters in a referendum. They are asking for authorization to sell $275,000 in bonds to pay for land, a 5,400-square-foot addition, remodeling of the present building and new equipment.

Plans for remodeling the present 2,175-square-foot building call for a firemen's association office, a lobby, a radio control room, a chief's office, an officers' room, a kitchen and sleeping quarters. A maintenance room, storage room, hose drying tower and meeting room are also included in the plans.

The proposed $140,000 three-door addition will have space for at least six vehicles with more space between the vehicles. The addition will have front and rear exits, and wash racks along the side walls.

Purchase of the land for the addition and equipment for the new facilities will cost $64,000. An additional $71,000 will be used to purchase a squad car and pumper truck and to pay a $16,000 debt on the department's 1968 pumper truck.

If the referendum passes, the department will gain 2,900 square feet for parking equipment, a maintenance area and 20 public parking places. New room that will be added includes a training area, a meeting room, a sleeping area and a storage area.

BEND AND STRETCH! Lois Lindberg, new recreation supervisor for the Mount Prospect Park District, demonstrates an exercise in the class she teaches at Lions Park Recreation Center.

First Woman Joins Park Dist. Staff

by KAREN RUGEN

Lois Lindberg is a woman among men. She's the new addition to the staff at the Mount Prospect Park District. Each day she works with four men to make the programs and facilities in the park district continue to serve the community. And she loves it.

Those guys I work with — they're fun. And I think it's good for the district to have a woman's opinion, said Lois, who will serve as a recreation supervisor with most of her attention going to the men's and women's programs.

But while she's taken her place with the men, Lois is not in favor of women's liberation. "I just don't believe in it," said the former supervisor. "I enjoy being a woman. I suppose if I was raised to be a man, I would enjoy that too. But I wasn't."

LOIS, 22, WAS brought up in Arlington Heights where she never even knew there were such things as park districts. She majored in physical education at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale and got interested in recreation when she took a part-time job with the park district in January as an instructor.

Now she's sold on it. There's more variety here than in teaching. You can plan as well as teach and there are just more things to do, she said. As recreation supervisor, she'll be involved with planning, staffing and coming up with ideas for new programs.

But I also hope I can continue to touch some of them, she said. Then the park district can save money and I can keep in shape at the same time.

Looking at the little 5'9" instructor, you wonder why she worries about keeping in shape. I will never get fat, she said with determination, pounding her first on the desk to emphasize her point. But I am eating constantly, she admits.

LOIS SEES THE PARK district as a place for people to come out and enjoy themselves and not be forced into it. It's especially great for the kids — they can come here for a release from pressures from school and enjoy other people's company. And there are a lot of talented kids around here who can get more training at the park district.

Lois continues her love for recreation when she's off the job. Some of her favorite pastimes are water and snow skiing. Now she's looking forward to moving into the staff offices at Lions Park Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St.

I can't wait, she said. The facilities are just beautiful over there.

Low-Income Dwelling Sites Earmarked For This Area

More than 65 sites in or near five Northwest suburban communities may be under consideration by the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) for construction of low income dwellings.

These additional statistics show 20 possible sites in Maine Township

When CHA first reviewed the study, it obtained information on Eik Grove Township, even though that area was not among 10 townships considered by NIPC to have "first priority" sites available. The preliminary report identified only in excess of 500 acres, enough space for 2,613 units, were available in or near Arlington Heights. And 518 acres of incorporated and unincorporated land in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area could be developed for 1,799 units, according to the statistics.

The CHA, however, is still expected to consider sites in the Northwest suburbs for its controversial plans.

He explained, "We have had discussions with some communities at their request to discuss the situation." But there reportedly has been no decision on specific rates.

"We've met with them on several occasions," he said. "But there has been nothing definitive." Walchuk would not comment on whether he thought an agreement would be reached.

Fire Departments To Show Equipment At Randhurst

A wide range of rescue and firefighting equipment will be on display May 3 through 8 on the mall at Randhurst Shopping Center, Rand and Elmhurst roads, Mount Prospect.

The Mount Prospect Fire Department will host the six day show in observance of Fire Recognition Week which begins Sunday.

About 25 exhibits will be on display throughout the mall Monday through Saturday. The exhibits will be open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. There will be no admission charge.

Old and new firefighting equipment,

tools, ambulance and rescue equipment will be on display.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Fire Department will have on exhibit a simulated auto accident showing ambulance services and rescue methods used by firemen. A display on water safety rescue equipment and methods will also highlight the show.

The local exhibit will include an illustrated history of the fire department from 1927 to 1971. Displays on home fire safety rules and regulations and tornado safety will be sponsored by the Fire Prevention Bureau and Bureau of Emergency Planning.

Other organizations participating in the fire service show include the Salvation Army, Charles Brumby and Co. industrial fire brigade, Boy Scouts, Northwest Trauma Association, Randhurst Corporation and the University of Illinois.

MANY OF THE fire departments in the Northwest suburbs and surrounding communities will also participate in the show. Firefighting equipment from more than 20 fire departments will be on display Saturday, May 8, in the southeast parking lot of the shopping center.

The heavy firefighting and rescue equipment will be on display only Saturday from 9-30 a.m. to 5-30 p.m. Presentations explaining the equipment and its uses will be held at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The outdoor exhibit will point out the new concepts in design and color of firefighting equipment. A yellow fire engine with turquoise trim will be displayed by the Elmhurst Fire Department.

A variety of red, white and yellow fire engines and trucks will also be provided by other fire departments.

The Elk Grove Village Fire Department will have on exhibit its all-terrain vehicle, a pickup truck equipped with a deluge gun, the 100-foot aerial ladder truck and a model of the ambulance now under construction.

The indoor and outdoor exhibits will be staffed by firemen, who will be available to explain the services of the fire department and answer questions from the audience.

ACCORDING TO Fire Chief Larry Parritz of Mount Prospect, the purpose of the show is to explain all the services provided by fire departments and alert the public to these programs.

"Most people think the main function of the fire department is to fight fires, but they're not acquainted with the wide variety of services we perform in addition to fighting fires. This is one of the reasons for the show. Another is to encourage awareness of the need for fire prevention in the home," Parritz said.

The six-day show was designed and coordinated by Capt. Ray Kordecki, L. Kenneth Koeppen and Fireman Lowe Fell of the Mount Prospect Fire Department. Also included in the planning are Firemen Donald Barra, Don Reynolds and Lt. St. McKillop.

Parritz said he hopes the show, in recognition of the fire service, will be continued on an annual basis in the Northwest suburban area.

School Board Forestalls Action On Possible Suit

No action has yet been taken by the Dist. 57 school board in response to a possible lawsuit against the board by the Illinois Education Association (IEA).

"There is no action to be taken until we are formally notified of a lawsuit," said Harrison Hanson, board president. Hanson would not comment on what the board will do if such a lawsuit is filed.

Supt. Eric Sahlborg last week told board members about the possibility of a suit resulting from a recent calendar revision made by the board. Sahlborg met recently with Ted Sanders, the IEA representative called in by the Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA), to discuss the re-scheduled Institute Day held April 12.

"A NOTICE WILL SOON be forthcoming if that's their attitude," Sanders said yesterday. He said he is waiting to hear about the board's reaction before taking further action. "I find out what they think first. The courts prefer us to negotiate if we can," Sanders said he is trying to find out "if the board is willing to sit down and work things out."

If board members are not willing, Sanders said "I will call our attorneys and they can take over from there."

The controversy arose because teachers consider the re-scheduled workshop, previously a day off a violation of their 1970-71 contract, according to David Metzler, MPEA negotiations chairman. He said teachers think the revision violated an "amnesty agreement" included in the final negotiated contract. The agreement states that "no reprisals of any nature" will be taken against the teachers for walking out of a workshop Sept. 4 to protest a board contract offer. The April 12 Institute Day, attended by all teachers, was scheduled to replace the one teachers were paid for in September.

Sanders said he thinks the MPEA would accept a suit for an extra day's pay or a day off at the end of the school year. Metzler said the MPEA governing board would have to take a vote before the IEA "takes any extreme action."

Education Group Elects Officers

New officers of the Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA), teacher bargaining agent and professional organization in Dist. 57, were elected Monday.

Penny Osgood, fourth grade teacher at Sunset Park School, was chosen as president-elect. Mrs. Osgood will be in training to take over the presidency of the association in 1972.

Jeff Golob, science teacher at Lions Park School, was elected vice president. His job will be to coordinate the program committee.

Laurie Michaelsen, will be the association's new secretary to take minutes and handle correspondence. Mrs. Michaelsen is a second grade teacher at Westbrook School.

Robert Rothwell, vocal music teacher at Busse and Gregory schools, will take over as treasurer. Rothwell has served as a past president and secretary.

The vice president, secretary and treasurer will be sworn into office at a governing board meeting on May 10. Dale Heilman, current president-elect chosen in 1970, will also take office as president. Heilman is a science teacher at Lincoln Junior High School.

The matter is being handled by the Springfield law firm of Drach, Terrell and Deffenbaugh.

Charge 2 Teens With Disorderly Conduct

Two Mount Prospect youths were arrested Monday afternoon and charged with disorderly conduct after park district officials signed complaints against them.

Neal Power, 18, of 112 N. Pine St., and Michael Yde, 17, of 1480 W. Lomquist Blvd., were charged with disorderly conduct and released on $25 bail. They are scheduled to appear in the Mount Prospect branch of the Cook County Circuit Court May 13 on the charge.

Park Dist. To Plant New Trees

The Mount Prospect Park District will observe Arbor Day with the planting of trees at Meadows Park and the Lions Park Recreation Center Saturday.

Cub Scouts in Mount Prospect Pack 151 have donated three trees and will plant them at 9 a.m. at Meadows Park, on the western edge of Mount Prospect. The troop purchased two Norway maples and one honey locust with $95 collected from a recent glass recycling drive.

About 77 trees and plants will be put in at the center. 411 S. Maple St., starting at 9:30 a.m. Letters have been sent out to various Girl and Boy Scout organizations, inviting them to participate in the planting.

The park district has purchased junipers, plum shrubs and barberry bushes to landscape the new center. Arbor Day is Friday, but the planting was postponed until Saturday so that more people could participate, according to Dick Julison, in charge of building and grounds.

Kuhns Reelected Park Dist. Head

Bill Kuhns has been elected to serve as president of the Prospect Heights Park District board for a second year.

He was elected at the district's organizational meeting earlier this week. Kuhns has served four years of a six-year term on the board.

Joe Lesniak, who has served a two-year term and an additional two years of a six-year term, was elected vice president of the board. Max Lyle, who was just elected to the board, is the new board treasurer.

The board voted to employ Rosemary Ruth, a former board member, as board secretary and John Haas as board attorney.

The board's meeting time has been changed to 8 p.m. The board will continue to meet on the second and fourth Monday of every month at the John Muir School library, located on Oak Avenue.

Parochial Lobby Is Forming In Area

Regner, R-Mount Prospect, to vote for them.

Three bills similar to Schlickman's have been introduced into the Illinois Senate.

"But don't waste your time writing to state Sen. John Graham," Mokate said. He told the audience to write to Carl Hansen, Wheeling Township Republican committeeman instead, "to protest Graham's attitude." Graham, R-Barrington, is opposed to state aid for parochial schools.

"The cost of operating our schools is rising. With increasing taxation for public schools, for many parents it has become a question of how much to sacrifice to send their children to parochial schools," Mokate said.

MOKATE SAID HE feels "the possibilities are good" for passage of state aid this year because "there has emerged a better understanding of the merit of a dual system of schools."

He said that granting state aid to non-public schools would not violate constitutional rights because money would only be given to teach secular subjects.

"Catholic schools can and are doing a better job in preparing their students for college," Mokate said. "Our decision to send our children to a non-public school doesn't hurt anyone. It's about time we share in the taxes we must pay."

Woman Is Charged With Intoxication

A 29-year-old Schaumburg woman was arrested Wednesday morning and charged with disorderly conduct and public intoxication following an incident at the Alpine Apartments, Dempster and Busse streets, Mount Prospect.

Janice Mooney, of 1200 E. Algonquin Rd., was charged with disorderly conduct after she allegedly set fire to a suitcase in the parking lot behind the apartment building.

Miss Mooney was released on $25 bond. She is scheduled to appear in the Mount Prospect branch of the Cook County Circuit Court May 19 on the charge.

Police said Miss Mooney set fire to the suitcase following an alleged argument with her boyfriend. Mount Prospect firemen extinguished the fire. Police said the incident happened at about 12:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Man Charged With Public Indecency

A 28-year-old Prospect Heights man was arrested Tuesday and charged with public indecency following an incident that occurred April 3 in the parking lot of Randhurst Shopping Center, Rand and Elmhurst roads, Mount Prospect.

Julio Lugo, of 210 Viola Ln., was arrested in his home Tuesday by Mount Prospect police. He was released on $1,000 bond.

Lugo is scheduled to appear in the Mount Prospect branch of the Cook County Circuit Court May 13 on the charge.

Low-Income Dwelling Sites Earmarked For This Area

by DAVE CRIPPEN

More than 65 sites in or near five Northwest suburban communities may be under consideration by the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) for construction of low-income dwellings.

The Herald has learned that the CHA early this month obtained information on 13 sites in Elk Grove Township and 34 in Wheeling Township from the Northwestern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). And it was reported CHA officials would ask NIPC for similar information on several other suburban townships, including Maine, that previously was not available.

These additional statistics show 20 possible sites in Maine Township.

NIPC Executive Director Matthew Rockwell said CHA reviewed a study the commission is currently preparing to identify suitable locations for low and moderate-income housing in the six-county metropolitan area.

A PRELIMINARY report now completed earmarked tracts of land in or near Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Mount Prospect for potential use in meeting subsidized housing needs.

When CHA first reviewed the study, it obtained information on Elk Grove Township, even though that area was not among 10 townships considered by NIPC to have "first priority" sites available.

The preliminary report identified only

Maine and Wheeling Townships plus eight other townships, seven in Cook County and one in Kane County, as meeting the criteria for a first priority rating.

Exact locations of sites could not be determined, but maps prepared from aerial photographs showed tracts designated in both unincorporated and incorporated areas.

The report's statistics reflected roughly 425 acres available for construction of 2,296 units in or adjacent to Des Plaines.

In excess of 580 acres, enough space for 2,613 units, were available in or near Arlington Heights. And 518 acres of incorporated and unincorporated land in the Wheeling-Elk Grove area could be developed for 1,799 units, according to the statistics.

MORE THAN 2,600 units could be built on 568 acres shown by the report in or adjacent to Mount Prospect.

Figures on acreage and potential number of units in Elk Grove Township were not available.

NIPC officials pointed out their findings determined land and construction costs in each of the Northwest suburban townships exceeded funding limits set by the Federal Government. Therefore, as far as NIPC is concerned, the three townships in this area are not considered most desirable for low-income developments.

The CHA, however, is still expected to consider sites in the Northwest suburbs for its controversial plans.

CHA officials, maintaining their two-month-old silence on specific suburban locations, declined yesterday to elaborate on exactly how the NIPC report would be used.

CHA Executive Director C. E. Humphrey merely noted the study was valuable in determining the "needs of housing."

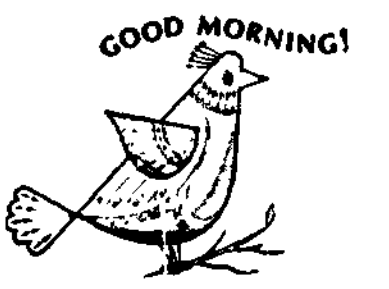

Humphrey also denied earlier reports by another top CHA official that meetings were underway with leaders of communities in which low-income housing was to be proposed.

He explained, "We have had discussions with some communities at their request to discuss the situation." But there reportedly has been no decision on specific sites.

"WE DON'T KNOW what we're going to do," Humphrey replied when asked about locations. Negotiation of an agreement with the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), he added, was the most immediate task facing CHA. Under state and federal laws, CCHA must give its approval for CHA to exert any authority outside Chicago.

CCHA Executive Director Victor Walchik reported a number of meetings with CHA had been held.

"We've met with them on several occasions," he said. "But there has been nothing definitive." Walchik would not comment on whether he thought an agreement would be reached.

New Guidelines For Investigating Nursing Homes

Charges of strongarm investigative techniques by Cook County building inspectors at Magnus Farm have resulted in establishment of guidelines for conduct by inspectors in the nursing home, according to A. B. Magnus, administrator of the privately operated home for the elderly at 801 E. Central Rd., Arlington Heights.

The charges were made in a letter mailed to relatives of residents by Magnus after building inspectors arrived unannounced on April 15 and April 21.

On the first visit, Magnus charged, a group of six men arrived at the nursing home during his absence. He said that after refusing to accept escorts, they barged into both patient and female staff rooms without even knocking, rapped on walls, doors and plumbing as well as opened closet doors, apparently in an effort to secure construction data.

Magnus said that at the time, "several of our residents were being bathed, dressed and otherwise cared for." He said the disruptions resulted in a virtual cessation of nursing care.

A TEAM OF NINE inspectors appeared at the home on April 21 demanding unrestricted access to all areas, Magnus said. He said he threatened to summon police to guard the privacy of residents.

He said one of the inspectors then called the state's attorney's office for instructions and the team left the nursing home.

Subsequently, he charged, he was informed by an assistant state's attorney that "nobody from God on down was going to stop them." The assistant state's attorney, he said, told him considerations of patient privacy, welfare and care were "not relevant."

Commissioner William F. Harris of the county Department of Building, Zoning and Air Pollution Control, said yesterday he found Magnus' charges difficult to believe.

"I believe that our inspections are conducted in a professional manner," said Harris. He added that the department "has an obligation to make certain that the care of patients was not interrupted" by inspections.

HARRIS DEFENDED the value of unannounced inspections, pointing out that poor conditions in institutions can be corrected temporarily when the inspectors are expected. "But," he said, "we have agreed to complete inspections at Magnus Farm according to their request."

Inspections have been scheduled tomorrow and Monday at the farm. According to Magnus, Harris agreed that not more than four inspectors would be used and all would be accompanied by staff nursing personnel at all times and that "patient dignity and well-being will be of paramount concern."

He also said that the home had agreed that the building department would conduct "as comprehensive an inspection of our physical plant as they deem appropriate."

Magnus said the earlier visits by the county inspectors had been so disruptive that the home offered relatives of residents the option of removing patients from the home until the inspections were completed, without charge during the period.

HE CITED ONE example in which he said an elderly woman was convinced that the inspector who entered her room was her son and that the nursing staff was preventing her from seeing him.

The inspections of nursing homes being carried out by Harris' office are part of an "emergency" campaign begun after charges in a Chicago newspaper of patient-neglect and unsafe conditions in Chicago-area homes for the elderly.

AN ANTI-WAR PLAY, Bertolt Brecht's "Caucasian Chalk Circle," will open tonight at Arlington High School at 7:30. The play, which will run through Saturday, deals with a civil war in an Eastern nation. Here, Eve Lacker as Grusha Vashnadze, faces two soldiers, played by Dennis Steele and Kurt Frantz. Others in the cast of 78 include Kerry Weston as the Governor's wife, Martin Haeger as the storyteller and Dave Thomas as Azdak. Music for the play is being provided by Russ Daughtry, Maile Powell, Steve Cook and Cynthia Bunting.

Might Justify Hiring Of Another Patrolman

Park Vandalism: Big Headache Here

Vandalism in Arlington Heights' parks amounts to more than just an occasional broken window.

In the past 10 months, fires were set, threatening phone calls made, cars were driven through parks, a shooting broke windows, beer parties were held and thefts occurred in local parks. Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave., seems the most popular location of park vandalism and illegal activities.

A listing of unlawful activities was presented recently to the Arlington Heights Park Board as part of a report of park district patrolman Joseph Rinehart, who was hired last summer.

Angelo Capulli, superintendent of maintenance, told the board the statistics justified the hiring of a park patrolman in the first place "and perhaps the need for another one."

REFERRING TO THE report, Park

Board President Charles Cronin said, "There's no question we could use six more."

The park patrolman was hired last year after repeated attempts to increase village police patrolling of the local parks. After attempts to accomplish this failed and vandalism increased, the Park Board approved the hiring of its own patrolman.

His duties include patrolling the parks, enforcing park district rules and ordinances inspecting buildings, helping with crowd and traffic control at special events and collecting receipts from swimming pools, concession stands, tennis court light meters and vending machines.

HIS EQUIPMENT includes a two-way radio which allows him to communicate

New Area Parochial Aid Lobby Forming; Meeting Set

Members of five area Catholic parishes met in Mount Prospect Tuesday to find out what they could do to promote state aid to non-public schools.

About 50 parents attended the meeting at St. Raymond Catholic School, 300 S. Elmhurst Rd. They came from St. Raymond, St. Cecilia and St. Emily parishes in Mount Prospect and from St. Alphonsus and St. Thomas a Beckett parishes in Prospect Heights. The five parishes are served by schools at St. Raymond, St. Emily, St. Alphonsus, and by Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic School in Arlington Heights.

Michael Mokate, a member of St. Raymond told parents they should write their state legislators urging them to vote for passage of bills providing state aid to parochial schools.

MOKATE IS ONE of the speakers trained by the "Time for Action" program, which is conducting a state-wide campaign to get aid for parochial schools. The program is sponsored by the Illinois Catholic Conference, co-ordinating body for Catholic schools throughout the state.

Mokate and Norma Stein of Bellwood spoke at the meeting. Mokate said parents should write to their representatives urging passage of the bills, sponsored by Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, that are now in the Illinois House of Representatives.

The three House Bills, 2164 to 2166, provide aid through non-public school through parental grants, subsidies for families with incomes less than $3,000 and the creation of a state committee to develop new educational programs for both public and non-public schools.

HB 2164 provides a parental grant not to exceed $60 for elementary pupils or $90 for high school students a year for parents who send their children to parochial schools. The amount would depend upon state aid given to the public schools in the same area.

MOKATE POINTED OUT that Dist 57 which serves central and northern Mount Prospect, receives $48 for each student, and High School Dist 214 gets $54 per student in state aid.

The two speakers urged their audience to write to thank Schlickman for the bills and to urge Rep. Eugene Chapman, D-Arlington Heights and Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect to vote for them.

Three bills similar to Schlickman's have been introduced into the Illinois Senate.

"But don't waste your time writing to state Sen. John Graham," Mokate said. He told the audience to write to Carl Hansen, Wheeling Township Republican committeeman instead, "to protest Graham's attitude." Graham, R-Barrington, is opposed to state aid for parochial schools.

"The cost of operating our schools is rising. With increasing taxation for public schools, for many parents it has become a question of how much to sacrifice to send their children to parochial schools," Mokate said.

MOKATE SAID HE feels "the possibilities are good" for passage of state aid this year because "there has emerged a better understanding of the merit of a dual system of schools."

He said that granting state aid to non-public schools would not violate constitutional rights because money would only be given to teach secular subjects.

Board Views Initial Teachers' Contract

The initial contract proposal drawn up by the Arlington Teacher's Association (ATA) was presented to the Board of Education of Arlington Heights Dist. 25 last night.

The proposal which was not made public was presented by the negotiation team for the ATA. It was expected to contain proposals for salaries, working conditions and other benefits for the 1971-72 school year.

The meeting between the full board and the association is the first step in the negotiation process which will eventually result in a new teacher contract for next year. One earlier preliminary meeting was held this month.

In subsequent negotiation meetings two board members acting as representatives of the board, members of the administrative staff and the ATA negotiating team will meet.

ALL NEGOTIATION sessions are held in executive session and both sides have agreed to withhold comment unless progress is being made, district officials said.

The ATA, which is the official bargaining agent for the district's teachers, is affiliated with the Illinois Education Association.

This year's negotiations are starting later than in previous years. In 1969, bargaining began in February and a settlement was announced in June.

Last year contract talks began in early April and the settlement was announced at the end of August.

This year base pay for teachers with four years of college and no experience is $7,575. The pay scale moves up by steps in experience and additional education to a top salary of $14,771.

Activity Nights Slated Each Week

A special activity night for grade school children will be held today and every Thursday night at Frontier Park, Kennicott Drive and Palatine Road, Arlington Heights.

The free activities night which will continue each week until school is dismissed for summer vacation will include organized games, sports play and open gyms. The programs will be led by volunteers.

The grade school nights will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. For more information contact David Phillips, center director at Frontier Park.

A TORNADO WARNING will send students at South Junior High School out into the halls with their heads tucked down. The students at the school practiced the procedure in a drill last week. During tornado season all schools in Arlington Heights Dist. 25 conduct the drills, using procedures recommended by the Civil Defense workers in the village.

These Radios Not For Fun

The small radios in the principals' offices in Arlington Heights Dist. 25 are not used for entertainment — they are there to give immediate warning of emergencies.

The radios, installed in each school and the administration building, will come on automatically to give warning of an emergency, such as a tornado, in the area.

The radios, as well as the village emergency siren, both operated from the Municipal Building, are tested once a month.

The direct hookup to the village is one of the ways the schools prepare for possible emergencies. James Hall, director of School and Community Relations, said recently.

In addition, "disaster drills" are conducted each spring to familiarize children with procedures in the event a tornado should strike.

In the event of an emergency, children are not allowed to leave the school except at the request of a parent or guardian, Hall added.

Church Members Donate Blood

Members of St. James Catholic Church will be giving blood donations this weekend and will thus ensure blood supplies for all members of the parish.

The parish is participating in a family blood plan which will allow a certain percentage of the parishioners to donate blood each year and thus gain insurance for all other members. The plan was worked out in cooperation with the Red Cross, which will be taking the blood donations Saturday and Sunday in St. James Catholic School, 821 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

About 450 members of the parish signed pledge cards, according to Dr. William Kuhn, co-chairman of the blood drive. The other co-chairman is Judith Baenen.

Members of the parish originally began investigating some type of blood plan when one parish family which includes three children with hemophilia asked for help from the church. After investigation, parishioners found the family blood plan could be used to cover all parishioners and Dr. Kuhn suggested, "Maybe the whole village could get together and do it... and then maybe the whole county."

Church Of The Master Is Holding Annual Art Fair

The fourth annual art fair of the Church of the Master is being conducted at 259 E. Central Rd. (Central and Rand) in Des Plaines. The art fair will be open from 12 noon to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The public is cordially invited to view the work of many professional artists and sculptors from the Chicago area. There is no admission charge.

The fair is sponsored annually by the Church of the Master for the sole purpose of stimulating local interest in the works of our talented art community. Through the sponsorship of this varied and contemporary artistic display, the church hopes to reaffirm the ancient ties between art and religion.

Among the professional artists loaning work for the exhibit are Fred Bacon, copper enamel pictures; Cathy Challenger, oils; Cheryl Greco, etchings and mixed media; James Jennings, drawings on velvet; Lydia Lutz, oils; Barbara Majeski, lacquer paintings; Kurt Mager, brass bas reliefs.

The work of Joseph Burlini of Arlington Heights, whose life-size welded and kinetic metal sculptures were so popular last year, will be featured. Mr. Burlini, who has won many prizes for his work, has exhibited in the Art Institute, the Benjamin Galleries and the University of Chicago.

Kurt Mager, a member of the Mount Prospect and Des Plaines Art Guilds, will have an exhibit of his "Pictures in Brass." Mager welds strips of brass into designs which are then mounted on suitable backgrounds, thus making unusual works of art. He will demonstrate this technique from 2 to 4 p.m. on May 2.

All exhibited pieces of art will be for sale.

Creative art films in animation and straight photography will be shown continuously.

The committee for the art fair includes: Keith Davis, pastor; Mr. Lloyd Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Wolfgang Junkel, Mr. and Mrs. William Myers, Mrs. Robert Novak, Mrs. Robert Fairhead, Mrs. Robert Chappell, Mr. and Mrs. William Hellyer, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Pugsley and Mr. Willard Strassburger, art instructor at Maine South High School, chairman.

Low-Income Dwelling Sites Earmarked For This Area

by DAVE CRIPPEN

More than 65 sites in or near five Northwest suburban communities may be under consideration by the Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) for construction of low-income dwellings.

The Herald has learned that the CHA early this month obtained information on 13 sites in Elk Grove Township and 34 in Wheeling Township from the Northwestern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). And it was reported CHA officials would ask NIPC for similar information on several other suburban townships, including Maine, that previously was not available.

These additional statistics show 20 possible sites in Maine Township.

NIPC Executive Director Matthew Rockwell said CHA reviewed a study the commission is currently preparing to identify suitable locations for low and moderate-income housing in the six-county metropolitan area.

A PRELIMINARY report now completed earmarked tracts of land in or near Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Mount Prospect for potential use in meeting subsidized housing needs.

When CHA first reviewed the study, it obtained information on Elk Grove Township, even though that area was not among 10 townships considered by NIPC to have "first priority" sites available. The preliminary report identified only

Maine and Wheeling Townships plus eight other townships, seven in Cook County and one in Kane County, as meeting the criteria for a first priority rating.

Exact locations of sites could not be determined, but maps prepared from aerial photographs showed tracts designated in both unincorporated and incorporated areas.

The report's statistics reflected roughly 425 acres available for construction of 2,296 units in or adjacent to Des Plaines.

In excess of 580 acres, enough space for 2,613 units, were available in or near Arlington Heights. And 518 acres of incorporated and unincorporated land in the Wheeling-Elk Grove area could be developed for 1,799 units, according to the statistics.

MORE THAN 2,600 units could be built on 568 acres shown by the report in or adjacent to Mount Prospect.

Figures on acreage and potential number of units in Elk Grove Township were not available.

NIPC officials pointed out their findings determined land and construction costs in each of the Northwest suburban townships exceeded funding limits set by the Federal Government. Therefore, as far as NIPC is concerned, the three townships in this area are not considered most desirable for low-income developments.

The CHA, however, is still expected to consider sites in the Northwest suburbs for its controversial plans.

CHA officials, maintaining their two-month-old silence on specific suburban locations, declined yesterday to elaborate on exactly how the NIPC report would be used.

CHA Executive Director C. E. Humphrey merely noted the study was valuable in determining the "needs of housing."

Humphrey also denied earlier reports by another top CHA official that meetings were underway with leaders of communities in which low-income housing was to be proposed.

He explained, "We have had discussions with some communities at their request to discuss the situation." But there reportedly has been no decision on specific sites.

"WE DON'T KNOW what we're going to do," Humphrey replied when asked about locations. Negotiation of an agreement with the Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), he added, was the most immediate task facing CHA. Under state and federal laws, CCHA must give its approval for CHA to exert any authority outside Chicago.

CCHA Executive Director Victor Walchuk reported a number of meetings with CHA had been held.

"We've met with them on several occasions," he said. "But there has been nothing definitive." Walchuk would not comment on whether he thought an agreement would be reached.

Huge Throng Expected At Outdoor Show

About 18,000 people are expected to attend the 17th annual Des Plaines Outdoor Sports and Vacation Show this weekend at the Rand Park fieldhouse in Des Plaines.

The show, co-sponsored by the Des Plaines Park District and the Izaak Walton League, will feature performances by the Nemk Indians of St. Charles, scuba diving demonstrations by the Triton Scuba Club and fast-draw gun shooting by the Chicago Colts Fast Draw Club.

According to Pam Falt, Des Plaines Park District recreation supervisor, there will also be a canine demonstration by Northbrook police dogs and judo demonstrations by an instructor from the park district.

"There will be a trout pond," Miss Falt said, "and anyone can fish in it. There will also be a balloon flying contest for the kids, too."

A NUMBER OF booths displaying fishing equipment will be set up in the fieldhouse as well as an exhibit called "Tackle Row." Other booths will feature information and equipment displays by the United States Coast Guard, Navy, Marines and Special Forces Unit.

The Audubon Society will have its own booth where they will display bird and conservation information.

"We'll have about 16 different kinds of camping trailers displayed outside the fieldhouse," Miss Falt said, "and there will be a state police van which will be open for anyone to tour."

Miss Falt said she expects a number of representatives from vacation and resort areas in Illinois, Wisconsin and Canada to be at the show with brochures and information about places to stay and camp.

According to Miss Falt and Frank Hoffman, president of the Izaak Walton League in Des Plaines, the purpose of the show is to make people aware of the outdoor recreational activities and facilities available to them.

"SO MANY PEOPLE are now outdoor-conscious," Miss Falt said. "This show is to help them broaden their horizons. It also encourages other people to get involved in the outdoors."

"This show," Frank Hoffman said, "promotes conservation and outdoor recreation. One of its main features is to make available to the public the various outdoor equipment there is. The League wants to promote the betterment of wildlife and outdoor recreation."

Hoffman said when the show started 13 years ago it concentrated on different kinds of outdoor recreation. "The league decided to help it become a true outdoor show," he said, "and now it promotes both conservation and outdoor recreation."

Hoffman added that the show is free to the public. The sale of booth space to the various exhibitors pays for all the expenses.

The show will be held Saturday and Sunday from noon to 10 p.m. Rand Park is located at 2025 Miner Street in Des Plaines.

TWO BOYS, a dog and a couple of fishing poles and it's full steam ahead towards summer at Big Bond Lake in Des Plaines.

Hungry Burglars

Steal 160 lbs. Food

An apparently hungry burglar avoided the empty cash register at a Des Plaines restaurant and went straight to the pantry Tuesday night, stealing 160 pounds of food.

According to Des Plaines police, the burglar entered Mannion's Hot Dog Hut, 1724 Rand River Rd., by opening a front window and then ransacking the restaurant in search of food.

John Mannion, restaurant owner, told police that among the missing items were 90 pounds of french fries, 40 pounds of hot dogs, 20 pounds of Polish sausage, five pounds of steaks, five pounds of bacon and eight dozen hot dog and hamburger buns.

Firemen Discuss Community Pride, Fear Of Their Jobs

by LEON SHURE

The pride of serving the community, and the terror of injury and death were the themes of a seminar Wednesday on the problems of firemen and their families.

More than 50 Northwest suburban and Cook County firemen and their wives attended the all day lecture and discussion seminar at Forest Hospital, a private psychiatric hospital located at 555 Wilson Ln., Des Plaines.

The seminar was coordinated and planned with the help of Capt. John Benson, of the Arlington Heights Fire Department; and Capt. David Wolf and Lt. Richard Arthur, both of the Des Plaines Fire Department.

The seminar included a lecture on innovation and motivation by Jim Casey, who is an editor of a national professional magazine, group discussions, and an afternoon "psychodrama" in which a Buffalo Grove family acted out the problems and conflicts of the firemen.

The Buffalo Grove family consisted of Carl Schulein, an Arlington Heights fireman; his wife Audrey and their six children, Michael, 14, Charles, 13, Jeannine, 11, Catherine, 10, Kim, 8, and David, 6.

The Schulein family reenacted a typical family dinner and discussions between family members, with the aid of Forest staff personnel.

They discussed the difficulties caused by firemen having to serve long hours at unexpected times, the problem of finding enough time for every member of the family, and the dealing with the possibility of injury and death.

Schulein, who has been a fireman for nearly three years in Arlington Heights and also serves on the volunteer Buffalo Grove fire department, and his family discussed possible feelings of resentment or loss when "daddy has to spend so much time at the fire department," obviously a common complaint, according to audience response.

The group discussed the difficulty the wife of a fireman faces when her husband is away, including having to discipline the children alone, and bearing the burden of home life.

The children spoke about missing their father sometimes, and of not having him around occasionally when they most needed him.

Some in the seminar group felt that this was balanced by the pride and respect the children have for their fathers, when they can say "My daddy is a fireman."

Schulein talked of his desire to serve his community, and of the satisfaction it gives him.

Several women spoke of a common problem dealing with the family crisis if their husbands are injured on the job.

Some felt the best thing to do would be to tell the children how serious the injury is, and to let them help.

Others demonstrated ways they would talk to the children, to try to ease the shock and terror of hearing their father has been hurt.

Most agreed that children show remarkable courage and maturity in the face of crisis.

One woman complimented her eldest son by saying he is "just like his father."

BIKE RIDING: commuters can rejoice a bit. The city council has been discussing installing bike racks at Cumberland train station and, possibly, at the downtown train station. If you're "one of those" let your alderman know you support the racks.

I'M BEGINNING to cringe when I hear people say, "You always read about the bad things kids are doing today and never hear anything about the good they do." I cringe.

And another one: "People just don't realize that the troublemakers are the minority of the young people today." I think it's the rare person who doesn't realize this.

The $64,000 question seems to be whether we give the youth our support for the "good they do." Hundreds of Des Plaines kids are going to be taking part in either the Walk for Development (May 9) and the Hike For The Hungry (May 16).

All of them need sponsors for their hikes and several have expressed their difficulty in finding adult sponsors. It seems many adults are under the impression these kids are either protest marching or peace demonstrating.

The opposite is true. The money they earn (the sponsor pledges to pay them $X amount of money for every mile they walk) goes to feed and educate and care for the poor in Illinois and the nation.

The Northwest Suburban Day Care Center, located at the First Presbyterian Church of Des Plaines, will receive money from the Walk for Development. They received a check for more than $10,000 last year and could not operate without the funds from the Walk.

So when that young person knocks on your door sign up as a sponsor. A 10 cent pledge will wind up costing you no more than $2 if your "pledgee" walks the full 20 miles. And all they get out of it is sore feet and the gratification of having done something to help others.

SPRING BRINGS with it the institution of Little League. It also brings those who praise and those who criticize the operation of this institution.

This year I join the ranks of "baseball mothers" — something that resembles a golf widow. I think — and I'm anxiously reading all I can about how it will either turn my 8-year-old into an all-American boy or a nervous wreck.

Stars of Tomorrow has the pleasure of having my son the baseball player. Thank God for small favors. For the past three years this kid has been baseball nuts. He's gone to the point where he's changed his name from Billy Oliver to Billy Williams.

He lives and breathes baseball and has 12 shoeboxes filled with baseball cards that he sleeps with. (I've convinced him to keep them under rather than in his bed, however.)

Last weekend was the first warmup for his team. I went to make sure those beasts who call themselves managers and coaches didn't do anything to disturb his psyche.

What other mothers may have termed "anxiety" on his part, I felt was sheer excitement. There was no psyche destroying going on so I went home to await the outcome.

Plea Issued For Des Plaines Counsel Center

by CYNTHIA TIVERS

A fund raising plea for the Community Counseling Center in Des Plaines was made yesterday at a breakfast meeting for about 30 northwest suburban clergymen in the South Community Baptist Church in Mount Prospect.

The Community Counseling Center, a suburban branch of the Salvation Army Family Service Division, provides various types of counseling to individuals in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg, Wheeling and unincorporated School Dist. 63.

Each of the communities contributes to the Counseling Center through their Community Chest. It is also funded by individual contributions and fees charged for service. Until last year it received funds from the four townships it serves but the recent freeze on township funds has left the Center with a $15,000 deficit this year.

According to the Center's director, Mrs. Margaret Lisinski, the Center cannot continue to operate unless their deficit is met. It is the only such counseling center in the Northwest suburbs.

The clergymen were asked yesterday to take the message of need by the Counseling Center back to their communities. "THE PEOPLE HERE have demonstrated their need for our service," said Miss Mary Young, Welfare Services Consultant and Program Co-ordinator for the Salvation Army Family Service Division, "the effectiveness of our agency is shown every day."

"Just looking at statistics," she said, "we saw 684 families last year and that's about 1,000 people. The Counseling Service helps people find their potential for making adjustments, the fact that we are used shows our effectiveness."

"Now I hope that you, as the leadership of your community," Miss Young added, "will take our message — our need to the people."

Mrs. Jane Gottwald of Park Ridge told the clergymen of her experience with the Counseling Center's Homemaker Service. "My family became acquainted with the Center six years ago," she said, "through a stroke of luck we found out about their services and I'll be forever grateful that we did."

Mrs. Gottwald said she had been hospitalized for 18 weeks with severe depression. "I couldn't talk. I couldn't do anything. I was helpless."

MRS. GOTTWALD had two small children and was expecting a third at the time of her hospitalization. "I was troubled that I couldn't take care of my two children — let alone a third."

to the Gottwald's house. After the baby was born the Counseling Center sent an experienced homemaker

SPEAKING DIRECTLY to the critical need for a local counseling center such as the Community Council, Mrs. Jane Gottwald of Park Ridge addressed a breakfast meeting of area ministers in Mount Prospect yesterday morning.

Postal Service Gets Competition

by MARY RIEFSCHNEIDER

Mail pouches for local letter carriers about start getting lighter after Aug. 1. On that date private enterprise will start competing with the U.S. Post Office on delivery of second, third and fourth class mail items.

The Independent Postal System of America will expand its Chicago area operation to serve communities in Schaumburg, Palatine, Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships, according to Bill Radunz Jr., IPSA postmaster for this area.

The IPSA was founded three years ago in Oklahoma by Thomas Murray and now operates in 25 states and 48 cities. It is just starting to move into the metropolitan Chicago area. By the end of the year, IPSA expects to be operating in almost all of the Chicago suburbs, Radunz said.

IPSA CARRIERS, dressed in uniforms similar to those of regular mailmen, will be hired to deliver, door-to-door, advertisements and other types of bulk mail, Radunz said.

IPSA will handle any type of mail provided the sender wants it delivered on a mass or selective route basis and that it isn't first class mail. By federal law, only the U.S. Post Office can deliver first class mail.

IPSA will offer cheaper rates than the Post Office, Radunz said. The bulk mail rate will be $40 per 1,000 pieces, compared to the Post Office expected increase to $52 per 1,000 pieces.

Headquarters for the IPSA's northwest suburban operation will be in Elk Grove Village, Radunz said. Its address will be 1625 Tonne Road, starting August 1.

IPSA RELIES dealerships to individuals. Each dealership has five routes in it. IPSA carriers can purchase their own routes, Radunz said.

"All IPSA carriers are guaranteed to be bonded," Radunz said.

For mailers, IPSA guarantees delivery dates. Third class mail now can be held up to 24 hours in each post office it passes through.

Since federal law restricts use of mail boxes, IPSA carriers will leave their items in plastic sacks.

Radunz, who is an Elk Grove resident, worked for the Post Office for eight years. He views IPSA as an aid to the Post Office.

"After seeing first hand how the Post Office gets tied down with bulk mail, IPSA should help provide better first class mail service," Radunz said.

He thinks IPSA has a very bright future in competing with the Post Office. "Only 10 per cent of what's mailed first class is really first class matter," Radunz said.

Local postmasters had varying opinions on what effects IPSA might have.

Edward Swan, Wheeling postmaster, said he sees both advantages and disadvantages to IPSA. "Many people don't like junk (bulk) mail. They blame its delivery on the Post Office and frankly I think it cheapens postal services."

"BUT IPSA could cut down on the number of people we employ. Once a postal employee is made a regular, he is guaranteed a 40 hour pay week. This is one of the reasons third class mail was established," Swan said.

His Post Office handled 158,000 pieces of mail last week, including 100,000 first class pieces and the remainder bulk mail.

William Watson, Prospect Heights postmaster, said he "rather discounts" the idea of private enterprise competing with the Post Office. He said he doesn't know much about the IPSA and added, "I don't think it will have much effect on the Post Office."

A spokesman in the Mount Prospect Post Office said since second class mail, newspapers and magazines, is low, IPSA will have little effect there.

He added that the Post Office's revenues could be hurt by drastic cuts in third class mail. "Most of the circulars we handle are mailed locally, so this isn't a money losing proposition," he said.

Mrs. Virginia Dodge, Arlington Heights postmaster, said she has received no information on the IPSA operation, though she's heard of it. On a four week average, the Arlington facility, which also serves Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village, handles 12 million pieces of mail. Counting only the outgoing mail, 700,000 pieces are third class mail and 25,000 are second class mail.

THE ROSELLE postmaster, Mrs.

Irene Hitzeman, said she had no idea what effects IPSA would have on that Post Office which also serves Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates.

Mrs. Martha Webster, Palatine postmaster, said, she has no information on the IPSA.

Adults Learn The ABC's Of Organic Gardening

by MARY B. GOOD

Organic Gardening Those two obscure words in a District 207 adult education brochure lured about 25 curious people to the area's first night school organic gardening class.

Some came to Maine Adult Evening School to learn about bugs, compost or DDT. Some just wanted a night out.

But all were in for a social experience that included experiments in bean sprouting and taste testing "research."

The first question all wanted answered was "How can gardeners grow anything without spraying chemicals to kill insects and feed plants?"

Students brought the class their frustrations. "I can't seem to raise good roses!" Their problem: "How do I get rid of sweat bees in the window sash?" And their triumphs: One lady's mung beans outsprouted the teacher's.

THE CLASS WAS a melting pot of young mothers, businessmen, retired folks, blue collar workers, several couples and even one girl who wanted to learn organic gardening so she could live exclusively off the land. There were those with a lifetime of gardening experience and some who had never so much as sowed a seed.

Another highlight of the course was praying mantis night. The guest speaker was a woman who did a study on the effects of mosquito spraying. She brought along Myrtle, the praying mantis.

Almost every Thursday night during the eight-week course, the weather was terrible. But the organic gardening students who braved the cold and rain to go to Des Plaines, found themselves absorbed in spring. They made soil tests for nitrogen and lime, scrutinized sick plants for practice "diagnosis" and polished their organic gardening IQ's.

SOCIABILITY DEVELOPED with class members bringing in peat pots to share, seeds, cuttings, reading material, newspaper items, pictures of their yards. One gardener brought in chocolate candy shaped like lady bugs.

They learned companion planting, indoor composting, how to make do-it-yourself fertilizer, and where to shop for organic garden products like rock dusts, sea-derived fertilizer and organic turf food.

Gardeners found out how to combat crabgrass without spending a cent, how to make quickie humus in five days, and how to have a compost pile without losing neighbors. They learned to distinguish between organic growing and food faddism.

STUDENTS GOBBLED up written material developed by Pollution and Environmental Problems (PEP) that showed organic alternatives to combatting 50 different kinds of insect pests and how to read spray can terms by their common names.

On "graduation night" the students gave the instructor a "report card," instead of the opposite, and each gardener went home with a "graduation present" — a bottle of Sea-born seaweed fertilizer.

CHECKING BEAN sprout "homework" are Mrs. Eugene Filius and Donald Deithloff, both of Des Plaines. Later students munched on homemade organic oatmeal cookies, laced with alfalfa sprouts. Purpose was to illustrate culinary uses of seed sprouts.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: When a glass full of iced tea spilled on our beautiful, new light carpeting, I was upset as there was nothing in the house to clean it with. I wet a bath towel and wiped the area quickly, then put one paper towel after another over the area till no moisture appeared. Then a heavy book went over the stack of paper. Examined the area the next day, there was no stain — Micheline Van Smith.

Dear Dorothy: When our child was a baby, we were living in an area which had so much iron in the water the diapers came out brownish red. A friend told us to use nonprecipitating water conditioner before putting in the soap powder. Not only could we use less soap but we could even use bleach in the white clothes — and nothing turned brown again — Betty Heath.

(Editor's note: A nonprecipitating conditioner is one with no residue such as Borateem.)

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Sportsman's Notebook

by Bob Holiday

I DON'T KNOW why we do it every year. Surely it isn't for the fish. The first year we struck out. The second year we got two. This year was only a slight improvement.

Perhaps we do it because it is the one time of the year that we permit the wives to come along, and to actually speak to us as we fish. The fact that on these smelt fishing trips they often choose to speak disparagingly must be due to the intemperance of the weather.

There were eight of us, including the Apache Indian who had agreed to disentangle the smelt from the net and keep a running tally.

It was a cold night in Belmont Harbor, so we had found it necessary to carry along a drop or two of Old Popokull. In fact, we had so much O.P. with us, that I noticed the ice chest weighed 78 pounds and we had forgotten the ice.

That is also partly why we nearly got into trouble with our smelt fishing neighbors even before we had the first smelt in the bucket.

They had been there a few hours ahead of us. Likewise, they were out front in both smelt and in empty Popokull bottles. Nevertheless, they were cordial until we began setting up our equipment.

Before I recite this minor tragedy, you perhaps don't know that there are more than two ways to kill a smelt. There may be 200 for all I know, because all I know is to take a big heavy lead anchor and fling it into the middle of the harbor where it will serve as the base of our trolley line. The trolley line runs from a tall pole on the shoreline and the smelt net rides out and back on the line. The net has weights along the bottom and floats on top and you can settle it at any depth along the line, depending on what depth the smelt are at.

The second order of business, then, on any smelt trip is to fling that heavy lead anchor into the deep, as far as you can, by swinging it around and around your head, like a cowboy throws a lasso. (That is the second order of business, because the first is to fight off the chill with a trip to the ice chest.)

The guy from Chicago decided he would place the anchor this year, so he whipped it around his head in the approved fashion until it was singing beautifully. At just the right moment he released it and it sunk like a rock in the smelt net next to us.

After a fast summit meeting, the Apache and the typist were dispatched as ambassadors and somehow managed to come back with the anchor and without bruises.

The rig was set up then without further disaster and with only a few more trips to the ice chest, where someone had thoughtfully placed some ice, finally.

After the rig is ready, we were advised by the experts next to us, you dip the net for intervals of 10 minutes. Not nine minutes, we were cautioned, or 11 minutes — but 10 minutes. They had a tub full of smelt and we only had our ice chest, so who's going to argue? We raised it after 10 minutes and it contained two alewife and one smelt, which promptly fell out of the net as the Indian reached for it.

The guy from Antioch mumbled that he was sure there were more smelt over on the lakeshore than there were right here in the harbor. "Sure they are," the Chicago lady agreed, "but it's cold and windy and dark over there!" All four men made a swoop on the ice chest, shaking their heads in confusion.

The Apache, meanwhile, was making Indian raids up and down the harbor and reported that nearly every party of smelt fishermen had smelt by the buckets. We took one smelt and a beer can out of our second pull on the net.

"Yeah," she enthused as she pulled it from the net, and made a run for the ice chest.

It was getting colder. What's more, someone had decided that light attracts smelt, so they hung my Coleman lantern under the pier above the net. A few minutes later the tide came in and suddenly the lantern wasn't hanging over the water anymore. That took care of the light situation and made it seem even colder.

Somewhere during the evening, a Chicago police squad car came by on a routine patrol. He watched two or three hauls of the net, up and down the trolley line and listened to the warwhooping Apache — who whooped identically if the net had one or two or none in it. Finally he got on his radio, probably to call the state hospital to see if anybody was missing — satisfied himself that we were out-patients, waved and left.

As the night wore on and it became increasingly apparent that to depend on a smelt-try would mean counting on pretty short rations, the two wives who had, throughout the evening, been the most insulting to the fishermen, were dispatched for pizzas.

Naturally, then, the other two wives felt obliged to join their sisters in their errand of mercy — and, naturally, we never saw them again, until we had picked up our equipment and adjourned to the Chicago guy's home. There they were, of course, eating pizza.

But before that, back at the lakefront, we had a final haul of the net and removed two more smelt, which put us over our anticipated catch, but under a bucket full.

We were going to give it another try until someone realized that the car the women had driven away was the one with the ice chest in the trunk.

So we still have yet to hit it really big with the smelt.

But it was just as well that we didn't, because I found out later that our Indian tallykeeper can only count to ten in Apache anyway.

Elk Grove Takes Top Prize In Tennis Quad

Ken Rundquist's Elk Grove varsity tennis team rode four championships to the winner's circle of a quadrangular meet Saturday.

The Elk Grove Invitational included entries from Fenton, Niles West and Addison Trail, but none of them could handle the host Grenadiers. The Grove won with 44 points while Fenton notched 35, Niles West, 15 and Addison, 14.

The journey, which is set up by the luck of the free draw, includes two rounds — the opening match and finally a berth for either first or third.

Grenadier first singles player Chris Lesniak glided to the opening championship by handling Ken Skopek from Addison in the first round, 6-4, 6-2. Lesniak garnered the gold medal by hammering Gary Pederson from Fenton, 7-6, 6-2.

At second singles, Elk Grove's Ken Siebold dropped his opener to Steve Pauley of Fenton, 6-2, 6-0, but battled back for third place by whipping Niles West's Larry Stone, 6-1, 6-4.

Elk Grove Net Unit Falls

Barrington rudely awakened a visiting Elk Grove tennis team Monday by sweeping the singles competition en route to a 4-1 pasting.

Only the Grenadier second doubles tandem of Mark Hopkins and Chuck Carroll were able to escape with a victorious decision, and even that took some doing.

Already trailing 4-0 in points, Hopkins and Carroll dropped an opening 6-3 verdict in what was shaping into a Barrington sweep.

But head coach Ken Rundquist's duo fought back to nail down the second set,

Mark Greenberg bagged the host's second prize by turning back Greg Weiss of Niles West in the opener, 6-1, 6-4 and then stomping Fenton's Bill Rosner in straight sets of 6-3, 6-0.

At first doubles, the Grove's duo of Pat Massey and Al Lewandowski proved unbeatable as they advanced past Addison's entry of Bruce Liere and Ken Haines, 6-0, 6-4, before winning the competition with straight shutouts over Bryl and Gary Eddy of Fenton, 6-0, 6-2.

Grenadiers Mark Hopkins and Steve Moreano were equally impressive at second doubles in eliminating Randy Wolfe and John Krispin of Fenton in the opening round, 6-0, 6-4 before nailing down another trophy with a 6-0, 6-2 pasting of Bob Beswick and Don Silvert of Niles West for the championship.

In the frosh-soph competition, Niles West swept every contest in posting 50 points while Elk Grove was second with 29. Fenton third with 24 and Addison Trail fourth with 12.

6-1, before applying the winner in the final match, 6-4.

In the singles pairings, Grenadier Chris Lesniak fell to Broncho Greg Russell, 6-1, 6-2 while it was almost the same story at second singles as Mark Greenberg lost in straight sets of 6-1, 6-4 to Barrington's Jay Morgan.

The Grove's Ken Siebold put up a struggle in the second set of his third singles match before falling, 6-1, 6-6 and Pat Massey and Al Lewandowski were the fourth Grenadier entry to be erased, 6-3, 6-4, before Elk Grove notched the scoreboard.

Wissen To Head Falcon Basketball

by PAUL LOGAN

Ted Wissen, a former basketball coach at Arlington High School, has been named as the new head basketball coach at Forest View High School.

Wissen, presently athletic director and head coach at North Central College in Naperville, was singled out from a group of around 40 coaches to fill the spot recently vacated by Ken Arneson, head coach since the school's beginning who will become the head man at Rolling Meadows this fall.

"I'd like to emphasize that we had many, many exceptional coaches both inside and outside the district that applied and I was very impressed with them," said Bill Beckman, Forest View's athletic director.

However, Wissen, 39, had the most well rounded background in having coached on three different levels — junior high, high and college, according to Beckman. Wissen's new boss also added this:

"I worked with Ted at Prospect and, like I say, I've known him ever since he came to the area. He's thoroughly familiar with the entire area."

"I felt that the fact that he had been extremely successful as a high school coach along with being a successful college coach has given him the necessary broad experience to put us back in the basketball picture."

"I also felt the experience and the contacts he's made while at North Central with the other colleges and so forth will be extremely beneficial to our kids."

Wissen said that he was looking forward to his new job and the challenge it would present. He also added this:

"We were there for so many years that my family and I are looking forward to moving back to be with our many friends. We have enjoyed the people in the district. It has been an enjoyable four years and it's been a great experience for me."

Wissen came to North Central, a member of the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin, in 1967 as head basketball coach. Last year he was also named athletic director. He has assisted in football — also a job he'll have at Forest View — and is presently head tennis coach. Wissen's basketball teams compiled a 40-55 record in the tough CCIW.

He coached at Arlington from 1963 to 1967 as head basketball and assistant football coach along with his physical education classes. His basketball teams had an overall record of 58-39 with a school record 20-4 in 1966-67.

Wissen joined Dist. 214 in 1957 with Prospect High School and assisted in the same sports he's been connected with all 'long.

Prior to that, he began coaching in 1954 at Arlington Junior High. It is now known as South Junior High.

Wissen's hometown is Rockford. He attended a private school — Todd School for Boys — in Woodstock where he excelled in basketball.

He enrolled at Purdue University in 1949 and earned a freshman numeral. After completing two years, he finished his education at Northern Illinois University where he earned his BS in physical education. He also won a letter there in basketball before hurting his back and sidelining him in his senior year.

Wissen received his MA in 1966 from Northern.

He will be returning to the area with his wife, Elaine, and his two children — Bill, 12, and Jo Ann, 9.

That First Pro Season

End Of Ordeal For Pete

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

ATLANTA, Ga. — (NEA) — Right now, Pete Maravich is in the process of getting lost on some sunny beach where he doesn't have to answer questions about basketball. The season is over for him, and Pete said, "The next time you see me, I'll be so tan you'll think I'm one of the brothers."

The "brothers" Pete gesticulated toward the last time he was with his fellow Atlanta Hawks in a dressing room, are the five black players with whom he shared the major portion of time on the court.

He was the white intruder into the ensemble, the fabulously paid rookie whose presence (not necessarily personality) bred discontent on the team and whose skills were suspect, considering the money he got. He missed the last four shots he took this past basketball season, all driving layups or short jumpers; and that failure led directly to the elimination of the Hawks in the NBA playoffs.

But let me tell you this: Pete Maravich is going to be one great professional basketball player. The brothers know it best of all, and are beginning to appreciate the kid they once resented.

"He's going to be a monster in the future," said Walt Hazzard, who could have been bitter because Pete's arrival threatened his status as the floor leader of the Hawks.

"He's going to be better than Jerry West," said Bill Bridges, a strong forward and a team spokesman. "He drives better, handles the ball better, and he's quicker. He proved himself to us."

Even as the Hawks failed as a team, eliminated by the New York Knicks in the first round of the playoffs, with Maravich blowing plays in the closing minutes of several games, Pete showed why he belongs. He can play defense — Coach Richie Guerin, on his neck all year, actually praised him for the tenacity with which he clung to the Knicks' Walt Frazier in the last playoff game. He can subdue his tendency to hog the action — Pete let Hazzard set the tempo of action most of the time.

But most important, he showed exciting ability that sets off the special ones in sports — a Joe Namath, a Willie Mays, a Bobby Orr. He drove successfully on Frazier, the best defensive guard in the league. He shot spectacularly in spots.

"He's got the talent to beat his man on every play," said Hazzard appreciatively, then added cautiously, "but he's got to have more control or he'll hurt himself out."

That fact is beginning to sink in on Pete, too, after a season that he found personally exasperating and exhausting and frustrating.

"When they say for you to control certain things you do," he said, "you do it. You're getting paid for it. I'm playing with guys who are making their bread also, not kids studying to be doctors or lawyers. It's different."

"I experienced a lot of things this year. You got about three days. I'll tell you about it. When I remember some of the things that happened, I could leave this whole year out of my life."

At 22, Pete was suddenly exposed to the pressure of being a national celebrity, of having little privacy, and it ate at him. It wasn't like being at Louisiana State under the protective wing of his own father, the coach. In Atlanta, he had his $1.6 million contract for a shield but it didn't shelter a bruised ego. Or make his relations with the other Hawks any easier.

"I hope a lot of this dies down by next year," said his coach, Guerin, "and he can lead a normal life. He's had a lot of pressure."

The real settling down of Pete Maravich will come when his performance on the court warrants all the attention he receives. He had a symptom of acceptance when he took his last postgame shower of the season, and in the special way athletes have of communicating with each other, Jerry Chambers, another Hawk, said to him, "You played, man. Don't let anybody tell you that you didn't play."

Elk Grove Falls, 4-3

Dennis O'Keefe scattered nine hits while teammate Mike Pryor delivered a key sixth-inning single as Forest View edged host Elk Grove 4-3.

The Grenadiers loaded the bases with just one out in the bottom of the seventh, but O'Keefe got Steve Scholten on a medium fly to right and fanned pinch-hitting Mark Workman to preserve the air-tight victory.

The victors drew first blood when Ed Bansfield connected on his first of two hits. Bansfield toured the rest of the bases as the result of two Elk Grove errors.

The Grenadiers knotted the score in the second on Nick Adams' infield hit, a walk and Tom Claes drive to right before taking a 3-1 advantage in the third on an error and hits by Bob Chen and Scholten.

In the decisive Falcon sixth, Bob Bergadon walked, advanced to third on two wild pitches, watched as Pete Ceraulo walked and then tallied on Pryor's single to left. Ceraulo carried home the winner on an error.

O'Keefe was hardly a puzzle for the Grenadiers, but he managed to bear down in tough situations by coming up with the big pitch. He walked three, struck out eight and hit a batter, but was in command during the last four shutout innings.

Southpaw Dave Hilderbrand started for the Grenadiers, but was lifted in favor of Bob Thulin with one out in the fourth. Thulin was tagged with the loss in relief.

'Y' Girl Gymnasts Finish 3rd In National Feature

Six young ladies from six different high schools returned from New Canaan, Conn. embracing a most highly valued trophy.

These girls, representing the Northwest Suburban YMCA, in Des Plaines, captured third place in the National YMCA Women's Gymnastics Championships.

To earn this victory, the girls had to match talent against 14 teams and 70 girls from all over the U.S.A. and compete against such gymnasts as Linda Metheny and Diane Bolin, members of the 1968 Olympic Team. The competition was the toughest in the country.

The championships, which are run just like the Olympics, began with compulsory routine competition on Friday. After the compulsory round, the girls found themselves in fourth place with a score of 91.65.

Team score is achieved as follows: the score of the top three girls in each of the four events is totaled for team score. The girls are scored by International Rules and their scores are comparable to Olympic scores. Leading the team was Kathy Pontow, freshman from Steinmetz High School. Kathy was one of the top three girls in every event: balance beam, uneven parallel bars, free exercise and vault.

Mary Cronin, Junior at Arlington High School, scored in every event except vault.

Debby Hicks, freshman at Glenbrook South High School, scored in every event except balance beam.

Kim Lothery, freshman at Forest View High School, scored in balance beam and vault.

Saturday was a day of pressure. Leading the drive for third place was Kathy Pontow. Kathy hit fantastically, as she scored a 9.05 in free exercise to qualify for the evening finals. A little later Kathy came back with a tremendous 9.1 balance beam. Kathy was solid on the four-inch wide beam, hitting such tricks as her one-hand front walkover effortlessly.

Kim Lothery, doing the difficult Yamashita vault for the first time in competition scored a fine 8.1. She hit beautifully on the beam, scoring a 7.65. Kim did her one-armed cartwheel perfectly.

Mary Cronin surprised with an excellent 8.00 in free exercise to compensate for her 7.65 in uneven bars. Mary missed just enough to lose a chance to qualify for the finals.

Maine-Northfield Opens Season

Maine-Northfield Little League's minor and major division players will open their season this weekend newly inspired from the league's clinic held for them last Saturday and Sunday at Maine East High School.

Conducted by Wes Rinker, St. Louis Cardinal Scout and director of the Illinois Valley Baseball School for boys, and Lou Rosin, another former major league player, the clinic brought instructions in fielding, batting, running and throwing to all MNLL players from all divisions. It also was disclosed that Rinker will return to conduct a three day baseball school June 14, 15 and 16 at the MNLL field.

Three of Saturday's opening day games will be played at Glen Grove field, which has been newly refurbished in a cooperative program between the league and the Glenview Park District. MNLL president Ed Karlins has been high in his praise of the cooperation received from the District, which, he said, "did a magnificent job in putting the field into shape."

Saturday's other three minor games will be played in MNLL's major field, which will be renamed and dedicated at 2 p.m. Sunday to Merv Schakowsky, manager and equipment officer who died last year. All of the late Mr. Schakowsky's friends are invited to attend the brief ceremonies preceding the game.

Arbor Day Not Special To Foresters

Arbor Day being observed Friday and Saturday is described as "the day designated to plant trees." However, planting trees is a year round job for the Illinois Department of Conservation's Division of Forestry.

The 122 full time employees of the Forestry Division located throughout Illinois do everything from planting trees to helping market lumber.

"A forester's job starts with a seed and from there is an endless task," said State Forester H. F. Siemert.

The Forestry Division is split into five sections: reforestation, woodland management, forest products, fire control and urban forestry. The goal of each is to improve the woodlands and environment of Illinois.

The reforestation section annually provides about 65 million seedlings for planting to 2,000 to 2,500 landowners and industries in the state at a minimum cost. The state has nurseries in Union and Mason Counties for growing the seedlings.

"THESE SEEDLINGS are basically intended for rural land reforestation rather than for ornamental value. Under no circumstances do we allow trees to be re-sold or used for landscaping," Al Mickelson, staff forester in charge of reforestation, said.

This section also handles the reforestation of state parks and conservation areas and manages the four state forests located in Union, Henderson, Shelby and Mason counties. The 12,000 acres of state forests have multiple use recreational facilities including picnicking, camping, horse trails, cycling, fishing and hunting.

Last year the woodland management section dealt with over 2,000 requests for assistance. These requests took the 21 district foresters over 55,000 acres of timber land.

We look at the forest and tell the landowner what is there, how fast it is growing, whether it should be thinned out or what. We can only make suggestions though the landowner has to make the decisions. Lou Sohaney, staff forester, said.

TWENTY FIRE WARDENS are scattered across the state to prevent fire from destroying Illinois' 7 million acres of timber and adjoining fields. Last year 201 forest fires destroyed 7,082 acres of timber.

The urban forestry section was created in 1968. The intent of this section is to improve the quality of the urban environment with woody plants," said Ernie Kunze, staff forester.

WE TRY TO develop a tree and shrub planting program to fit the needs of the community. Although we are geared to help all the cities, we are focusing our attention on the smaller communities of 5,000 or less which have limited resources. Kunze said.

Last year this section answered 1,100 requests for assistance and helped develop multiple use plans for communities interested in beautifying parks, boulevards and streets.

The forest products section is designed to encourage and assist the forest products industry in the state. The section also publishes a quarterly magazine for timber buyers and sellers entitled, "Wooden Dollars."

Brigade Unit Sets Dinner

A dinner meeting for participants and supporters of the Douglas MacArthur brigade will be held at 6:30 tonight at the Scandia House Restaurant, Mount Prospect Plaza shopping center, Rand and Central Mount Prospect.

The brigade is sponsored by the National Remember the Pueblo committee, of which the Rev. Paul Lindstrom, a Prospect Heights minister, is chairman. Purpose of the group brigade is to stage commando raids in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia to free U.S. prisoners held by the Communists.

Speakers at tonight's meeting will include Lindstrom, Roland Rennie, of Barrington, the Veterans' organizer for the brigade, and George Dewey, advisory staff member of the brigade.

Dewey, a correspondent for World Wide News Service, has spent more than 600 days covering U.S. marines in combat in South Vietnam.

Individuals planning to attend may call Lindstrom at 219-8736 for reservations. Lindstrom unveiled the Pueblo Committee's plan for the commando raids earlier this year and at the same time issued a plea for volunteers. He said yesterday that between 90 and 100 volunteers have been accepted.

Theft Reported

About 165 packages of cigarettes and an unknown amount of currency was stolen Monday from the Oakton and Mount Prospect Mobile Service station in Des Plaines.

According to Des Plaines police, William Glad of Elk Grove Village discovered the theft after he saw a large hole had been cut through a side window.

STATE FORESTS are more than just trees. They offer a wide variety of recreation to the public, including hunting, fishing, hiking, camping, picnicking and horseback riding.

Charity Fair Set Saturday

Twenty-six area organizations are preparing booths for the first annual Charity Fair Saturday at the Mount Prospect Plaza.

The event sponsored by the Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Association, will resemble a country fair with booths selling everything from baked goods to handicrafts," according to Adele Jeschke, publicity chairman. Proceeds from booth sales will go to the organization's selected charity.

Fair hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the plaza Rand and Central Roads.

Besides booths 10 of the organizations have chosen candidates for Charity Fair Queen, who will be announced at 3:30 p.m., following a demonstration by the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps. The organizations have been collecting votes for their candidates at a penny a piece, the candidate with the most votes will be queen.

Mrs. William Poruba of Des Plaines has been selected as the candidate sponsored by the Northwest Suburban League of United Cerebral Palsy. All money collected at the fair by the league will be used for a day summer camp in Arlington Heights for Multiple Handicapped children.

The Mount Prospect Nurses' Club is sponsoring Phyllis Weiling of Mount Prospect. Mrs. Weiling has been a nurse for six years and is a graduate of Columbus Hospital School of Nursing in Chicago.

Debbie Bell, a distributive education student at Arlington High School, is being sponsored for queen by the Mount Prospect Plaza Goldblatt's Store. Miss Bell lives in Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Donald Long of Mount Prospect will represent the Mount Prospect Women's club in the queen contest. Mrs. Long is president of the club.

Bonnie Cassidy of Des Plaines will represent the Teenagers for Special Kids (TASK) in the contest. Theima Volner, who lives in Palatine, is being sponsored by the Northwest Assembly of God.

Jan Kwieniak of Wheeling is the queen candidate for the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corp.
